The pictures of Miss Alice Roosevelt's wedding dress by artists who have never been within 300 miles of it, must have been made by the correspondence school method.

FORMER President Cleveland is weary of his job as rebate referee for the big insurance companies. The question of what to do with our ex-Presidents then is still unsolved.

MARSHALL FIELD achieved distinction not by being the richest merchant in the world, but by being its greatest taxpayer. A more substantial conception of probity is not possible.

PRESIDENT HADLEY of Yale says that only a man with sporting blood can appreciate football. Presumably then, such a highly organized man would be in his glory if he could witness a train wreck.

ACCORDING to the forthcoming report of Secretary of Internal Affairs, Isaac B. Brown, a vast amount of detailed information concerning railroads in this state, will be made known. The report shows that 79 employees were killed and 2,093 injured; 116 other persons killed and 2,330 injured. In 1904 there were 272 persons killed and 2,116 injured. That's "killing them some."

ABOUT a year ago quite a number of Oil City and Franklin men were laboring under the delusion they were going to acquire sudden wealth through "diamond contracts." The promoters held out all kinds of inducements to the representatives of the local newspapers in an effort to secure their aid in pushing the thing along. They even guaranteed to double money invested in a very brief period, and succeeded in luring a good many who were yearning for quick returns and large profits.

THE state senate of Ohio, on Thursday, demonstrated the effect of release from the free pass influence, when without a word of discussion, and without a dissenting vote, a bill was passed, making two cents a mile the maximum rate of passenger fare that can be charged in that state. The bill was reported from the committee, with recommendation of passage Thursday and was regularly on the calendar for Friday, but one senator desiring a leave of absence, a motion was made to take it up out of its order which was done without objection.

JACK TARI'S GIN.

The Way Liquor Was Smuggled Aboard One of Our Warships.

While on the China station in 1883 the master at arms' mess on the United States steamer Onaha was in a drunken and demoralized condition for several weeks. Try as he might the captain could not discover where the liquor was coming from. Finally all shore liberty was stopped, but the drunkenness did not cease. On the morning of sailing while the executive officer was near the port gangway watching the taking in of stores he asked what was in a large demijohn that came over the side with boxes and packages. He was told that it was vinegar. He pulled the cork and sniffed it. It was vinegar. Then his demijohn was attracted by the tag marked "master at arms' mess," and, remarking that the mess must be using vinegar for bathing, as he had already seen the same demijohn brought aboard twice within that week, he ordered the officer of the deck to inspect it carefully and taste it. He did: it was vinegar. That officer, however, noticed that the jug had an unusually long neck. He poured out a small quantity of vinegar and discovered an extra cork in the bottom of the neck. Below that were three gallons of gin. The vinegar between the corks had served to deceive the inspecting officer at the gangway for a month.—Chicago News.

Splendid Fifth.

Captain E. S. Grogan, author of "The Nile as I Saw It," gives this description of a bit of scenery near the headwaters of the river of Egypt: "A long, slimy pool of putrefying reeds, where foul fish foregather and great pythons writhe and gorge themselves on hideous toads and silt; long, gleaming bands of gold, through labyrinths of fetid green and purple sump, where the fireflies dance, great butterflies flash, dragon flies glint and the suck-suck of swamp, the roar of huge bellied frogs, the cicada's scream, merge in a sad minor key; where in the ceaseless struggle between fruition and decay death wins."

Why Suffer?

Phillips Drug Co. WARREN, PA. Dear Sir:—I had been afflicted with rheumatism for 15 years and had tried every known remedy, but without any success, until I got a 50c bottle of Crocker's Rheumatic Remedy and only needed half a bottle and have not felt or suffered any pain since. How to Speak German.—You Can Learn the Language in Ninety Days.

Strange, but nevertheless true, you or anyone else can learn to speak, read and write the German language absolutely free. For 90 days, in every daily issue of The Pittsburgh Dispatch, a lesson in German will be printed so simple that a child with ordinary education can master the language. Parents who have children not old enough now to study them should cut out the lessons each day and save them. If you save the lessons all your children can learn German. Since the first of last July thousands have learned the Spanish and Italian languages from the simple lessons published in The Dispatch. More people, however, who would have liked to have learned those languages were prevented from doing so by not knowing about them. We hope everyone in this vicinity may read this item, and take advantage of the opportunity. The first lesson will be printed Monday, February 5. Tell your newsagent to leave you the Daily Dispatch regularly and get the benefit of these lessons—only 10 cents by the week.

At the suggestion of the druggist, who was a friend of mine, I began taking Thompson's Barosma, Kidney and Liver Cure, and I am happy to make the statement, which my wife will affirm, that five bottles of Thompson's Barosma completely cured me. Also I refer to my neighbors as to the above facts. Orson Hopkins, Townville, Pa. Barosma, 50c and $1.00. All druggists.
