

THE Smart & Silberberg STORES.

Come and See the New - Spring - Coats -

We are now making our initial showing of advance models in Spring Jackets. The bare announcement should insure large attendance. Though far from exhaustive the exhibit is educational, forecasting as it infallibly does, the fashion trend.

The long Coats of recent seasons will be supplanted by short, jaunty affairs to be worn with separate waists and skirts. These include box and half fitted and pony models, some collarless.

The fashionable fabrics are Coverts, Mannish Mixtures and Broadcloths.

Prices range $5.00, $6.00, $8.00, $10.00, $12.00, $15.00, $20.00.

Walking Skirts that are worth more money, $5.00.

There are some Walking Skirts in this lot.

They are designed according to the best fashions of the hour, trimmed with plaits, stitched with strappings, cut with full flare, etc. The most comfortable and sensible garments that can be worn during the stormy months of Spring.

The materials are Black and Blue Cheviot, Black and Blue Panama, Black and Blue Serge, Invisible Checks and Striped Mannish Mixtures and the Popular Plain Grays. Do not fail to see them.

Carlyle Corrected.
At a Royal academy dinner in London on one occasion several artists were expressing their enthusiasm about Titian. Carlyle and Thackeray were among the guests.
"His glorious coloring is a fact about Titian," said one man, striking the table to give emphasis to the remark.
"And his glorious drawing is another fact about Titian," cried another artist.
"And so they went on until Carlyle, who had been listening in silence to their rhapsodies, interrupted them by saying, with a slow deliberation which had its own impressive emphasis:
"And here I sit, a man made in the image of God, who knows nothing about Titian and cares nothing about Titian, and that's another fact about Titian."

Thackeray was sipping claret at the moment. He paused and bowed courteously to Carlyle. "Pardou me," he said, "that appears to be not a fact about Titian, but a fact, and a lamentable one, about Carlyle."

The First Iron Ship.
An iron boat was built in 1777 on the river Tross, in Yorkshire. It was fifteen feet long and was made of sheet iron. In 1815 Thomas Jevons launched a small iron boat on the Mersey. It was built by Joshua Horton near Birmingham and fitted up at Liverpool and was the first iron boat that floated on salt water. The first iron steam vessel was built by the Horsley company for the river Seine and called Anon Manby, after its projector. He took out a patent in France for iron steamships in 1829 and formed a society for the construction of such vessels. She was put together in London and took a cargo of linseed and iron castings to Havre and Paris. If, however, a Dutch tradition is to be credited ed the first iron vessel that ever floated was the famous Flying Dutchman herself. She was launched in 1657, and her fate was supposed to be a judgment on the impiety of those who violated the order of nature by making iron float.—London Graphic.

The Best Way to Rise in the World.
Young men are always being advised to "rise in the world."
Which may or may not be good advice. It depends upon:
How the young man rises, What he rises upon, What he rises to.
And here I sit, a man made in the image of God, who knows nothing about Titian and cares nothing about Titian, and that's another fact about Titian.

LE ROY PLOWS
win prizes whenever exhibited. We can give testimonials from some of the best farmers in the United States, who say "the Le Roy draws easier, holds easier, and does better work in all conditions of soil than any other plow used." Made by Le Roy Plow Co., Le Roy, N. Y. They are for sale by Lanson Bros., Tionesta.

Ice Picks and Art.
The career of Mr. Frederick MacMonnies as a sculptor began when, as a boy of five years, secretly tall enough to reach up to the top of the kitchen table, he modeled little figures in dough. Two years later he discovered a better material for his purpose. At that time a white wax chewing gum was much in fashion among children. Young MacMonnies saved his old pennies until he could buy what he wanted of it, and then he made from it an equestrian statue of George Washington, which is still among the family treasures.
When he was ten years old Barium's circus came to town. He was an enthusiastic admirer of the parade, and when the elephant appeared he became intense. He watched every motion and studied every line of the strange beast. Then he rushed into the house and, working as fast as he could, modeled from memory a clay elephant of which he need not be ashamed today. At thirteen he carved a likeness of a pet bulldog out of a Belgian paving block, with an ice pick for a chisel.—World's Work.

