Lanson Bros. Grist Mill. -Our new line of wash goods is the finest ever shown in Tionesta. Call early and get the pick of the lot. Hopkins. -Thirty-seven cans of young trout were received at this station a week ago and distributed in the streams of this vicinity. -New white goods in gorgeous array at the Hopkins store. To see the stock is to admire it. You're bound to be suited. -The subject of Rev. W. O. Calhoun's sermon at the M. E. church next Sabbath evening will be "Working Out Our Own Salvation." -Preaching in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning and evening, by Rev. M. Osborne. All are cordially invited to attend. -S. E. Twombly, of the borough, cut a bad gash in the top of his right foot Wednesday while making ties in the woods across the river. -Mrs. Elizabeth Borland, wife of Dr. J. R. Borland and mother of Editor Jas. B. Borland, of the Franklin News, died at her home Wednesday of last week, aged 73 years. -Jesse Graham has purchased the draying business of Wm. Mealy. At the same time Mr. Graham sold his barber shop to Vivian Foreman, who is now the artist in charge. -The well by the old willow tree, on the river front, was drilled twenty-five feet deeper last week, in search of the green oil sand. Four feet of the sand was found but no oil. -Supt. Morrison's student list for the summer normal has now reached the 115 mark, and no more enrollments can be made owing to inability to secure books after the first of April. -Of course you'll have some carpeting to do, and now is the time to make your selections. We have everything needed in that line. Newest patterns and best grades. Hopkins. -Following is the list of letters lying unclaimed for in the Tionesta, Pa., post-office for week ending April 3, 1907: Miss Susanne Young, R. G. Baker (card). D. S. Knox, P. M. -Titus Ridgway, one of the old and prominent citizens of Hydetsound, Crawford county, died at his home Sunday, at the age of 82 years. A few of the older residents of this vicinity remember the deceased as a visitor to this section 30 to 40 years ago. -The Derrick warns local merchants to be on the lookout for spurious coins—silver dollars—that seem to be in circulation in Oil City. The same warning applies in other localities and it is always well to be on your guard for these "shovers of the queer." -The cold check put upon the weather the first of the week came in the nick of time, for the buds on the fruit trees, and all other vegetation was making to sprout. It is the opinion that the epidemic is due to water from a contaminated well which the employes drank. One patient has died, and one or two others are in a critical state. -Rev. J. F. Scherer, of Endeavor, preached in the Presbyterian church here last Friday evening, and at the close of the services a congregational meeting was held to take official action upon the matter of extending a call to Rev. H. A. Bailey to be pastor of the church. Mr. Scherer, as moderator of the Presbytery, put the question of Mr. Bailey's election and a unanimous vote was given in his favor. Mr. A. B. Kelly was named as the delegate to present the call to Presbytery which meets at Big Run, Pa., on the 16th of this month. -A consignment of seven dozen quail from Wichita, Kansas, was received Thursday afternoon by Charles L. Smith and today the birds were distributed in the woods within a radius of 15 miles of this city. Some time ago a paper was circulated among sportsmen who contributed liberally towards the purchase of the quail and it is to be hoped they will be given an opportunity to propagate. -Blizzard. It is to be hoped this experiment will be a success, and if so the example will be followed in other communities. But if it were not for the severity of our winters the importation of quail would not be necessary. The gamey little birds do well in this latitude ordinarily, but the rigors of winter are too much for them.

Work at the Forest Barge Co's yards at West Hickory will be taken up this week by the contractor, Jas. G. Carson, who expects to keep a full crew busy the greater part of the summer.

-Mrs. Orpha Conrad, wife of Henry Conrad, died of the home of her father, William McKay, Clarks Summit, Oil City, at 2 o'clock last Tuesday morning. She is survived by her husband and one daughter. The deceased was 24 years of age. The funeral services were held at the McKay residence at 1 p. m. Thursday, and the body was brought to Tionesta for interment the same afternoon.

-Ludwig Henry was struck and run over by the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company log train near Lodieta Wednesday morning, and was so badly injured that he died several hours later. Mr. Henry, who was quite deaf, was walking on the track and evidently did not hear the approaching train, which came up behind him. Mr. Henry was fifty-two years of age and single.—Sheffield Observer.

