PERSONAL.

—The annual reunion of the 121st Regiment Pa. Vols., will be held in Tidoute, October 17. Capt. J. M. Clapp was in command of Company F during the three years this regiment was in service, and is taking much interest in the coming reunion. John Wilson, of this community, is also a survivor of the 121st Regiment.
—Joe Snowden and Charley Weaver are getting very chummy these days, and have to reach out at arm's length to scratch their heads, all because they slipped up to the Gaston pond the other day and lifted out a fine string of bass. The worst feature of the case is that, in the absence of John Bush, we are compelled to believe they did it all themselves.
—A company is now being organized in this place and which is to be known as the Marienville Squab Company, the object of which will be for the purpose of raising squabs, small pigeons, for the market. The company will be capitalized at $10,000. The stock of the company will be divided into ten thousand shares and will be sold at the low price of ten cents per share. The squab business is said to be very lucrative and a number of our townsmen will go into the business on a wholesale scale. We trust the venture may prove a big success.—Express.
—Frank Gerardi, Antonio Fruci and Pietro Notaro, the three Italians on trial for the second time at Warren last week, charged with the murder of a fellow countryman several months ago at Tionesta, were convicted of murder in the second degree, the jury being out about 24 hours. The first conviction, last spring, was for first degree murder. The maximum penalty for second degree is twenty years in the penitentiary. Upon the first ballot the jury stood seven for acquittal and five for murder in the first degree. Ballots were taken repeatedly during the 24 hours the jury were out before a verdict was reached. It finally sifted down until there were only two for acquittal, and a compromise was made and second degree murder was decided upon. On Monday Judge Lindsey pronounced sentence upon the prisoners, giving them the full penalty of the law, twenty years each in the penitentiary.
—As late as the first of this week swallows were still "in our midst." To be sure, that's where swallows usually are, or ought to be, but it's not that kind that is here referred to; neither do we have reference to the swallow who is making life miserable for candidate Emery, but it's the little spit-tailed birds that one often sees lining the telephone wires while driving through the country. This means that we are to have a late fall, with pleasant weather predominating, if the notion of the old inhabitant is worth a cent. Usually the swallow takes its flight southward about the 15th to the 20th of August, but when they stay on until the first or second week in September it means that the little harbingers have sized up the situation and that we shall have a pretty fair "spell of weather" for threshing the buckwheat, cutting the corn, digging the potatoes and lifting the fall run of bass, salmon, etcetera, leaving no kick coming from any source. So note it.
—Hereafter fishermen who go out in boats should provide themselves with a large umbrella of the highly colored advertising sort. On Labor Day, while Fred Parkhurst and Will Carnahan, of Oil City, were drifting slowly through the quiet waters of Thompson's Eddy in a rowboat, which was equipped with this sort of an umbrella for a sail, they were greatly surprised and correspondingly pleased to see a two-pound bass jump from the river near them and land squarely in the boat. Whether attracted by the umbrella or animated by a desire to get in out of the wet, the performance of the bass was a remarkable one, although such instances are on record among the archives of other strictly truthful fishermen.—Oil City Blizzard.
Well, there, now. We've copied your item as requested, but see very little in it. We admit that the occurrence is somewhat novel and infrequent, but we have seen "suckers" pile into a boat until standing room was at a premium, and there was no umbrella of any kind in sight. However, there was a tub in the boat and they "kept it on ice," which may have made the difference.

Boy Makes High Dive.

