

THE FOREST REPUBLICAN.

J. E. WENK, - EDITOR & PROPRIETOR. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1906.

MR. HEARST reports that he paid $250,000 for running second to Hughes. By the way add 2, 5, 6, 3, 7, 9.

It's an open secret now that Peary named his Arctic ship Roosevelt because it was designed to cut ice.

"TAMMANY HALL never lost anything in a fight for principle," says Richard Croker. You bet it never did. It never was in that kind of a fight.

SECRETARY BONAPARTE wants to reduce the number of rich men in the country, but he can get more votes on a proposition to reduce the number of poor men.

ACCORDING to an eastern critic the English language is "violent, illogical, chaotic and absurd." But this opinion was written when the Democratic orators were in full blast.

Of course, eminent persons may theorize about matrimony, but the little winged god knows full well that when a couple has that want-to-get-married feeling it is a condition and not a theory that confronts them.

SOMEBODY advertises "the new apple butter." A screw must be loose somewhere when an apple crop is said to be so large that the owners of the orchards are compelled to sell for less than cost. With proper management not a bushel of apples would be wasted. But the apple trust method is to pay a miserable pittance for the wholesome fruit that everybody wants, and then demand a profit of not less than 200 or 300 per cent.

JUST now the disgruntled Democratic and Fusion newspapers are telling their readers how the awful Republican machine is going to do things at the approaching session of the legislature. They pretend to have been taken into the confidence of the Republican leaders, and their statements of how this or that man is to run the Senate and this or that man the House have all the ear marks of the political pipe dreams of the campaign.

AT the approaching session of the legislature the bill to authorize the publication of the session laws in a sufficient number of newspapers in each county, as is done in New York, will again be introduced. This measure has the endorsement of the press and the people all over the state and is almost certain to become a law. The present method of publication of the acts of the General Assembly is too restricted to satisfy the people who are affected and they demand the New York law. With the increasing enactment of laws regulating food products, the dairy and farm, the killing of game and the catching of fish, the trespassing upon lands and similar laws, it is absolutely necessary that efficient publicity be given so that the people may not be ignorant of and innocently violate laws of the Commonwealth.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

A FEW of the figures taken from statistics just completed will serve to show that the American farmer is away at the top of the heap in the matter of the value of his products, which for the year 1906 reached the sum of $6,794,000,000, exceeding the figures of 1905 by $485,000,000. Of grain he raised 4,688,000,000 bushels, 120,000,000 bushels above the output of last year. From the surplus of his products he exported $675,000,000 worth. It was the banner year for exports and he loaded the ocean fleets with products, the value of which, it is computed, would be enough to build a high-class railroad half way around the earth. He secured a national credit in the world's balance sheet in favor of this nation of $433,000,000. Other American producers, all told, got a credit only of $85,000,000. These are interesting figures. The American farmer is the greatest producer on earth and the millions of people whom he feeds must take off their hats to him, think the Oil City Blizzard.

Congress in Session.

The present Congress, which met Monday for its last session, will have all its business to finish by March 5.

The "short session" of a Congress is often the period of important legislation. The resumption act was passed at such a session thirty-two years ago. The revision of the national bank act was secured in a short session in 1851. The tariff of 1883 was passed at the close of the life of the Congress which enacted it.

But in each of these cases the previous election had chosen a House opposed to the party in the majority in the chamber. The legislation passed had behind it the pressure exerted by a desire to forestall legislation by the opposing party.

Where no such a motive exists Congress is not apt to pass any new far-reaching legislation in ten or eleven weeks, which is all the time for business the short session offers. The next House will be Republican like the present. It will, in all human probability, have the same Speaker. The same men will have charge of the leading committees.

Past experience shows that under these conditions new legislation or important measures are not crowded forward. The issues covered by the railroad rate act, the pure food act and the meat inspection act will certainly be untouched. These measures must have their test. Measures which have come over from the last session on current issues will be taken up, but the appropriation bills have a way of taking a great deal of time at the short session.

President Roosevelt's recommendations in his message will receive full consideration and debate. Bills will be introduced and pressed. The country will be educated, agitated and awakened to new issues and new questions.

This will all bear fruit in the next Congress, just as the refusal of the Senate to act in the short session of the last Congress on railroad rebates brought a much more radical act last June than could have been passed two years ago. This Congress will debate, so far as any new issue is concerned, in its short session. The next Congress will act in its long session.—Phila. Press.

