HEARST WILL CONTEST.

Bitter Legal Fight to Determine New York's Mayoralty.

British Fleet at New York - Was George IV.'s Wife-Suit Against Private Car Line - All Amendments Carried - Funeral of Sir George A. Williams,

A campaign to defeat Tammany Hall in the supreme court and to declare William Randolph Hearst the rightfully elected mayor of New York in place of George B. Mc-Clellan, was inaugurated at a crowded meeting of Municipal Ownership leaders on Wednesday and Mr. Hearst announced that with the evidence that 20,000 Hearst men were defrauded of their right to vote Tues day and that 1,000 election inspectors were guilty of illegal acts the contest would be carried immediately over the heads of the board of county canvassers into the supreme court.

The leaders said that in less than 24 hours after the polls closed the Municipal Ownership league had secured over 1,000 affidavits charging illegal acts against about 1,000 election Inspectors. These affidavits state that inspectors in question were Tamman; men. Mr. Hearst himself said that within a year a "chain of these men" would be sent to Sing Sing

It was also stated that in East Side assembly districts, including the 18th, Charles F. Murphy's home district, affidavits have been secured to show that at least 30,000 votes were illegal y cast on the names of voters who went to the polls to vote for Mr. Hearst and the Municipal Ownership league ticket, but who when they arrived found their names voted upon Liteady.

The first legal step in a fight to se cure a recount of the votes cast on election day was the granting of an order by Supreme Court Justice W. J. Gayor in Brooklyn compelling Police Commissioner McAdoo to remove every ballot box from all the precincts in Greater New York to the bureau of elections. The contest over the mayoralty election inaugurated by W. R. Hearst, the Municipal Ownership candidate, de-reloped interesting and spectacular For 12 hours the nearly 600,000 ballots in the boxes from the 1,948 election districts choked the streets in the vicinity of the headquarters of the board of elections in Sixth avenue. The ballot boxes had been gathered during the night by the police and conveved in patrol wagons and drays to the board's headquarters. There they were refused by the officials, The police had nothing to do but to Hearst appeared before State Supreme Court Justice Dickey and secured from him an order compelling John R. Voorhis, president of the board of elections, to accept the ballots. The order was served promptly and the ballots then were receipted for by the board.

Under strong guards the wagons containing the several thousand boxes were driven to various warehouses in New York and Brooklyn, where the ballots were stored subject to orders of Twelve Indictments. Ten indictments for violations of the election law and two for assaults committed at the polls at the election last Tuesday were drawn up by the grand jury.

It was announced at Tammany Hall that Tammany district captains have secured evidence showing frauds committed by Hearst's supporters on election day. Several leaders said that while a recount might lessen McClellan's vote the counter charges fraud which they intend to bring against the Hearst organization will likewise bring about the lessening of the Hearst vote and that in this way an equal reduction will be made in this vote, which will not affect the re-

British Cruisers at New York. Thousands stood and watched on the banks of the Hudson Thursday while six British warships in unison with double that number of American men-of-war fired a national salute of 21 guns in honor of King Edward on his 64th birthday. Bedecked from stem to stern with flags of many colors, the column of ships stretched for five miles up the Hudson from 42nd to 125th street, by far the largest, most formidable Anglo-American naval force ever assembled in home or foreign ports. As the last gun of the salute thun dered forth across the water came the strains of "God Save the King." The ands on the Drake, the flagship of Prince Louis, and on Rear Admiral Evans' flagship, the Maine, struck up the British anthem and quickly the melody was taken up by the bands on the battleship Alabama, flagship of Renr Admiral Davis, and on the ar mored cruiser West Virginia, flagship of Rear Admiral Brownson, until the music resounded to the shore, where

Suit Against Private Car Line.

Attorney General Moody on Monday filed a petition in the circuit court of the United States for the Eastern district of Wisconsin, brought under the Elkins law to test the legality of certain commissions paid by railroads (after the receipt of the published rates) to a private car transit company controlled by stockholders of the corporation shipping freight in these cars over the railroad lines. The case is regarded as of great general importance by the attorney general and will be presented to as speedy a hearing as a just regard for the interests of the defendants will per. mit. With District Attorney Butterfield Charles Quarles of the Milwaukee bar has been associated.

All Amendments Carried.

