GOT CARNEGIE MEDAL.

And the $1,200 Will Pay Mortgage on His Home.

Wilkes-Barre, June 5.—William Watkins, a young mine worker of Edwardsville, near here, is the first anthracite miner to receive a Carnegie medal for heroism and $1,200 from the here fund. This is in recognition of his act of heroism on Sept. 3, 1904, when he saved the lives of three men at the imminent risk of death. He was greatly surprised by the news that the medal was to be given him.

There had been an explosion in the No. 4 colliery of the Kingston Coal company. As the workers rushed out of the mine Watkins realized that three men, who were at the bottom of the slope where the explosion occurred, might be alive. He turned back and calling to his comrades to stand by to help he rushed down the slope.

"The explosion had knocked out the props," he said, "and the roof was falling. The black damp was gathering and I knew I had to work quick. Brinsley Davis was burned bad, so was Joe Winchert, while Reese Williams was caught under a car which had been blown on top of him. I could not pull him out. The only way was to lift the car. I tried three times before I could get it up a bit and he managed to wriggle out. Davis and Winchert were wild crazy. They all recovered and are working in the mines now."

C. T. Mathews of 93 Water street, New York city, a wealthy Welshman who takes a great interest in his countrymen, heard of Watkins' heroism through friends and was so impressed that he gave Watkins a handsome gold medal himself and later brought the case to the notice of the Carnegie Hero Fund commission.

The $1,200 which Watkins will get will just pay off the mortgage on his house.

REYNOLDS-NEIL REPORT

Of Their Investigation of Packing Houses.

Unsanitary Conditions Revealed In Chicago Slaughter Houses — President Recommends Passage of Beveridge Amendment Providing For Inspection of Domestic Meats.

Washington, June 5.—President Roosevelt yesterday sent to congress with an accompanying message the report of James Bronson Reynolds and Charles P. Neill of their investigation of the conditions of the slaughter houses and meat packing plants at the Chicago stockyards.

The president's message in part is as follows:

The report shows that the stock yards and packing houses are not kept even reasonably clean, and that the method of handling and preparing food products is uncleanly and dangerous to health.

Under existing law the national government has no power to enforce inspection of the many forms of prepared meat food products that are daily going from the packing houses into interstate commerce. Owing to an inadequate appropriation the department of agriculture is not even able to place inspectors in all establishments desiring them.

The present law prohibits the shipment of uninspected meat to foreign countries but there is no provision forbidding the shipment of uninspected meats in interstate commerce, and thus the avenues of interstate commerce are left open to traffic in diseased or spoiled meats.

If, as has been alleged on seemingly good authority further evils exist, such as the improper use of chemicals and dyes, the government lacks power to remedy them. A law is needed which will enable the inspectors of the general government to inspect and supervise from the hoof to the can the preparation of the meat food product.

Greatest Evil in Prepared Products.

The evil seems to be much less in the sale of dressed carcasses than in the sale of canned and other prepared products; and very much less as regards products sent abroad than as regards those used at home.

I call special attention to the fact that this report is preliminary, and that the investigation is still unfinished. It is not yet possible to report on the alleged abuses in the use of deleterious chemical compounds in connection with canning and preserving meat products, nor on the alleged doctoring in this fashion of tainted meat and of products returned to the packers as having grown unsalable or unusable from age or from other reasons. Grave allegations are made in reference to abuses of this nature.

Let me repeat that under the present law there is practically no method of stopping these abuses if they should be discovered to exist. Legislation is needed in order to prevent the possibility of all abuses in the future. If no legislation is passed, then the excellent results accomplished by the work of this special committee will endure only so long as the memory of the committee's work is fresh, and a recrudescence of the abuses is absolutely certain.

The report of the investigators is in part as follows:

As directed by you, we investigated the conditions in the principal establishments in Chicago engaged in the slaughter of cattle, sheep and hogs and in the preparation of dressed meat and meat food products. Two and a half weeks were spent in the investigation in Chicago, and during this time we went through the principal packing houses in the stockyards district together with a few of the smaller ones. A day was spent by Mr. Reynolds in New York city in the investigation of several of the leading slaughtering houses.