Johnnie Thomson, the 13-year-old son of our former Forest county citizen, H. M. Thomson, now of Chanute, Kansas, made quite a sensational dive from a high derick into a tank of water used for exhibition purposes during the big doings at the race track, of which the daily Tribune gives the following account:
Aside from the harness races, several novelty events were pulled off, furnishing much amusement. It was necessary to have some attraction between the heats of the pace, so the judges announced that a dollar would be given to the boy who would duplicate the diving pony's stunt. A big crowd of youngsters flocked to the tank at once, but when they sized up the job, they all showed rabbit. Finally Johnnie Thomson, a lad 13 years old, started up the ascent. After going part way he stopped, and it looked as if he were ready to back out. Jeers from the crowd spurred him on and he completed the climb. Standing on the platform, he shouted over to the grand stand, "What's in it?" "Water," several voices answered. Johnnie took hold of his nose and ducked, but it was a false alarm. It looked a long distance to him. He stood up and shook his head. Everyone laughed, so he gritted his teeth, took a firm hold of his nose again, and off he went feet first. There was a splash of water, and a man pulled the boy out, dazed and dripping. A big crowd of boys surrounded him at once and escorted him to the judge's stand, where he caught the dollar that was tossed to him. He started across the track, grinning from ear to ear. "Bring him over here," the grand stand shouted. Track men boosted him from the fence and the crowd showered coins into his hat. "Gee, I wish I had jumped," said one of the crowd of boys who were watching the proceedings with envious eyes. "Ain't he coming money, though?" said another. "If I could a-swum, I'd a-jumped off," said a little negro. "He can't swim," said a white boy, jealous for his race. "He went under seven times. Didn't you see them pull him out?" Johnnie realized $8.28 out of the collection.

RECENT DEATHS.

MARtha J. WOLCOTT.
Martha J. Wolcott, whose maiden name was Teed, was born at Sunville, Venango county, Pa., May 31, 1840, and was united in marriage with Silas J. Wolcott in 1855. To them were born three children, William M., of East Hickory, Alice J., (Mrs. Z. T. Shriver), of Tionesta, and Nancy B., (Mrs. H. L. Weston), of Muncie, Indiana, all of whom are left to mourn her departure, and to them she was always a kind and loving mother. She died Sept. 5, 1906, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. L. Weston, at Muncie, Ind. Her life was mostly spent in Forest county, with the exception of a few years that she resided in Chautauque county, N. Y., and two years in Lycoming county, Pa. She was a woman who made friends wherever she went, for while she was always plain to speak her thoughts yet she had a kind and loving disposition, always ready to make any sacrifice for any who were in distress or suffering. All could see that she was striving to follow the meek and lowly Jesus. She was a great sufferer the last few years of her life, her body being racked with pain and disease, never-the-less she was always ready to help others. Mrs. Wolcott was converted in early life and remained a steadfast Christian to the end. Her funeral was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Z. T. Shriver, in Tionesta, Sept. 7th, and was attended by a host of friends. The services were conducted by C. J. Stewart, and the body was laid to rest beside that of her husband in Riverside cemetery.

From Washington.

COLVILLE, WASH., Aug. 30, 1906.
To My Friends in the East.—On July 27th, 1906, the President issued a proclamation taking 650,000 acres of land in this county as Forest Reserve. This is greatly to the detriment of this county, as it was settling up fast. The people of this place are doing all they can to have at least a part of the land given back for settlement. If none of the land is given back for settlement it will be almost impossible to get any more homesteads here, as this takes in nearly all the public land in the county. Some of us were scared at first for we would have to give up our claims that we were on. But we have found out from the best authority that those who were on the land before the proclamation was issued can stay and hold their claims.
The weather continues dry and warm, and forest fires are commencing. This is a good place for men who want work to come. The mills through here can scarcely get men to run even when paying $2.25 per day for the most common labor, and other work in proportion.
Yours truly,
B. F. HUGHES.

Letter to S. S. Canfield,

Tionesta, Pa.
DEAR SIR:—There's twice as much horse in one horse—it may be a mare—as there is in two or three others together.
So with paints too. If a painter can do your job with 10 gallons Devos for $50, it'll take 12, 15 or 20 of other paints; and the cost of a job is about $5 a gallon, whatever the paint may be.
There are paints adulterated three-quarters—only one quart of paint in a gallon—he's got to paint four gallons of rubbish to get one gallon of paint. The worst horse you've got is as good as that paint, and he'll go as far.
The less-gallons paint is the paint, as the most-horse horse is the horse.
Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOS & Co.,
New York.

Base Ball.

The Bruin team failed to arrive in time for a game Monday and so two were played Tuesday, the result being an even break. In the morning game Bankhead kept the hits well scattered, but Tionesta lost through inability to hit the ball, and had errors. Howard pitched a nice game. The afternoon event was a slugfest match, both pitchers suffering. The game was about even up to the seventh inning, but in the next two innings the home team bumped the ball for nine hits and thirteen runs and the excitement was over. The scores:
