

Smart & Silberberg STORES.

To Select That

TAILORED SUIT.

Now's the Time and This the Place

A good name is beyond rubies. As an asset it's inestimable. But it can't be established in a day. It's growth must be gradual—a slow, steady development. Judging by character of clientele and increase of sales it appears that "Smart & Silberberg" has become a name to conjure with—one that stands for probity, dependability, quality, value. And in no branch of the business is this more clearly evidenced than in outerwear for women. So when we say that our fall and winter line of suits is one that every woman to whom this store is accessible must see or neglect her personal interests, it means more than appears on the surface. It implies that we have not only eclipsed the efforts of others, but what is more difficult still, surpassed our own. Let us add, now's the time to make selection—first, because assortments are at their height; because work rooms are not yet overtaxed.

Moral: Defer not 'till tomorrow what should be done today. Be forehanded in such matters.

Our tailor made suits are man-tailored, and represent the various types of the many short jacket models now so modish. A hint as to the range:

- Tailored Suits of plain or fancy chevots, $15.00 to $45.00.
  - Tailored Suits of plain or fancy broadcloths, $18 to $65.00.
  - Tailored Suits of tweeds or fancy worsteds, $12.50 to $60.
- Besides black, they come in the new shades of brown, blue, grey, wine, red and green.

Fur Sets are Very Fashionable.

We show Fur Scarfs and Muffs in all the leading furs, such as black lynx, royal ermine, natural mink, sable and Isabella fox, Persian lamb, broadtail, baum marten, natural and blended squirrel.

BERRY'S DEALINGS WITH DEPOSITORIES

"Reform" State Treasurer in Business Along "Practical Lines."

BORROWS OF STATE DEPOSITORY

Startling Revelation of Tactics Worse Than Those Which This "Good Man" So Long Condemned in Others.

Mr. Berry, who is a sanctimonious, "holier than thou individual," who has been making all sorts of charges against Republican officials and who is now on the stump for Emery and his colleagues on the Democratic "state ticket," has been shown to be as practical as the most practical of the professional politicians and he is, in the vernacular of the machine politician, "out for the stuff."

Berry is a member of the state board which designates the depositories of state funds and besides has in his power the right to draw from or add to any deposit in any banking institution which carries a deposit of state funds.

When Mr. Berry went into office as state treasurer, the Harrisburg Trust company carried a state deposit of about $200,000. Since Berry has been treasurer this sum has been jumped to over $600,000.

Berry at first applied to a Baltimore Surety company to go on his official bond, but he discovered that it would cost him about $2500 a year for a bond which would have eaten up a good portion of his salary. About this time negotiations were opened with the Harrisburg Trust company, which finally went on Berry's bond for $500,000 for a mere "nominal sum."

Good Thing For Trust Company. The trust company does not appear to have lost anything by that operation.

Its deposits of state funds have grown to great proportions, and it has been honored by the state treasurer in the capacity of a customer in the loan department.

The Fields Brick company, of Chester, is a concern in which State Treasurer Berry is heavily interested.

The books show that the incorporators of the brick concern were William H. Berry, of Chester, 50 shares; Holstein H. Fields, 25 shares, and John W. Fields, 25 shares. William H. Berry appeared as treasurer. The charter indicated that Mr. Berry's interest was for cash invested, while that of the Fields brothers was for real estate, good will and personal property turned over to the corporation.

Mr. Berry makes these admissions: "The Field boys had a brick yard in Chester, and were hard pressed for money. I agreed to take hold of the thing and put up $14,000 in cash against their property, and we formed a corporation with $50,000 capital, I taking 50 per cent. of the stock.

"I found when I came to look the plant over that a railroad siding was necessary. To get this siding put in it was necessary to buy a lot of land. I did not feel like investing in any more stock, but I was willing to buy some bonds. Others were willing to take bonds. So the $50,000 corporate mortgage was executed to the Harrisburg Trust Company as trustee of the bonds."

"How did you come to select the Harrisburg Trust Company in the transaction?"

"Well, that seems to me the only thing in this transaction that may seem peculiar. The fact is that I didn't want it to leak out that I was after land. That is the only reason I did not go to a Chester trust company. The Harrisburg Trust Company agreed to finance it, and I went ahead to get my options. We bought 30 acres of land, and we only intend to actually issue $30,000 in bonds. There will be an acre of land behind every bond."

Berry's attempted explanation that he went to Harrisburg to negotiate the loan so that the fact would not be known in Delaware county, and possibly raise the price of land which he desired to purchase, fell very flat when it was revealed that all of the details of the transaction were attended to by the Delaware County Trust Company and the recording fees were paid by it.

Why Berry should finance his deal from a Harrisburg state depository because he wanted to keep it secret, and then go to his own town and have the searches made and the deeds recorded, is something that puzzles officials in Delaware county.

Moreover, the records show that this Delaware County Trust Company is the holder of an original bonded first mortgage for $16,000 on Fields' Bros' brickyard.

If, as Berry says, there are 30 acres of ground behind the $30,000 in bonds which Berry says will be issued under the $50,000 mortgage, the records do not show it. They do show that the original yard of Field Bros, comprised eight acres. Against this is the $16,000 mortgage.

