Egyptian Monumental Colors

Despite Their Great Age They Have Never Faded.

Despite their extreme old age, in spite of the long time that these colors have been exposed to the influences of the weather, they are yet so brilliant and fresh that it is scarcely conceivable that they have endured for thousands of years. With few exceptions, these astonishingly durable colors were made of minerals. The ever present brownish red was a mixture of ferric-oxide and clay from the Egyptian red iron-ore beds. As for the yellow color, besides gold bronze and leaf gold, ferric-oxide was also made to serve, this being mixed, according to the shade desired, with variable masses of alumina, lime, and the like. By heating these last mixtures, the brown tints were obtained, and the orange shades by adding red. An inscription written by a builder of the Pyramids, Nicholas Fermed, and placed there four thousand years before Christ, proudly proclaims that "All color decorations for the Temple must be everlasting as the gods themselves."

Foundation of Skeletons.

It has been discovered that the great city of London rests on a foundation of skeletons—hundreds of thousands of skeletons that extend east and west, north and south, from boundary to boundary of the world's metropolis, and beyond. There they lie, compressed into a compact mass by the superimposed clay, gravel, and surface structures.

These skeletons were once the framework of living beings—beings that were the most simple multi-cellular animals known as sponges. Many thousands of years ago, when the great sea ebbed and flowed where London now stands, these metazoan organisms, these cities of cells, these venues, with their thousands of canals, lived and did their unconscious part in the great plan of evolution. Now the life has gone, the cells are crushed, the canals are closed, and only the frames of flint, compressed into a homogeneous mass, remain.

Skimming a Pearl.

The lapidary was skimming a pearl, according to the Philadelphia Record. He and on gloves of a very delicate sort of kid, and the glasses that he wore had lenses of such great magnifying power that his eyes, through them, looked as big as saucers. "I wear gloves," he said, "because the hands perspire freely in this work, and perspiration has often been known to discolor pearls. This stone was injured by the accidental dropping on it of some acid. The disaster discolored it, you see. With this very delicate little tool I am removing its outer skin and if I find that the acid has filtered through and discolored the inner skin also, I may remove that as well. A pearl, you see, is composed of concentric layers, or skins, and you can, if you are a clever workman, peel it down and down until it disappears."

Strength of Sand.

Over thirty years ago M. Beaudenou, a French savant, proved by experiment that a quantity of dry sand, placed in a box of thin sheet iron, or even in a canvas bag, and subjected to slight compression, forms a mass capable of resisting a pressure of sixty tons, without breaking or even straining the box or bag. The sand, however, remains perfectly divisible, so that if a small hole be made in the box or bag it will flow slowly, and with so little force that a small piece of paper pasted over the opening will check the flow, even with the sixty tons weight upon it.

Washing in the Orient.

The Japanese rip their garments apart for every washing and they iron their clothes by spreading them on a flat board and leaning this up against the house to dry. The sun takes the wrinkles out of the clothes and some of them have quite a lustrous. The Japanese woman does her washing out of doors. Her wash tub is not more than six inches high. The hardest worked washerwomen in the world are the Coreans. They have to wash about a dozen dresses for their husbands, and they have plenty to do. The washing is usually done in cold water and often in running streams. The clothes are pounded with paddles until they shine like a shirt from a laundry.

Bird of Paradise.

Probably no famous bird has a smaller habitat than the bird of paradise, whose beautiful feathers are so highly prized in the millinery trade. No one knows why the varieties of this beautiful bird are confined to the island of New Guinea and the neighboring coasts of Australia. There are many other islands not far away where the conditions would seem to be equally favorable to their existence.

The males and females of Japan are from a very early age instructed in physical exercise, with the result that at maturity the women are almost as strong as the men. It is not an unusual sight to see a company of girls, who are strolling along a country road, step back a few yards for headway, and then, following a leader, all nimbly clear a five-foot fence by leaping over it.

Don't be foolish enough to judge a man's friendship by the way he pats you on the back.