A Tough Meat Story.
Of the food served to the sailors in the British navy of 100 years ago a recent historian says: "A ship's company used to start a cruise upon the old meat returned from various ships and routed out from the obscure cellars of the victualling yards. Frequently it had been several years in salt before it came to the cook, by which time it needed rather a magician than a cook to make it edible. It was of a strong hardness, fibrous, shrunken, dark, gristly and glistening with salt crystals. Strange tales were told about it. Old pigtailed seamen would tell of horsehoes found in the meat casks, of curious barkings and neighings heard in the slaughter houses and of negroes who disappeared near the victualling yards, to be seen no more. The salt pork was generally rather better than the beef, but the sailors could carve fancy articles, such as boxes, out of either meat."

Horses and Medicine.
Healthy horses require no medicine, but there are so many intestinal parasites and so many kinds of worms that affect horses that constant supervision pays. Almost all young horses are better for a few feeds of sulphur in the springtime. Many horsemen like to give a little worm medicine, and each man has his favorite. A good many worm medicines are harmless, and if administered to a healthy colt will do no harm. Usually a keen horseman knows whether worm remedies are necessary or not, but in case of doubt it is a little safer to give the medicine, provided the medicine is really harmless. Some medicines are harmless and some are not. Stimulants are not necessary, and stimulating medicines should never be given except on the advice of a veterinarian.—St. Louis Republic.

Gladstone's Speech for Irving.
Gladstone was a great admirer of Sir Henry Irving, and this admiration was shown one day in the house of commons. Irving was under the gallery in the house when suddenly, without apparent reason, Gladstone leaped to his feet and delivered an impassioned speech, set off with all the expression and dramatic gesture for which he was so famous. The house seemed surprised. Members looked at one another and murmured. "What is the old man now up to?" They thought it was some deep political game. But a week or two later a friend of Irving's, encountering Mr. Gladstone, mentioned the actor's visit to the house, and Gladstone eagerly inquired: "What did he think of my speech? I made it for him."

Skinning a Sable.
The method of skinning a sable is to draw the skin over the head without any incision in the body. The feet and tail are left as part of the fur. Every third of an inch is valuable, for the average length of the animal is only twelve inches and the tail about six inches. In the reign of Henry VIII. the use of sable was forbidden to any below a viscount. A coat lined with sable is often worth from £300 to £400. A set of sable tails can hardly be sold for less than £50.—London Standard.

The Snail.
The slowest creatures in creation are snails and certain small beetles. Some of them habitually move only a foot or two in an hour, but this slowness is partly due to the fact that they remain motionless at intervals. By measuring the distances covered by snails when they were kept going constantly it has been found that the maximum speed of a good healthy snail is five and a half feet an hour.

Wiser Counsel.
"What's that sign you're making there?" asked the grocer.
"Fresh eggs," replied the new clerk.
"Make it 'Fresh laid eggs.'"
"Why—er—everybody knows the eggs were fresh when they were laid."
"Exactly, and that's all that's safe for us to say about them."—Philadelphia Press.

Real Merit.
Real merit of any kind cannot be long concealed. It will be discovered, and nothing can depreciate it but a man's exhibiting it himself. It may not always be rewarded as it ought, but it will always be known.—Chesterfield.

Solitude.
Solitude relieves us when we are sick of company and conversation when we are weary of being alone, so that the one cures the other. There is no man so miserable as he that is at a loss to use his time.—Seneca.

—I had a sore on the back of my hand for over a year caused by cutting it on a barbed wire. I used all the different remedies and the doctors opened it and treated, but it seemed to grow worse. My druggist advised me to try San-Cura Ointment, and one bottle cured the sore in two weeks. It is wonderful. E. A. Thompson, Hutchinson, Kansas. San-Cura Ointment 25 and 50c. All druggists.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.
Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

YELLOW JOURNALISM HEROISM.
Suddenly a wild shout rose from the terrified crowd.
Four trolley cars were approaching the same corner at full speed, and the usual mob was hustling across the street and trying to dodge them.
All at once a big, hulking coward became so insanely frightened that he ran amuck, and in making a break for the sidewalk bumped a woman and a baby out of his way. In doing this he knocked them from between the tracks, where in another moment they would have been struck by the trolley.
In an instant the still gibbering coward was surrounded by reporters from the evening papers, and half an hour later extras were on the street telling of his heroic rescue of the woman and child, and giving his picture across four columns.
Besides, there were editorials commending his case to the managers of the Carnegie fund.
Such is the stuff of which yellow journalism heroes are frequently made.—Judge.

