The district in which the president votes nominally is Democratic. Most of the cabinet officers have done strenuous work and several of them will find it convenient to be at their homes to vote today. From all reports, however, fewer voters have gone home from Washington this year to vote than in any congressional year for a decade. This is owing largely to the fact that free transportation has been cut off and that election rates on the railroads are higher than they have been before.

The single exception to this rule is in case of the New York voters. Considering the expense a remarkably large number of Empire State voters resident in Washington went home to

The congressional predictions by the Republican and Democratic congressional committees with headquarters respectively in New York and Washington remain the same as the "finals" announced a few days ago. The Republicans claim the next house by 50; the Democrats claim it by 22.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.-The vigorous campaign which has been waged throughout Pennsylvania and the complex character of the several tickets which are in the field have created more than ordinary interest in the is sues, with the result that the voting in this city is proceeding with vigor.

Citizens have been lined up to the polls almost continuously and the number of votes cast at this time will greatly exceed the record of previous off years. Notwithstanding the excitement no disturbances of importance have been reported. Reports re ceived from throughout the state would indicate great interest in the campaign and a heavy vote.

Pittsburg, Nov. 6 .- The war of bal lots is progressing vigorously and full registration is being polled. Interest is lutense but citizens are exercising their right of franchise in a proper manner and no disorders of a serious character are reported.

pened Miss Weaver was a house maid at the hotel. While working on the third floor she had been summoned to the sixth. Instead of ringing the bell it is believed she put her head through the window to locate the elevator, apparently believing it was some distance away. The elevator shaft was dark and nothing could be seen. Death must have come before the girl had a chance to realize the peril of her method of locating the elevator. Samuel Elbert, the young man in charge of the elevator, says he is certain that the bell was not rung for him to stop at the third floor. As he could not see the girl, he says he had no means of knowing she was there. He will be called to testify at the coroner's inquest.

Scarcity of Platinum.

Cleveland, Nov. 6. - The price of false teeth is mounting at an alarming rate as the result of a scarcity of platinum. The last month the increase has been more than $1 per set. Since dentistry has reached its present stage been compelled for sanitary reasons of perfection it has been almost impossible to supply the increasing demand for artificial teeth. Platinum is used in pinning the porcelain tooth to the plate. It is the only metal that will resist the great heat necessary to fuse the porcelain. For similar reasons platinum is the only substance that can be used in the manufacture of electrical contact points and conductors, and this industry is one cause of the shortage.