Incomplete returns from New York state indicate that all of the seven constitutional amendments which were voted on Tuesday have been carried. Although the amendments were of considerable importance only about one-third of the voters who went to the polls took the trouble to vote for or against the proposed changes in the constitution. Of the votes actually east the majority were in favor according to such figures as were available. In New York the excitement over the close contest for mayor has occupied the attention of the bureau of elections and the vote for and against the amendments has not yet been tabulated.

FEAST AT CONEY ISLAND.

British Bluejackets Entertained by Men of American Squadron.

Bowery at Coney Island Entwined With British and American Flags. After 15 Rounds of Beer Had Been Disposed of Men Started out to Do

New York, Nov. 14 .- "Blood is thicker than water." Written on the frontispiece of the menu cards, this famous saying of the American naval officer Tatnall never found more impressive expression than it did last night at the dinner on the Bowery at Coney Is land which the enlisted men of the first equadron of the United States North Atlantic fleet gave to the enlisted men of the second cruiser squadron of the in any other way, and he avers that British navy commanded by Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg.

It was the keynote of the cheering with which the 2,500 British and Amer ican sailors made the great pavilion ring to the echo. It was the toast to which they drank beneath the over hanging British and American flags. It was the theme of the speeches that followed the twelfth round of beers of this mammoth feast, unique in the history of all navies and which will long furnish the theme of yarns on many a British and American berth

Three cheers were given Rear Admiral Prince Louis and Rear Admiral Evans. Leaving the dinner for a few moments, they went into the balcony to watch the scene. Every sailorman was on his feet twirling his cap aloft and led by a quartermaster at the end of the hall the mighty company cheered.

Ovation to Two Admirals. There was another inspiring scene when after eating dinner the two admirals came down the center of the pavilion between the solid ranks of cheering bluejackets. This ovation touched the two commanders deeply The prince had an engagement at the horse show and was compelled to leave the banquet early. As he did so he stopped to congratulate Chief Quarter master Schumacher of the Maine, who as chairman of the committee on ar rangements and reception had charge of the preparations for the dinner The prince then shook hands with each of the "side boys" who were lined at the entrance to pipe the two admirals

"over the side." "You have given me and my men a splendid evening," the prince said as he passed between them," and I thank you for myself and for them. Blood is nicker than water and we are glad t be ashore," he added, paraphrasing the hearty sentiment "glad to see you ashore," which followed the .Tatnall's phrase on the menu cards' first page. Coney Island in the vicinity of the Bowery pavilion looked as if midsummer had returned. The fakirs were about the enclosure long before the sailors and the all-year-round residents packed the approaches to the hall to give the bunch a Coney welcome." Inside the picture was splendid Overhead a friese of British and American flags stretched around the hall and from each of the 12 chandeliers in the hall waved American and British flags. The balcony railing was intertwined with the colors of the two na

Across the lower end of the main hall was a long table, with four smaller tables adjoining at right angles. These were for the two commanders in-chief and the staffs and the execu tive officers of the fleets

The British and American sailors were assembled on board the flagships Maine and Alabama early in the afternoon and taken to Coney Island on three steamers. The band played a medley of popular sailor songs when the 2,500 sailors were being assigned their seats in the dining hall.

Evidence of Discipline. Another evidence of their discipline came when for nearly an hour they sat patiently awaiting the arrival of the prince and Admiral Evans with the other officers, who came in six special cars. The party reached the hall about 7 o'clock and were roundly cheered. Before the first course was finished the prince with Admiral Evans went to the balcony to view the scene. The bluejackets cheered for four minutes. When the bumpers were filled the ealth of the British navy was drunk, standing. Then came three cheers for Prince Louis, three for Admiral Evans and three for the British navy. During the dinner it developed that through some misunderstanding the British sailors had granted shore feave only until 7 o'clock this morning, but Prince Louis promptly extended the time until noon today, when his attention was called to it. By 10 o'clock the 15 rounds of been which each sailor received had been disposed of and the men started out to do Coney Island, Many of the amusement places opened up in honor of the visitors. At midnight the shooting galleries, the beer gardens and the other attractions were doing a rushing business, and the 2,500 sailors were having the time of their lives. The dinner was a return courtesy for the entertainment which the men of the American squadron received when in England several years ago, While the men made merry at Cone the warrant officers of the British squadron entertained the warrant officers of the American ships at a ball on the Drake, The dancing floor was thronged with some 200 couples.