SLIGHT CORRECTION.
Customer—I believe this is the same steak I made you take back yesterday.
Waiter—Oh, no, sir. The man opposite you got that one.
Boy Obeded Orders.
The Hon. Elihu Root, who has returned to the practice of law in New York city, has engaged a new office boy. Said Mr. Root: "Who carried off my paper basket?"
"Who is Mr. Reilly?" asked Mr. Root.
"The janitor, sir."
—An hour later Mr. Root asked, "Jimmy, who opened that window?"
"Mr. Lantz, sir."
Mr. Root wheeled about and looked at the boy. "See here, James, he said, 'we call men by their first names here. We don't 'mister' them in this office. Do you understand?"
In ten minutes the door opened and a small, shrill voice said: "There's a man here as wants to see you, Elihu."
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Harakiri.
"Speaking of self-made men," said the Savage Cynic, "there are lots of them I know who should improve themselves."
"How do you mean?"
"Finish themselves."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Truth About Truth.
Pupil—Please, teacher, why do they say that truth is stranger than fiction?
Teacher—Because it is rarer, Hester. Does any other pupil wish to ask a question?—Boston Transcript.

Resenting It.
"He writes that I am a cad."
"Tell him that you will pull his nose."
"I will—where's your telephone?"
—Glasgow Times.

Nearing the End.
Methuselah was in his nine hundred and sixty-eighth year. It was a long dry summer that year, too, and Abeldad the Bechemite, and Obadad the Dinnymite, were fretting over the drought.
"Yes," quavered Methuselah, fretting with his stout cane, "it is pretty warm; out I—"
Here Abeldad and Obadad winked knowingly at each other.
"But 'I,' Methuselah continued, "can't say that I recollect any year that ever has given us such a long dry spell."
Then Obadad and Abeldad walked softly away, saying one to another that the old man was showing his first signs of breaking down.—Judge.

Nothing New.
Joques—I see that a Connecticut genius has invented a glass skate.
Soques—Huh! that ain't nothing. I've got many a skate out of glass tumblers and bottles.—Chicago News.

Require Long Stations.
Yeast—They say in Russia they have some awfully long railroad stations.
Crimsonbeak—Of course.
"Why of course?"
"If the station was not awfully long how in the world would they ever get the name of the town on it?"—Yonkers Statesman.

The Saved Penny.
A penny saved is frequently a penny that has somehow worked down into the lining of your coat.—New Orleans Democrat.

Pure Olive Oil.
If olive oil congeals in freezing weather, it is a sign that it is adulterated with lard. Very few bottles of so called olive oil will stand this simple test—in fact, we seldom get the pure thing, and if we did, the chances are that we could not eat it. At least, that was the experience once upon a time of one woman who used a great deal of anonymous dressing upon her table and had supposed that she doted on olive oil. An Italian friend bestowed upon her a flask of the peculiarly green fluid. To her surprise, not one of her family, herself included, could bear its taste. There was a tunc to it which showed them that they had never eaten olive oil before and that they never wanted to eat it again. So they gave the flask away.—New York Telegram.

Thackeray's Apology.
Thackeray once wrote in a note to a friend, alluding to an incident occasioned by one of his articles in Punch: "I thought over the confounded matter in the railroad and wrote instantly an arriving letter of contrition and apology to Henry Taylor for having made what I see now was a flippant and offensive allusion to Mrs. Taylor. I am glad I have done it. I am glad that so many people whom I have been thinking bigoted and unfair and unjust toward me have been right and that I have been wrong, and my mind is an immense debt easier."
A Great Idea.
"My new play is sure to make a hit," said the great actress. "It gives me an opportunity to display twenty new gowns."
"Gracious!" exclaimed her friend. "How many acts?"
"Only four, but in one of them the scene's at a dressmaker's."—Philadelphia Press.

Rich's All Wool Sock
Woolrich PA.
DOUBLE HEEL AND TOE

To the People
Rich's Famous All Wool Sock has fallen into competition with a very inferior article. The imitation is so perfect that only an expert is able to detect the counterfeit with its cotton and shoddy mixtures, until the sock is put into service. Unscrupulous competitors are representing the sock as Rich's All Wool, thus deceiving the customer and injuring our reputation.
To protect ourselves and the trade in the future Rich's Socks will bear a Red Seal Trade Mark printed in white, a face simile of which is shown above.
