AT Harrisburg a bill has been introduced in the House providing that Treasurers of the cities of the state shall publish the amounts of all assessments, annual and triennial, levied for all purposes upon the real and personal property in the several districts. Such publication would tend to equalize assessments and enable the taxpayer to ascertain how the valuation of his property compared with that of his neighbor. It would therefore assist in securing what all honest men long for-a square deal.-Blizzard. This bill, if it should pass, ought also to be extended to boroughs and townships, whose citizens and taxpayers are as much entitled to a "square deal" as those of the cities of the state.

Ir the State constabulary law is repealed Governor Stuart has declared his intention of vetoing any such legislation that may come to him. He believes that if the State police law is tampered with at all it should be to improve it and increase the number of troops. He takes the view of a great majority of the people that the State police have been of the greatest benefit to the people of this State, and to abolish them would be one of the greatest pieces of folly that the present legislature could permit. The Punxsutawney Spirit says: "The people of this vicinity need no evidence as to the benefits derived from the troop stationed at this point. The decrease of law breaking, especially in the foreign element, during the past year, has been noticeably great and on a large number of occasions the members of Troop D have proven themselves a necessity and we presume that it must be the same with the other troops."

How this is going to be done by "a biil" doth not yet appear. The constitution fixes the election for city, ward, borough and township officers for the third Tuesday in February, and this can be changed only by an amendment to the constitution. But one amendment would not be sufficient to secure the election of state officers in odd years, as under the schedule of the present constitution the governor must be chosen in an even year.

Hence if anybody is seriously contem-
