Of Their Investigation of Packing Houses.

Unsanitary Conditions Revealed Ir Chicago Slaughter Houses - President Recommends Passage of Beveridge Amendment Providing For Inspection of Domestic Meats.

nitely. Washington, June 5. - President Roosevelt yesterday sent to congress with an accompanying message the report of James Bronson Reynolds and Charles P. Neill of their investigation of the conditions of the slaughter houses and meat packing plants at the Chicago stockyards,

The president's message in part is as follows:

The report shows that the stock yards and packing houses are not kept even reasonably clean, and that the method of handling and preparing food products is uncleanly and dangerous to health.

Under existing law the national gdvernment has no power to enforce inspection of the many forms of prepared ment food products that are daily going from the packing houses into interstate commerce. Owing to an inadequate appropriation the department of agriculture is not even able to place inspectors in all establishments desiring them.

The present law prohibits the shipment of uninspected meat to foreign countries but there is no provision forbidding the shipment of uninspected meats in interstate commerce, and thus the avenues of interstate commerce are left open to traffic in diseased or spoiled meats.

If, as has been alleged on seemingly good authority further evils exist, such as the improper use of chemicals and dyes, the government lacks power to remedy them. A law is needed which will enable the inspectors of the general government to inspect and supervise from the hoof to the can the preparation of the meat food product. Greatest Evil In Prepared Products. The evil seems to be much less in the sale of dressed carcasses than in the sale of canned and other prepared products; and very much less as regards products sent aboard than as regard those used at home. I call special attention to the fact that this report is preliminary, and that the investigation is still unfinished. It is not yet possible to report on course were unavailing. Mr. Davitt's products, nor on the alleged doctoring uncooked. In this case the employe carted the chopped-up meat across room in a barrow, the handles of which

The meat was then thrown out upon tables, and the employe climbed upon the table, handled the meat with un washed hands, knelt with his dirty apron and trousers in contact with the meat he was spreading out, and, after were filthy with grease.

he had finished his operation, again took hold of the dirty handles of the wheelbarrow, went back for another load, and repeated this process indefi-

Inquiry developed the fact that there was no water in this room at all, and the only method the man adopted for cleaning his hands was to rub them against his dirty apron or on his still filthier trousers.

As an extreme example of the en tire disregard on the part of employes of any notion of cleanliness in hand ling dressed meat, we saw a hog that had just been killed, cleaned, washed and started on its way to the cooling room fall from the sliding rail to a dirty wooden floor and slide part way into a filthy men's privy. It was picked up by, two employes, placed upon a truck, carried into the cooling room and hung up with other carcasses, no effort being made to clean it.

Impressive Contrast In New York. In impressive contrast to the conditions that we saw in the stockyards of Chicago is an establishment that Mr. Reynolds visited in New York city It well merits a description in those particulars in which it is vastly su perior to similar concerns in Chicago The two upper floors used for cattle pens are paved with well-laid bricks and cement, with side walls of brick the top floor being covered to protect the cattle from the weather.

The killing floor is paved with blue stone, sloping toward well arranged drains, and has a large air shaft for special ventilation and abundant win dows. The celling and upper side walls are of hard cement, with steel crossbeams and cement-faced steel supports. The lower side walls are covered with white porcelain brick.

When the slaughtering of each day is finished, water is turned on, and in not more than 15 minutes the room is so thoroughly cleansed that all perceptible odors and traces of the work are removed.

GOT CARNEGIE MEDAL.

And the $1,200 Will Pay Mortgage on His Home,

Wilkes-Barre, June 5,-William Wat kins, a young mine worker of Edwardsville, near here, is the first anthracite miner to receive a Carnegie medal for heroism and $1,200 from the hero fund. This is in recognition of his act of heroism on Sept. 3, 1904, when he saved the lives of three men at the imminent risk of death. He was greatly surprised by the news that the medal was to be given him. There had been an explosion in the No. 4 colliery of the Kingston Coal company. As the workers rushed out of the mine Watkins realized that three men, who were at the bottom of the slope where the explosion occurred, might be alive. He turned back and calling to his comrades ic stand by to help he rushed down the slope

"The explosion had knocked out the props," he said, "and the roof was falling. The black damp was gather ing and I knew I had to work quick. Brinley Davis was burned had, so was Joe Winchent, while Reese Williams was caught under a car which had been blown on top of him. I could not pull him out. The only way was to lift the car. I tried three times before I could get it up a bit and he managed to wriggle out. Davis and Winchent were wild crazy. They all recovered and are working in the mines now."

C. T. Mathews of 93 Water street, New York city, a wealthy Welshman who takes a great interest in his couttrymen, heard of Watkins' heroism through friends and was so impressed that he gave Watkins a handsome gold medal himself and later brought the case to the notice of the Carnegie Hero Fund commission.

The $1,200 which Watkins will get will just pay off the mortgage on his house.

Orders to drop the names of all alien Japanese from the papers of every warship in this country have been issued by Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte. He further directs that the places of Japanese who have been employed as stewards and servants are to be filled by American negroes. The story is told by officers of the American battle ships now at anchor in the North river, that less than a month ago a midshipman discovered a Japanese steward making plans of the business section of the turrets of one of the latest types of warships. The Jap's personal effects were searched by order of the commander of the ship. It was discovered that he had been working for weeks on

Josephine Terranova has been acquitted of the murder of her aunt, Concetta Riggio, for which she has been on trial for several weeks. She was, however, not released, being remanded to the Tombs to answer to the charge of murdering her uncle, who was killed at the same time as his wife, The verdict was such a complete surprise to Assistant District Attorney Ely, who has conducted the prose cution, that he was unable to say definitely whether the second charge would be prosecuted.

The verdict was the more surprising from the fact that, the killing being admitted, Judge Scott in his charge instructed the jury that in default of justification, which plea he said had not been advanced, and there being little evidence of the abuse alleged as an excuse, except the prisoner's own testimony, they should properly find a verdict of murder in the first degree.
