LAKE CALLED SPEAKING GOD.

Superstition Arising From Beating of Waves on Beach.

Manitoba Lake, which lies northwest of Fort Garry, and has given a title to the province formed out of he Red River region derives as name from a small Island from which in the stillness of the night issues a mysterious noise. On no account will the Ojibway approach or land on this island, supposing it to be the home of the Manitou, the "Speaking God." The cause of this curious sound is the beating of the waves against the "shingle" or large pebbles lining the shores. Along the northern coast of the island is a long, low cliff of fine grained compact limestone, which, under the stroke of the hammer, clinks like steel. The waves beating on the shore at the foot of the cliff cause the fallen fragments to rub against each other and to give out a sound resembling the chimes of distant bells. The phenomenon occurs when the gales blow from the north, and then when the winds subside, low walling sounds, like whispering voices, are heard in the air. Travelers assert that the effect is impressive, and that they have been awakened at night under the impression they were listening to church bells

How Ostriches are Selected.

In selecting ostriches for menageries or zoological gardens, the as littest are chosen; not because it 'I be necessary for them to run in their new quarters, but because "I'tness is a good indication of calth and robustness.

One of these agents visited a pen ostriches in Africa. At his call, to beautiful birds came up to him. Being desirous of testing their speed, or pringed with the keeper that har should run a race; so he caer and the birds, and showed them handful of figs, of which they are ery fond.

The ostriches were held while the litor walked to a certain distance. at a signal they were set free, and ran to run for the figs. They bounding along at a terrific aling twelve or fourteen feet

They ran neck and neck for more han half the distance, their wings working like arms and making a great sound. Presently one drew head, and, looking behind, as a boy a foot race might do, to see where is rivel was, and finding the other ne beaten, the winner slackened his once and gently trotted up for the Colors of the Sen.

Sea colors are generally unstable. autiful sea-plants that tempt us in the rock-pools along the shore their brilliancy when taken rea the water. The dying dolphin larws all the colors of pearls or als, coming and going on his shimving side. The sea itself is chameon like in its changing hues. One sho has ever sat upon the shore and watched the colors coming and going grou its surface will find it hard to ell what is the color of the sea. As rale, bright green indicates shoal water, the lighter the tint the more hallow the depth. Dark blue water a sign of great depth. But even lue water at a distance takes on a int of green. In our own experince we have observed that when the end was thrown in mid ocean, where he surface color was dark blue, the lange revealed a flash of brilliant green in the opening water.

Fate of Pins and Hairpins.

By a series of experiments confucted in his back garden, a gentleman has discovered the answer to the conundrum, "What becomes of pins?" He has found that pins are resolved into dust. Hairpins, which ne watched for one hundred and afty-four days, disappeared by rusting away at the end of that time, $2,308,522 35 Bright pins took nearly eighteen nonths to disappear; polished steel needles nearly two years and a half; brass pins had but little endurance; steel pens at the end fifteen months and nearly gone, while their wooden olders were still intact.

Alphabet of Other Races.

The lettes in the alphabet of the different nations vary in number. The Sandwich Islanders have twelve, the Burmese eighteen, Italian twenty, Bengal twenty-one, Hebrew, Syriac, Chaldee, and Samaritan twentytwo each, Latin, twenty-three, Greek, twenty-four, German, Dutch and English twenty-six each, Spanish and Slavonic twenty-seven each, Arabic twenty-eight, Persian and Coptie thirty-two, Georgian thirty-five, Armenian thirty-eight, Russian fortyone, old Mascovite forty-three. Sanscrit and many of the Oricatal languages have fifty each.

THE MAKING OF TOYS.