-G. W. Osgood's weather report for the month of March is as follows: Total rainfall, 4 inches; snow, 12 inches. There was but one zero day in the month, the 4th, when one degree was marked by the thermometer. The two warmest days fell on the 23d, 80° in the shade, and the 23d, 70°. For the same month last year the rainfall was 2 1/2 inches, and the snowfall 2 1/2 inches. The ice went out of the river on the 14th.

-We are informed that Dr. James Conway, of this place, who has been acting as supply for a church near Jacksonville, Florida, for the past month, has been tendered a call to the pastorate of the church, which he will accept, and that he is expected home soon to close up his business matters here and arrange for his removal to Florida.—Brookville Republican. Dr. Conway has frequently occupied the Presbyterian pulpit in this place, and has many admirers in Tionesta.

-Ernest G. Bishop, who, as manager of the local store of the Glasgow Woolen Mills, has made many friends in Oil City, has accepted a better position at Watertown, N. Y., and will take up his duties there next week. His abilities were so thoroughly appreciated here that some of the local merchants endeavored to induce him to remain, but the Watertown firm overbid them, says the Blizard. Mr. Bishop has many friends in this vicinity who will regret his departure to other fields.

-It is not necessary that one possess an abundance of hair, in fact, most hairdressers prefer to arrange hair that is comparatively scant. It is always possible to add a puff here and a curl there that will fill in deficiencies, yet remain light in both weight and appearance. The added pieces may be made of one's own combings, and there is no longer a prejudice against the attachment of these small separate pieces, providing always that the matter is not overdone and a light, natural effect is retained.—The Ladies World for April.

-For the purpose of perpetuating a custom which has been in vogue for several decades, and which has resulted in untold benefits, I, Edwin S. Stuart, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby, in accordance with the law, issue this my proclamation, designating Friday, the 5th day of April, and Friday, the 19th of April, A. D. 1907, to be observed as Arbor Days throughout the Commonwealth, the two days being named in view of the difference of climate, so that all sections of the State may find a day suitable for tree planting.

-The school house at Lineville was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon about five o'clock. It seems that the children had been clearing up the school yard and had started a fire. After they had all gone to their homes the building caught and was totally destroyed. The building was a two-story and cost about $2,000 two years ago. The insurance in the Farmers' Mutual, of Marble, amounts to $1,500.—Clarion Republican. We understand that the organ and some of the furniture was saved. The term of school will be completed in the Methodist church.

-There is some prospect that a river bridge will be erected at President by the authorities of Venango county. Viewers recently appointed by the court met at the ferry landing last Saturday to look the situation over and much will depend upon their decision in the matter. The blizzard thinks there is every reason why one should be erected at that point and no good reason why it should not. The ferry boat method of crossing is not only a back number, but it is dangerous, slow and not available during several months of each year. There is no bridge across the Allegheny between Oil City and Tionesta, a distance of more than 20 miles.

-J. C. Myers, Tionesta's new baker, has arrived and as soon as he can get possession of the rooms will begin operations in the Killmer building, which has been occupied by Mr. Snodgrass' racket store, who will move to the rooms vacated by the Tionesta Cash store. Mr. Myers has named his establishment the Tionesta Cash Bakery, and he will conduct an up-to-date institution, producing everything in his line, and of the best quality, so that it will not be necessary for our people to depend on outside concerns for fresh bread, or anything in the pastry line. He comes well recommended as a first class baker, and having moved his family and settled permanently here, it is hoped that he will receive the liberal patronage of our citizens.

-It is questionable whether the game and fish laws might not about as well be wiped off the statutes and the indiscriminate taking of both game and fish, especially the latter, be thrown open to all alike. So far as any adequate protection to the fish is concerned the law amounts to little or nothing. We venture to say that if one were so minded he could go out on any trout stream now and pick up a fairly good fishing pole of the water beech variety every ten rods. The warm weather of last week was calculated to breed the "fever" in any sportsman, so that he would find difficulty in "holding" himself, and what would it do with the fellow who "doesn't care a tinker's dam" for the law? The fish law has the effect to keep respecters of the law in check, only to give the lawless more sway and a better chance to get the best fish. And all the fish warriors in christendom to the contrary notwithstanding. It's a farce, pure and simple.

Andrews and Mrs. H. H. Watson, of Kelleetville, were visitors in Tionesta Saturday. -Miss May Mays returned Friday from a visit with her sister, Mrs. George Coe, in Pleasantville. -Mrs. P. K. George and Mrs. J. B. Muse were visiting in Franklin a few days last of the week. -Miss Lulu Carr, who has been confined to her bed for the past week, is improving.—Franklin News.