The President's Message.

President Roosevelt's annual message to Congress is full of meat and good, sound logic, as usual. Like all his state papers it is a document of absorbing interest, touching vigorously as it does on all the great national issues before the American people. We give it on the first page of the paper today, and we have no doubt every subscriber will read it with profound interest.

Mr. Wheeler's Campaign Expenses.

Up to the present date Congressman-elect Wheeler is the only candidate to file an account of his expenditures in the recent campaign with the Forest county Prothonotary. Messrs. Brown, Detar, and Hoovler, having had no expense, or at least kept them under the $50 mark, are not required to file accounts. The other candidates have until tomorrow to file their accounts. Mr. Wheeler avers that he spent $3,159.12 to be elected. The principal items were contributions to the chairmen of the five counties. They were as follows: Mercer county, $800; Venango county, $700; Warren county, $600; Forest county, $200; Elk county, $200. Included in the state sent are $50 for copies of the Labor World and $150 for the Union Labor Journal, both of which publications contained complimentary notices of the candidate. The other items were for printing, traveling expenses, etc.

Pennsylvania Oil Field.

The Derrick, in its oil report for the month of November, says: In the sections producing high grade oil, which include the petroleum regions of Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia and Southeastern Ohio, there were 617 wells completed in November, including 55 gassers and 120 dry holes, while the new production amounted to only 3,615 barrels. This was a decline from October of 61 wells completed and 13 barrels new production, with a gain of three dry holes. The October record was 678 wells completed, 3,628 barrels production and 175 dry holes and gas wells. On the last of November the Pennsylvania oil fields contained 253 rigs and 489 drilling wells, which was a gain of nine rigs over the figures for October 31. The drilling wells were the same for both months. Field operations at the close of October were composed of 24 rigs and 189 wells drilling, which was a decline of 21 rigs and 11 wells drilling from the figures on September 30. On September 30 the new work under way consisted of 253 rigs and 500 wells drilling.

Home Sweet Home.

Stay, stay at home, my heart and rest; Home-seeking hearts are happiest. For those that wander they know not where.

Are full of trouble and full of care. To stay at home is best.

Home—the name made dear by sacred associations, the place where childhood feet take their first faltering steps and infant minds receive their first ideas. There lessons of love and truth, of right and wrong, of faith and hope and purity are imprinted upon the plastic heart, and all the sorrows and perplexities of after life are inefficient to quite efface these first deep true impressions. Sweet home where the mother's gentle hands prepare the little domestic comforts that a father's love provides, and filial affection is "the silver link, the silken tie" that binds the household band together. Trials may come and clouds may lower, but in the seclusion of home remains sweet healing for the wounds that brave and sensible hearts hide from a disdainful world. There these hurts and distresses may be confidently revealed and a sovereign remedy found in its unquestioned faith. There a child's pure kiss or the touch of dimpled fingers may revive a soul on the verge of despair; and in the home the brightest dreams become more golden, the rarest pleasures more intense, the tenderest joys more serene. And if, in the varying decrees of fortune, its loving shelter must be abandoned, how the exile folds about his heart, as the traveler does his cloak, the memory of its lights and flowers, its loves and hopes and kindnesses. There the noblest influences exist, the holiest impulses find expression, and there have been born the chaste and lofty sentiments that have made a whole world better.

STATE OF OHIO CITY, OF TOLEDO, ss.

In Time of Peace.

In the first months of the Russia-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those who, so to speak, "have shingled their roofs in dry weather."

The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by Dunn & Fulton.

—Cut this out and take it to Dunn & Fulton's drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For biliousness and constipation they are unequalled. They improve the appetite, strengthen the digestion and regulate the liver and bowels.

Moon Heat.

Many people suppose that moonlight possesses great potency and has a wonderful influence on or over animate and inanimate things on our planet. Such persons should remember that moonlight is only reflected sunlight and that the quality and quantity of the light thus reflected are not what is generally imagined. In fact, it is a truth which has often been demonstrated by the speculative astronomers that it would take 618,000 full moons to afford an amount of light equal to that emitted by the sun, and, furthermore, there is only sky space for 75,000 such disks. Some heat comes from moonlight. However, it is in quantities so small that it cannot be measured by ordinary instruments. Flammarion says that the amount of heat emitted by a full moon while at its zenith cannot be more than one eighty-thousandth of the amount that the sun supplies when standing on the meridian on a favorable day in July. Such being the case, it is really surprising that intelligent people should consider that the moon has such a wonderful "influence" over terrestrial affairs.

