PASSING OF THE CHURCH SPIRE.

Many of the Recent Edifices Resemble Public Buildings. In the old days, when the church was chiefly regarded as a place in which to worship on Sunday, the quire was a perfect, visible symbol of the character of the building. It was a sign of God's house, and as such had its use., says Leslie's Weekly. Aside from this the spire had a bell, and, perhaps, a clock. Now, how changed! The rapid commercial progress of the era has shown no sentimmental regard for homes, churches, or anything else. The Baptists of late seem to have aken the most united move to get away from the spire and all that it means, but they are going to the other extreme. Many of their new churches look like public buildings, and some resemble a Cairo mosque. The Methodists, while doing away with the spire, have compromised in many instances on a tower.

The Norman and English Gothic. r "perpendicular Gothic" has come into high favor in city churches. This tyle is at once dignified and full of strength because of its massiveness,

One of the strangest looking churches in New York City is to be that of the Harlem Presbyterian. It s strictly Oriental at every point, startingly Byzantine from its front levation four stories high, to the illded dome and color effects. The ecessity for institutionalism knows no law except available room. One hurch in Pittsburg, recently comleted, has fifty-two rooms in the edifice. The cost of the spire has one into the interior.

A Century Ago.

Over 100 years ago Benjamin leary Latrobe was advocating the ovement in national education hich is now slowly but surely takng place in all of our great schools and colleges. The following is quotd from "The Journal of Latrobe," which the Appletons published last ear. The extract is dated 1798;

"American citizens may be diided into three classes-cultivators of the soil, artisans, and merchants. of the practical sciences, the first ave most occasion for a knowledge of chemistry, natural history, and natural philosophy; the second, of those branchebs of mathematics usually called mechanics (or materia applicata), and the third, of numeral mathematics. To each a general range of science is highly useful, but hese ought, in my opinion, to be the leading subjects of education in an American seminary. They may be acquired without the knowledge of Letin or Greek, although an acquaintance with these beautiful langoages will greatly ease the memory in retaining the technical vocabulary and assist in comprehending precise meaning of terms, most of which are taken from them."

Much-Traveled Cask.

Two of the drift casks which were t loose in Behring Sea at the instigation of President Henry G. Bryant of the Geographical Society of Philadelphia and of Admiral George W. Melville some years ago have been coast of Iceland, 2,500 miles from the point where it was cast overboard on the Alaskan coast. In its orthous course it proably traveled 4,000 miles. Its drift across the Arctic Ocean proves once more the existence of an Arctic current flowing from Behring Sea across the North Pole region. Fifty spindle-shaped casks were constructed from designs submitted by Admiral Melville and were sent north on United States revenue cutters and whaling ships to Behring

Each cask was numbered and contained a message in four languages, requesting the finder to notify the Geographical Society of Philadelphia if the cask turned up.

Many funeral customs in Greece are unique. The body of an unmarried girl is always dressed as a bride, the common saying being, "She is married to death." The body of a boy is always dressed as a sailor. Women never accompany funerals to church or to the graves. Processions are always on foot, the priest leading, accompanied by acolytes bearing the cross and lanterns.

The body of the deceased is invarfably exposed to view, and at the close of the service in the church, which concludes with the words, "Take the last kiss," both friends and strangers press about the body and give this token of farewell.

In Place of Human Sacrifice. The Kounds, of the Madras Presidency, India, have to offer a buffalo In sacrifice now instead of a human being. In so doing, they always make a long apology to their deity, explaining that they themselves would willingly make the customary sacrifice, but are prevented by the British government, on whose head they pray any anger at the neglect of duty may be visited.

When Cork Loses Buoyancy. Cork, though the most buoyant substance, will not rise to the surface again if sunk 200 feet below the ocean's surface, owing to the great pressure of the water. At any less depth it will work its way back to kissed me. the surface.

THE PROPER PREPARATION.

Despite Her Tender Years She Knew the Preliminaries.

William O'Brien, in his newly published "Recollections," tells this story of Dr. Coke, the archbishop of Cashel: "Once on one of his examinations of the children for confirmation, the archbishop put to a little girl the question from the catechism; What is the preparation for matrimony?' The little one blushed and giggled and put the corner of her bib in her mouth by way of answer. The question was repeated. 'Oh, sure, your lordship knows it yourself.' was the timid reply. Yes, but you must tell me, my child. What is the preparation for matrimony?" 'Well, my lord, a little courting, of course, at last came the reluctant answer from amid a rosary of blushes."

How, Indeed.

They had not been married very long, and that complete blissful trust which young husbands and wives have in each other had not yet been broken. But one morning wife meekly remarked:

"I mended the hole in your trousers pocket last night after you had gone to bed, John dear. Now, am I not a thoughtful little wife?"

Husband (dubiously) -Well-er -ye-es, you are thoughtful enough, my dear. But how the mischief did you discover there was a hole in my pocket?--Judge.

The Food Question.

"I must compliment you on the remarkable lightness of your bread." said the woman customer. "Thank you," rejoined the baker.

'It is my aim to turn out the lightest bread in the city.' "Yes," continued the woman customer, "and if you get it much lighter it will take two of your pound loaves to weigh sixteen ounces."-Answers.

Boarding-House Repartee. The literary boarder was perusing the advertising columns of an agricultural paper. "Here's an advertisement of a new device for feeding hogs," he remarked.

"If it isn't too expensive," said the landlady, "I'll buy one." And not one of the boarders grinned

Another Reformer. Stella-So you are really going to marry old Milyuns. I had no idea you were mercenary. Maude-I'm not. I am going to marry him to reform him. Stella-Reform him! I didn't know he had any bad habits. Maude-Yes, he has one. His friends say he is miserly.

No Chance for the Jury. "Gentlemen of the jury," queried the clerk of the court, "have you fully agreed to disagree?"

"We have," answered the foreman "The lawyers have bungled the case up so that we don't know any more about it than they do!"-Illustrated

Un Agninst It. "So your old bachelor friend really decided to get maried? Yes, and he says, now that he has taken the leap, he is going to sift married life to the bottom.' "And has he started?"

"Yes, the first day they returned from the honeymoon his wife started him sifting ashes."

A Chilly Turndown. Meek-I say, old chap, I'm in shocking bad luck. I want money badly, and I haven't the least idea where I can get it. Beek-Well, I'm glad to hear that. I thought perhaps you had an idea you could borrow from me .- Detroit Physical Evidence. "Do you know," said a Sunday school teacher, addressing a new pupll in the infant class, "that you have a soul?"

"Course I do," replied the little fellow, placing his hand over his heart, "I can feel it tick." Clara-I was so confused that I don't remember just how much he Maud-What! with the thing go ing on right under your nose.-Life.