-Mr. and Mrs. Wm. White, of Titusville, were guests of their daughter, Mrs. J. J. Landers, over Sunday. -Mrs. Nell, who was visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. Derickson, returned Saturday to her home in Bradford. -Miss Josephine Smearbaugh came home from Washington Seminary Thursday to spend the Easter vacation. -John S. Gildersleeve, of Brookston, Howe township, is today announced as a Republican candidate for county treasurer. -W. L. Osgood, of Starr, was transacting business in town yesterday and paid his respects to the REPUBLICAN while here.

-Clarence D. Fitzgerald of Marienville and Emma M. Grulmonod of Gilfoyle were granted a license to wed by Clerk Geist yesterday. -Thos. Sibble, of Nebraska, dropped into the sanctum yesterday morning to say how-de-do, and renew his subscription for another year. -Mrs. Chas. Hinkle and Miss Colyn Clark, of Erie, and Mrs. David Edwards and little daughter, of Sharon, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Clark.

-E. W. Bowman, ex-assistant cashier of the Citizens National Bank, accepted ball last week and returned home on Thursday, F. C. Proper becoming surety for him. -Jas. F. Jones, a resident of Green township almost from boyhood, has moved with his family to East Hickory, Pa., where they will make their home for an indefinite period. -Mrs. Mary Glesing, who has made her home for the past four or five years at Morgantown, W. Va., has removed to Tionesta, occupying upper rooms in the Friedman store building.

-Will Clark, of Sharon, and Miss Ethel Clark, of the Meadville Commercial College, who were home to attend the funeral of their grandfather, the late Capt. Clark, returned Wednesday. -Isaac Kerr, who for the past year has been employed in the store of G. W. Robinson & Son, left Thursday last to take charge of a store and lumber plant for Bowman & Kerr, near Crown, Pa. -Floyd Saylor, who resides at No. 216 Depot street and is employed by the Ridgway Dynamo and Engine Co., was taken to the hospital on Wednesday, being ill with typhoid fever.—Ridgway Advocate.

-Mrs. Andrew Weller, of Starr, attended the funeral last week of her mother, Mrs. Lucy Truby, at Emolation, Pa. Mrs. Truby was over 90 years of age and one of the earliest of Emolation's residents. -Mrs. J. B. Muse entertained twelve of her lady friends at dinner Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. H. Robertson, and later in the evening Mrs. J. P. Grove entertained a number of lady friends, also honoring Mrs. Robertson.

-Misses Edith Hopkins, Genavieve Doult, Josephine Smearbaugh, Bertha Lawrence, Georgia Watson and her guests, Alice Bennett, and Messrs. Howard Kelly and Russell Hopkins attended a dinner party given by Miss Josephine Siggins at her home at West Hickory Saturday afternoon. -Robert Walters, for the past two years bookkeeper in the Citizens National Bank, left Monday in company of Mr. and Mrs. Robertson for the Pacific coast. Rob has two brothers and a number of friends living in the coast states, and if suited with the prospects will remain here indefinitely.

-Archie R. Hillard, a former Elk county young man, who is now at the Slippery Rock Normal School, is enjoying his Easter vacation season with his friends in this city and county. Archie is a little "jagged" in appearance by hard study, but just as jolly as ever.—Ridgway Advocate. -Hon. and Mrs. John H. Robertson departed on the 11:01 train Monday for their new western home, expecting to locate in the thriving city of Portland, Oregon. Very many friends in Forest county, and Tionesta in particular, regret exceedingly the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Robertson from this locality in which they have spent the happiest days of their lives. Mr. R., having come to this section when a mere boy, has been signally honored by his friends in being twice elected Prothonotary of the county, and once to the Legislature of his native state, and the feeling of regret at his leaving taking is shared alike by all. Mrs. Robertson has been one of Tionesta's most popular members of society and her separation from the social circle in which she has enjoyed so prominent a place has brought keenest sorrow to her numerous lady friends. May "the lines fall to them in pleasant places," and may prosperity and contentment be theirs wherever they may make their home.