The other new purchase besides the five acres from Laidlaw, as shown by the records, is five acres from Evelyn Sibley. The total value of the land acquired since State Treasurer Berry turned the concern into a stock company and then placed his $50,000 mortgage, is $9750.

This is all the land holdings of "Berry's brickyard" that are disclosed by the books of the Recorder of Deeds office in Delaware county.

Trust companies do not usually take $50,000 corporate mortgages on things not a matter of official record.

Skeptical as to Explanation. Delaware county officials who were familiar with these facts were, therefore, skeptical as to the explanation as to why the State Treasurer chose the largest state depository in Pennsylvania.

to finance this business venture. The news that this same trust company which Berry has favored his more than $600,000 in the general funds of the state was also a surprise to those who knew him as an ardent reformer. This surprise was not lessened by Berry's admission that for his bond for $500,000 he was only compelled to pay a nominal fee.

The usual fee of security companies for taking such a bond is $2500 a year. It was not considered remarkable that the State Treasurer should look with kindly eye on the Harrisburg Trust Company.

Those who read of the transaction were startled when they recalled the strong demand for treasury reform in last Democratic platform and the vehement speeches which Berry and Homer Castle made concerning politicians who borrowed money from banks which hold state funds.

Although Berry's entry into brick making did not begin until after he became State Treasurer, his friends in Chester are confident that it will be a successful venture. Berry is known in his home town as a shrewd business man.

But what is causing no end of gossip especially in "reform circles," is the fact that Berry should so soon after his election engage in transactions of a character which he and his associates have for years denounced.

"Old Timers" Put to Shame. The fact is that he went further than any of his predecessors.

The reformers did not have an opportunity to criticize any state treasurer for borrowing from state depositories. There is no record of such a condition of affairs in the history of the state treasury under Republican administration.

There have been criticisms from time to time of politicians supporting the party in power for borrowing from banking institutions having deposits of state funds.

When the Enterprise Bank failed in Allegheny it was Mr. Berry and his Democratic colleagues who went up and down the state frantically decrying a system which would permit politicians borrowing from banks carrying deposits of state funds.

But there never was a charge that a state treasurer was engaged in the line of business until Mr. Berry, "the reformer," was elected.

The state did not lose a dollar by the failure of the Enterprise Bank which afforded so much political capital for Mr. Berry last fall, as every penny of state funds deposited in that bank has been paid back, with interest, into the state treasury.

The late Senator Quay, while having no connection with the state treasury borrowed money from the People's Bank in Philadelphia upon approved collateral, such as any other citizen might do, but the Berrys and the Emery and the other "reformers" set up a hue and cry throughout the commonwealth, and painted him as a law breaker and an enemy of the people.

Mr. Berry, as State Treasurer, is now discovered to be a large borrower from an institution from which he can draw large sums of money any day might cripple the trust company financially in case of a run, and yet he was chosen as a "reform" candidate for State Treasurer, and he is still nightly upon the stump demanding the election of a "reform candidate for Governor" in the person of that eminent "reformer," Lewis Emery, Jr., of Pure Oil fame, of "Brewery and Church" no tory, and of other scandalous conditions that are now the subject of general criticism.

WHIPS OF FLAME.

Picturesque and Puzzling Fire Dance of the Indians.

Mysterious are many of the ways of the red man. Dr. Matthews of Washington gave an interesting account of a fire dance which he was fortunate enough to witness in the far west. The spectators were seated about a large open space, in the center of which burned a ruddy fire.

Suddenly sounded a loud blowing of buffalo horns, mingled with a strange cry like the call of a sand hill crane. Nearer and nearer it came, and then there bounded into the circle ten men, naked to the waist and bearing long bundles of shredded cedar bark.

Round and round the fire danced the little procession, chanting and waving the flexible fagots. After some time the leader abruptly stopped and lighted his fagot of bark. The others followed his example.

Now began a wild race. At first the Indians kept close, spitting upon each other's back a substance supposed to have medicinal virtue. Soon they ran without concert, the long, brilliant streamers of flame flaring behind them. As they sped over the ground round the circle they applied the fiery brands to the bodies of themselves and comrades.

Not a man turned as the vigorous, burning blows descended on his naked back. Sometimes they would seize the brand in their hands and rub it over their flesh as if it were a sponge and they were giving themselves a bath of flames. On they danced and whipped and rubbed until all seemed a dazzling ring of fire to the onlookers.

And were there some and blistered backs the next day under the carelessly worn blankets? Apparently not, for Dr. Matthews saw and talked with the actors directly after the dance, and they seemed to experience no discomfort.

His explanation of the secret does not include the mysterious compound which the Indians spit upon each other. That, he thinks, was probably of no value. But cedar bark ignites at a low temperature, and the white earth with which the men were thickly coated was an excellent nonconductor.—Youth's Companion.

Wounds, Bruises and Burns.

By applying our antiseptic dressing to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, they may be healed without maturation and in about one-third the time required by the old treatment. This is the greatest discovery and triumph of modern surgery. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your house and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering such injuries entail. For sale by Dunn & Fulton.