I had malaria two summers in succession and I got so bad I could not work. All the doctors here could not build me up. I had only taken Thompson's Blood-Rosin, Liver and Kidney Cure for three days when I saw a great change. I think one more bottle will make me as strong as ever. N. A. Nason, Ashland, Wis. The Mule and Automobile.

Bruddah Persimmon Draws Some Conclusions as to Their Similarity.

Bruddah Persimmon was comparing the mule to an automobile. "De mule am lak an automobile, Bruddah Rabbitt." "Yeas, Bruddah Persimmon." "Yo nebbeh know dess which way he am gwine." "Dat's right." "Ea den he's liable to be expensib, stubboh en mak a lot of noise." "Ain't et de trufe?" "Ea den when he stops all ob a sudden in de road lak an automobile en yo' gits down on yo' knees en crawls undeh him to see what's de trouble yo' am liable to land in heab en dess de same es if de bilchs in de automobile had busted."—Chicago News.

Knew Her Grammar.

The Judge's little daughter, although she had talked several times through the telephone to her father, had never gone through the formalities necessary in calling him up. The first time she tried it she took the receiver off the hook, as she had seen others do, placed her lips to the transmitter, and said: "Hello! I want to talk to papa." "Number, please?" said "Central." "Singular," she answered, surprised at the question, but proud that she knew some thing of the rudiments of grammar.—Youth's Companion.

His Little Joke.

They had just moved in the house and as is usually the case the former tenants had left much rubbish behind them. "Just look," complained the little woman, "here are three pails of ashes in the yard." "Ah," laughed the big husband, "speak of them with more reverence." "Reverence! Why should I?" "Because they are the ashes of the departed."

He Knew the Kind.

A small boy in Boston, who had unfortunately learned to swear, was rebuked by his father. "Who told you that I swore?" asked the little boy. "Oh, a little bird told me," said the father. The boy stood and looked out of the window scowling at some sparrows which were scolding and chattering. Then he had a happy thought. "I know who told you," he said. "It was one of those sparrows."

Jacky's Thought.

Jacky—Please, ma, may I take baby out in the perambulator? Mamma—Certainly, dear; I am glad to see you are so fond of your little brother. Jacky—That's all right, ma. Billy Brown and Johnny Wilson and me is going to play at a railway accident. The perambulator is to be the railway carriage and baby's to be pitched out on his head, and he's to be saved just in time by Billy.

A Difficult Task.

"How can I get the ladies of my congregation more interested in heaven?" sighed the earnest young rector of the fashionable church. "You might hint that things will be very exclusive there," replied the preacher, sadly. "By such means you may be able to arouse a mild interest."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Great Scheme.

Oldwed—Let's celebrate our golden wedding next week. Mrs. Oldwed—But we've only been married twenty years. Oldwed—I know, but we need the gold.

Real Thing in Optimism.

The story is told of an old woman—a woman aged and poor, but sunny and serene—whom some one asked what in the world she could find to make her happy, to which she replied, "Well, I ain't got but two teeth, but thank God, they hit."—Argonaut.

Secrets of the Craft.

Customer (inspecting the sample the waiter had brought him)—How do you distinguish your clam chowder from plain vegetable soup? Walter—We have different labels on the kettles, sir. Wish any coffee?—Chicago Tribune.

Preserving Appearances.

"What do you think of the plan of doctors killing suffering patients by design?" "Oh, they might as well claim that they do it by design, and save the embarrassment of getting credit for mistakes."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Kind Lady.

"Kind lady," remarked the weary wayfarer, "can you oblige me with something to eat?" "Go to the woodshed and take a few chops," replied the kind lady.—Philadelphia Record.

Chapped Hands.

Wash your hands with warm water, dry with a towel and apply Chamberlain's Salve just before going to bed, and a speedy cure is certain. This salve is also invaluable for sore nipples, itching piles and skin diseases. For sale by Dunn & Fulton.