Snake's Poison Sucked by Gas Pump.

Franklin, Pa., June 5.—The resourcefulness of Henry Corbett, an oil well pumpner at Clintonville, saved the life of Bertha Collinwood, 14 years old, whose leg had been bitten by a copperhead snake. When the girl ran screaming to Corbett he bound the leg above tightly and below the wound and then carried her to the pump station, in which was a suction gas pump. He placed the wound over the end of the pipe which takes in the air and held it there for several minutes. In this way all the poison was sucked out of the wound, and the girl is recovering.

ASSASSIN ENDS HIS LIFE

Manuel Morales Killed a Guard and Himself.

Navy to Bar Japanese — Terranova Woman Acquitted—Battle in Mexican Mining Town—Death of Michael Davitt—Barnes' Liability Bill Signed—Crowded Car Overturned.

The capture by villagers and suicide on Saturday night at Torrejon de Ardos of Manuel Morales, the chief suspect in the bomb outrage against King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, adds another dramatic chapter to the incidents surrounding the royal wedding.

Morales was recognized in the little town of Torrejon de Ardos, mid way between Madrid and Alcala. A guard sought to detain him, but Morales, drawing a revolver, shot the guard dead.

Then he turned to flee, but a number of the inhabitants of the town were upon him, and turning the revolver upon himself he sent a shot in the region of his heart, expiring a few minutes later.

Tragedy at Royal Wedding.

The public rejoicings at Madrid over the marriage of King Alfonso and the Princess Victoria had a terribly dramatic sequel at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon as a bomb thrown from an upper window exploded with deadly effect near the coach occupied by the king and queen.

Providentially, King Alfonso and Queen Victoria escaped by an electric wire deflecting the bomb, but at least 16 persons, most of them being of the personal and military escort and others spectators, were killed. Many others were injured.

The place from which the bomb was thrown is a boarding house. The chamber from which the missile was hurled was taken May 22 by a man from Barcelona giving the name of Moral. When the police surrounded the house the man attempted to flee but was captured. Another man escaped over the roofs of houses.

Many arrests have been made, among them that of Manuel Duran, a Catalonian, who is believed to have been the principal conspirator. It is said that immediately on the explosion Duran was seized and hurried down stairs. As he entered the street men flung themselves upon him shouting "kill the assassin." A mounted guard pressed around and took him away under strong escort. It had been rumored that King Alfonso a few days ago received an anonymous warning of an intended outrage but the authorities deny this.

A member of the civil guard has recognized Hamilton, an English suspect, as a companion of Manuel Morales on the balcony from which the bomb was thrown at the royal carriage. The two men were also seen together at Barcelona.

Navy to Bar Japanese.

All Japanese are to be excluded from the navy July 1, unless they produce citizenship papers or a signed declaration that they intend to take out the same. In future no Japanese will be allowed in the navy unless he renounces the mikado in favor of the stars and stripes.

Orders to drop the names of all alien Japanese from the papers of every warship in this country have been issued by Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte. He further directs that the places of Japanese who have been employed as stewards and servants are to be filled by American negroes.

The story is told by officers of the American battle ships now at anchor in the North river, that less than a month ago a midshipman discovered a Japanese steward making plans of the business section of the turrets of one of the latest types of warships.

The Jap's personal effects were searched by order of the commander of the ship. It was discovered that he had been working for weeks on plans of the ship and that he was a remarkably fine draftsman.

Terranova Woman Acquitted.

Josephine Terranova has been acquitted of the murder of her aunt, Conceita Reggio, for which she has been on trial for several weeks. She was, however, not released, being remanded to the Tombs to answer to the charge of murdering her uncle, who was killed at the same time as his wife.

The verdict was such a complete surprise to Assistant District Attorney Ely, who has conducted the prosecution, that he was unable to say definitely whether the second charge would be prosecuted.