The Rhinoceros Bird.

Among the birds not commonly found is the rhinoceros bird, from the Transvaal. Buff plucker is its Dutch name. Its habits are remarkable and its plumage unusual. Small flocks accompany most of the large antelopes, the buffaloes and the rhinoceroses in South Africa and run all over the creatures' bodies, picking off flies and insects. When an enemy approaches the buff pluckers sit in a line with heads raised on the back of the animal they are attending, like sparrows on a roof ridge, and signal "the enemy in sight." The plumage is curiously close, uniform and compact, so much so that the bird has an artificial look, as if covered with painted satin and not with feathers. The general tint of the body is cinnamon brown, with yellow beak and legs, giving the color effect of a brown and yellow iris.

A "Turner" Story.

Very few London dealers indeed are competent to judge Turner's works—that is, without a certified history. A lady acquaintance of mine had a large picture in her house which she had always regarded as a Turner, and, desiring to sell it, she offered it to five or six of the leading dealers, but not one of them would buy it at any price, asserting that Turner never saw it and that it was nothing like his work, and so on. A few months afterward a document turned up among her family papers showing that the picture had been specially painted by Turner for her husband's father, and in a week she had sold the work for £2,250. The average dealer is almost frightened to touch a Turner, and you seldom or never see one exposed for sale in the galleries.—Chambers' Journal.

Our Foolish Alphabet.

Why, think of it! We've not even a reputable alphabet. The letters are all tangled up. J is J when it isn't Y, and more than half the time Y is doing duty for I. S is sometimes Z, G is J, and poor C is always either S or K. We've got four distinct ways to express the N sound—n, pn, kn and n; four ways to write the terminal syllable "er"—er, ar, or ar; five ways to sound the letters "ough"—uff, awf, oo and o. And there are no rules. Each of the myriad cases must be separately hammered into a student's head. And this is work for babes!—Mary Bronson Hartt in Woman's Home Companion.

Color and Aroma of Coffee.

There are two things which people imagine are guides to the goodness of coffee which are really of no consequence whatever. They are the color of the decoction and the aroma of the coffee when ground or as it escapes from the pot in drawing. The color is due almost entirely to the roasting. This is true also of tea. The finest coffees and teas, when properly roasted and prepared, to give out their finest flavors will color the water but little. The real essences which give the flavor have practically no color.

Mixed.

A professor at one of the Australian universities recently informed his class that "the darkest hour in the day is in the middle of the night at 3 o'clock in the morning." On another occasion the same professor made his apology for the intricacies of a statement by adding, "I can't give you an easier explanation without making it more difficult."

To Make It Tender.

"Waiter" called the customer in the restaurant where an orchestra was playing. "Yes, sah." "Kindly tell the leader of the orchestra to play something sad and low while I dine. I want to see if it won't have a softening influence on this steak."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

His Ambition.

Father—My son, do you know that most of the rich men of today began poor? Small Son—Yes, sir, Father—And yet, instead of saving your pennies, you spend them. Small Son—Yes, sir. When I start out I want to begin poor.

A Stronger Word.

"But, really, now," asked Miss Gusch, "don't you think Mr. Kidder has a delicate wit?" "It's more than delicate," replied Mr. Chellus; "it's sickly."—Philadelphia Press.

Her Temperament.

"Miss Posey was very warm in expressing her feelings against you." "Oh, that explains why her manner was so cool."—Baltimore American.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Breaks no Hearts, Excuses no Crimes.

Dr. David Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY is not a disguised enemy of the human race; where it cannot help, it does not harm. It is composed of vegetable ingredients and does not heat or inflame the blood but cools and purifies it. In all cases of Kidney troubles, Liver complaints, Constipation of the Bowels, and the delicate derangements which afflict women, the action of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY is beyond praise. Thousands of grateful people voluntarily testify to this, in letters to Dr. Kennedy, and with a warmth and fullness of words which mere business certificates never possess. It makes no drunkards—excuses no crimes—breaks no hearts. In its coming there is hope, and in its wings there is healing. We challenge a trial and are confident of the result. Your druggist has it.