An Ara fint Flourished Before the Days of History. To tell the whole story of the art of making toys it would first be necessary to find some means of exploring the ages that antedate history. The love of toys is as instinctive as it is universal, No barbarous land has yet been found which was so uncivilized that its children did not have their playthingsshapeless and clumsy, perhaps, but still capable of fulfilling the purpose for which they were created-and there is no record of any time when little ones have not possessed some kind of puppets with which they might divert themselves. Archaeologists in delving among the tombs of ancient Greece and Egypt made the surprising discovery that the art of toymaking was not only known, but had attained a high degree of development as far back as 5,000 years In those days both Greeian and Egyptian children had their dolls, and they were jointed dolls at that. As compared with the magnificently attired French conceptions of the present time they were crude inventions, of badly done, and many a child since that time has been glad to mother a more unsightly doll.

By the side of the dolls of the children of ancient Egypt the archaeologists unearthed other playthings which children still love to possess-the doll's furniture, the utensils for cooking and, what is even more interesting from an antiquarian's point of view, the articles used in the making of sacrifices, cleverly duplicated in miniature, that the children might be able to conduct their dolls through the ritual of their religious exercises, a circumstance that sugthen the same meaning which it has to-

It is a long step from the year 3000 B. C. to the diffeenth or sixteenth century, but it was within that time that the art of toymaking was both brought to a high state of perfection and then once more forgotten. Like other arts, it could not survive the neglect and vandalism of that period known as the "dark ages." Just what the children used for playthings during these long centuries of darkness and ignorance one can only surmise, but it is safe to say that they found things to play with, not only because the making of toys was one of the first objects to which man devoted his attentions when he plunged into the renewed activities of the renalssance, but also for the reason that, as the psychologists have recently taught us, playthings are and always have been quite as necessary a constituent of human health and derelopment as food and medicine. In other words, children crave toys because it is natural for them to want them. They need them, and to deprive them of these pleasures would be to retard their progress in their work of becoming men and women. - Public

"The Grand Old Man." The Rev. Edward Lloyd Jones of Manchester, England, is credited with having originated the phrase "the Grand Old Man" as applied to Mr. Gladstone. During the Irish agitation it became necessary that detectives tark green hue. Careful observa- should follow Mr. Gladstone for the ions have shown that even in the purpose of protection, and as the Liberal leader lived in Hawarden, in Flintshire, that county, then governed by quarter sessions, was asked to pay the bill. The magistrates, nearly all Tories in those days, objected, where upon Lloyd Jones, who was than a minister at Rhyl, promptly called an indignation meeting. He asked a lawyer who was present to state whether, if the life of a common tramp was in peril, it was not the duty of the county to protect him. The lawyer said that undoubtedly it was. "Then," shouted Mr. Jones, "if it is the duty of this county to protect the beggar at our doors, are we going to allow the preclous life of that grand old man at Hawarden to go unprotected?" That meeting settled the quarter sessions' oblections, and the title stuck.

Finances of Knighthood

Sordid questions of linance enter into the consideration of the eligibility of these upon whom the British sovereign would confer the distinction of knighthood, and there are many who might use the covered prefix "Sir" did they possess a larger lucome. It is, roughly speaking, a rule that knighthood shall not be conferred upon any one who has not an lifecime of at least $15,000 upon which to maintain his knightly dignity, while a baronet, before his creation, must not only be found to have an Income of at least $50,000 a year, but must further be able to purchase a country seat and be able to sultably provide for his eldest con. While knighthood, or ennoblement, is a mark of distinguished merit, it is held that its conference would only embarrass those who could not afford to keep up the dignity of their

Month of July in This Store

Is to be devoted to a special and continuous effort to reduce stocks. To do all this we shall not be a bit backward about employing very sweeping reductions in prices. Guided, of course, always by the character of merchandise to be sold, but unless of a strictly staple character a price will be resorted to to effect the sale, whether that price be half or less than half.

Pay you any day this month you're Dry Goods buying to stroll through the store, note the merchandise displayed and the prices in force. This store never could see any advantage in carrying over merchandise from one season to another, hoping thereby to avoid loss.

Rather sustain a temporary loss, keep the stock fresh and clean, and have immediate use of ready cash, otherwise tied up in practically dead stock. This will be a lively merchandising month.