The verdict was the more surprising from the fact that, the killing being admitted, Judge Scott in his charge instructed the jury that in default of justification, which plea he said had not been advanced, and there being little evidence of the abuse alleged as an excuse, except the prisoner's own testimony, they should properly find a verdict of murder in the first degree.

Outbreak at Mexican Mine Quelled.

The situation in the copper mines at Cananea, Mexico, is normal. The American volunteers who went across the line at Naco, with Governor Ysabel of Sonora on Saturday morning, returned to Bisbee Sunday morning. Their services were no longer needed, although their presence there during Saturday before the arrival of Colonel Kosterlisky with Mexican rurales held the situation in check.

The town is now under martial law, and Colonel Kosterlisky is disarming

Americans and Mexicans alike. A tel ephone message says no shots have been fired since Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock. Colonel Kosterlisky and Governor Ysabel, assisted by Genera Torres, are on the ground and Colone Greene, chief owner of the Cananea copper mine, makes the statement that the trouble is over.

A conservative estimate of the number killed in the two days fighting is 35 Mexicans and six Americans.

Week's Program in Congress.

The probabilities in the United States senate this week include consideration of a number of appropriation bills and conference reports, the statehood question, the railroad rate bill, the subjects of the type of canal to be constructed across the Isthmus of Panama, and the right of Senator Smead to retain his seat in the senate.

The week's business will begin with the taking up of the conference report on the rate bill and it will hold the favored position until disposed of.

The program for the week in the house contemplates work on the sun dry civil appropriation bill. There are several matters, however, which may interrupt this plan. These are railroad rate bill conference report and the Payne bill making minor changes in the administration of customs laws.

Eight-Hour Bill to Be Reported.

The house of representatives committee on labor has authorized a favorable report on the eight-hour bill. Chairman Gardner of New Jersey said there was no opposing vote.

The bill provides that eight hours shall constitute a day's work in the manufacture of any supplies for the government or in any work done for the government by contract. Every such contract shall stipulate a penalty for each violation of $5 for each laborer or mechanic for each and every calendar day in which he shall labor more than eight hours. Nothing in the act shall apply to transportation by land or water nor shall the provisions and stipulations in the act provided for affect so much of a contract as is to be performed by way of transportation or for such materials as may usually be bought in the open market.

Death of Michael Davitt.

A notable career closed Wednesday night last when, after a long and painful illness, Michael Davitt died peacefully and painlessly at 12 o'clock. In the presence of his eldest son, Michael, and his two daughters who had devotedly attended him through his illness, and of many of his most intimate friends, including John Dillon.

Death was due to blood poisoning which followed two operations for necrosis of the jaw bone and spread so rapidly that all efforts to stay its course were unavailing. Mr. Davitt's illness began with an insidious attack of toothache, to which he paid no attention until John Dillon urged him to have recourse to medical advice.

Barnes Liability Bill Signed.

Railroad corporations in New York state will be liable for personal injuries to employes even when caused by the negligence of fellow employes so far as the much discussed "follow service rule" of the common law is concerned, under the terms of the so-called Barnes liability bill, which became a law this week by the signature of Governor Higgins. The bill was perhaps the most important labor bill passed by the legislature this year and it was bitterly fought by the railroad corporations at every stage of its progress.

Junior Crews Race on Cayuga Lake.

The Cornell junior varsity crew defeated the Pennsylvania junior crew on Lake Cayuga on Memorial day. The race was one of the closest seen at Ithaca in recent years. Pennsylvania began with a spurt and the shells raced abreast throughout the two miles with slight alterations of position, which kept the spectators in continuous excitement. Cornell began to draw away in the last 200 yards and finished a length and a quarter ahead. The official time was Cornell 11:01 2-5, Pennsylvania 11:05.

Winder Coal Strike Ended.

The Winder coal strike in Pennsylvania, which has been the cause of bloodshed is over. The men returned to work Friday in the mines of the Berwind-White Coal company as a result of a mass meeting held in a grove Thursday. It was pointed out by the speakers that as 80 percent of the men had gone to work it would be advisable for all to do so. The 1903 scale will be paid by the company and accepted by the men.