For twelve years I suffered with a sore foot. All the doctors failed to cure it. San-Cura Ointment removed the pain, drawing out pus and making a complete cure in two weeks. Thomas J. Kerr, Union City, Pa. San-Cura Ointment, 25 and 50c. Dunn & Fulton.

Zangwill Epigrams

CLEVER THINGS THE WITTY AUTHOR SAID ABOUT THE JEWS.

The Way He Compared His Coreligionists to United States Bonds—His Illustration of Some of the Striking Hebrew Characteristics.

Some years since Israel Zangwill when on a visit to this country delivered an address in New York city to his own people. A few of the epigrams which he then coined concerning the characteristics of the Hebrews are here offered:

The Jews had no country of their own. They could not possess the land of their fathers in reality. So they made a portable Palestine. They carried it wherever they went. This was a spiritual country. It could not be assailed by their oppressors.

There have been two conceptions of the Jew—one that he lends money and wants it back again, the other that he deals in old clothes. The truth is Jews have been everywhere. They have been everything except pope of Rome, and they have come near to that. If they dealt in old clothes it was because papal decrees forbade them trading in anything else but old clothes and old iron.

Jews in a way were as good as United States bonds, only United States bonds may be converted, but when a Jew was converted he lost his value. Because Shylock was rich and Jessica beautiful all Jews are rich and all Jewesses are beautiful. I wish it were so.

A good looking Jew was considered the fool of the family, which is consolation for some of us.

The black plague swept over Europe. The Jews escaped by reason of their different hygienic laws. The Christians charged them with poisoning the wells, and thousands of Jews were put to death for not dying of the plague.

Colonel Roosevelt told me that the Jews of his regiment were among his bravest soldiers, and when Hobson was to be kissed it took a Jewess to do it.

Jews not only furnished money for Columbus' expedition, but his first lieutenant was a Jew. This officer discovered tobacco, which is greater than America.

Carlyle said the Jews had no humor, but Carlyle was a Scotchman.

A beggar stole a spoon from a wealthy member of his race who had entertained him. When detected the beggar said: "By taking the spoon I broke the eighth commandment, which says, 'Thou shalt not steal.' If I had not taken it I would have broken the tenth, which says, 'Thou shalt not covet.' I saw I had to break one commandment anyhow, so I thought I might as well have the spoon."

It has always been the desire of Jewish fathers, however rich, to have learned sons-in-law, however poor. I do not find this custom prevalent today.

To illustrate why there are no good Jews in fiction Mr. Zangwill related the story of the lion and the cub. The cub had seen a painting of Samson vanquishing the lion, and said to its parent: "I have seen many contests between lions and men, and always the men have been the victors. Why are there no pictures showing lions overpowering men?" "It is because we lions have no painters," was the parent's reply.

The Jews have been scattered to the four winds among all the nations of the earth. They have been of immense service to every country that has harbored them. It reminds me of the story of the crocodile which opened its mouth so that a bird might go into it and eat the leeches which annoyed it. There was mutual benefit from the operation. It is not strange that sometimes the Jews find the crocodile's mouth closing upon them. It was natural that Jews should congregated around their synagogues. They became to some extent isolated from the people among whom they dwelt. This isolation brought with it suspicion, and suspicion caused more isolation for mutual protection.

In mediaeval times the nations of Europe had a conception of the Jewish character compared to which Shakespeare's Shylock was a saint. It was this that brought about the compulsory ghetto.

There are two general types of Jews, the German and the Spanish. The Spanish Jews speak a mixture of Hebrew and Spanish. The German Jews speak Yiddish, a mongrel of bad German and every other language in the world.

The Jews financed the crusades voluntarily and involuntarily. There was nothing they had not financed, not even their own persecutions.—New York Herald.

The Difference Between Two Poets. Claudius on being asked what was the difference between him and Klopstock replied: "Klopstock says, 'Thou who art my inferior and yet my equal, approach hither, and stooping to the ground, relieve me of the burden of these dust begrimed nether integuments,' whereas I simply say, 'Johann, come and pull off my boots.'"
