A CONGRESSMAN KILLED

During a Conflict Between Cuban Political Parties.

Violation of Alien Labor Law—France May Punish Castro—Responsibility For Elevated Wreck—Extension of the Erie—Regimental Post at Sturgeon Point—Printers' Strikes.

Congressman Enrique Villuendas, leader of the Cuban Liberal party and the most able orator in the lower house, and the chief of police of Cienfuegos were killed during a conflict between the two political parties, the Liberals and Moderates.

The government advises say the police had information that within the hotel in which Villuendas resided a quantity of arms had been deposited and they went there to investigate. As the police ascended the stairs, they were met by a party of Liberals who fired on them, killing Chief of Police Illance. The police returned the fire, killing Villuendas and wounding several others.

Government dispatches say that besides Congressman Villuendas and Chief of Police Illance, two policemen were killed and several policemen and civilians wounded. Rural guards surrounded the entire block in which the Hotel Suisse, the scene of the affray, is situated. A search of the hotel revealed two dynamite bombs in the room occupied by Villuendas. The police in searching the hotel were carrying out the order of a judge who was informed that explosives were hidden there.

Acting on the advice of Senator Fries, the government sent a train of five cars loaded with rural guards, most of whom were destined for Cienfuegos, while the others will be distributed in Matanzas and Santa Clara, where advisers received by the government indicate serious trouble may occur at any time. The train also carries artillery and the troops are supplied with 13,000 rounds of ammunition. The balloting on Saturday was heavy. Returns indicate a sweeping victory for the Moderates in Havana and in the provinces. The Moderates are President Palma's party.

France May Punish Castro.

The latest phase of the Venezuelan situation, the refusal of the foreign office to deal with the French charge d'affaires, M. Taigny, has aroused considerable interest among government officials at Washington, who are anxiously awaiting the French government's next step in her troubles with President Castro. It is believed here that the near future will see forcible action taken against Venezuela by France.

Responsibility For Elevated Wreck.

Responsibility for the elevated railroad accident of Sept. 11 last in New York city when 12 passengers lost their lives through the fall of a car from the trestle on Ninth avenue was fixed by the state railroad commissioners. Their report found that Motorman Paul Kelly was responsible for the accident in running by cautionary signals which showed that the 53rd street switch was set for a Sixth avenue train. They also found that Switchman Cornelius A. Jackson contributed to the cause of the accident by having the switch set for a Sixth avenue train when the Ninth avenue train was displaying proper signals. Jackson was also blamed for having left the tower without being relieved.

Morris & Allen had the contract for the masonry and their men were working on the third story when the west wall went down carrying with it a portion of the front of the building and a section of the rear wall. That there was no serious loss of life was due to the fact that there was no roof on the building and that the mass of bricks fell out toward the street, the men being buried in the timbers of the interior.