-Lost in Dense Forest, Sagacious Dog Saves Children From Freezing. Our Kelleetville correspondent sends us the following particulars of the remarkable experience of two little children who were lost in the dense forest near that place: Sunday evening two of John Thornton's little girls, Florence and Dora, aged respectively twelve and ten years, accompanied by their faithful dog, started to look for their cows, which were only a short distance from the house. They became bewildered and went in the wrong direction, going about two miles in the dense forest and were not found until Monday morning about eight o'clock. Their father, in company with a few of his neighbors, searched all night. In the morning by the aid of several mill crews and others, a systematic search was instituted, and the children were found on the hill back of Buck Mills. They had wandered around all night except for a short time they rested under the roots of a fallen tree. The sagacious dog seemed to want to keep the children moving around to keep them from freezing, the night being very cold. So far as is now known no injury has resulted to the children from their exposure.

RECENT DEATHS.

MRS. W. G. MORROW. Gertrude McElboes, daughter of John Kinter and Margaret Thompson McElboes, was born at the old homestead near Kelleetville, Indiana county, Pa., March 24th, 1869, and died at West Hickory, March 26th, 1907. But thirty-eight years spans the brief record of this beautiful life, and a leaden cloud settles over the heart as the truth is flashed upon the mind that its earthly record has been finished and the brave struggle for life has ended. It did seem that she, who was so lately one among us, possessing as she did the rare and princely gifts of heart and mind, could ill be spared from her family and choice circle of friends, and the convulsive sob will come as we think of those who are left behind. The spirit that has fled to the blessed eternally was noble, pure and good and has been crowned with the most imperishable of earthly diadems—a sweet memory fragrant with the perfume of purity and loveliness. In September, 1891, Miss McElboes came among us as a teacher of Room No. 2 of our borough school. She had graduated that year at the Clarion State Normal and came highly recommended as a student and teacher, she having taken the highest honors of her class. Her work here as a teacher for three years was most acceptable and left a lasting impression for good among those with whom she came in contact. On December 24th, 1896, she became the wife of William Gillespie Morrow, M. D., son of the late Dr. Morrow, of Tionesta, who, the previous spring, had graduated at the Baltimore Medical College and had settled at West Hickory. To them were born three children, Margaret, John and Dorothy, the last named dying last August. Although Mrs. Morrow was eminently fitted to fill a position of high responsibility, it was no doubt that in the home with its ennobling and divine influence that she excelled as wife and mother. She did not aspire to any nobler ambition than to perform the duties of her home and she filled well Solomon's beautiful description of a noble wife and mother: "She looked well to the ways of her household. Her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her. A woman that feareth the Lord. Her own works praise her in the gates." She was always closely connected with the Presbyterian church. Descending as she did from the founders of Presbyterianism she early learned to cherish the truths of that faith, and was a consistent member of that denomination from her childhood. For the past five years Mrs. Morrow was an invalid, but her faith and courage were most remarkable. Even in the darkest hour she never murmured nor complained. Descending, as was her privilege, through successive generations of men and women of unquestioned gifts and attainments, she inherited from them a strong and remarkable intellect which remained clear and bright through all her illness. She was fully aware that the end of her journey was near, but assured her friends that she was nearing the beautiful Baulah land just as Bunyon had described the journey of Christian; and, while she was waiting the invisible veil was lifted and she was permitted to see the King in all His beauty. Funeral services, simple but impressive were conducted Thursday at 12 o'clock, by her pastor, Rev. J. F. Scherer, of Endeavor, at her late home, where many friends had gathered to offer a last tribute of respect to the gentle spirit that had passed out. The floral offerings were most beautiful and profuse, among the best being several very beautiful sets of roses, attesting the love and esteem of her many friends and expressing sweet sympathy for the loved ones left behind. The interment was made, as she had requested, in our beautiful Riverside cemetery the same afternoon.

The Hickory Tannery Will Resume Operations.

There is every prospect that work in the tannery at West Hickory, which has lain idle for a number of years, will be started up again in the near future. The plant, together with about 4,000 cords of bark, has been purchased by Martin Lawler, of Port Alleghe, Pa., whose intention is to begin at once to put the plant in shape for active operations. Soon after this tannery had been absorbed by the leather trust, some four or five years ago, work was suspended there, and while the suspension was supposed to be only temporary, no leather has been turned out since, much to the detriment of the business interests of the town, and the present outlook for a resumption is causing no end of rejoicing among the residents of the pretty little hamlet.

Two Opinions on the Dog.

Recently a bill was introduced in the House at Harrisburg proposing a little extra tax, or safeguard, we had better put it upon the dog. Commenting upon this theme neighbor White of the Tidoute News makes this rather uncompromising comment upon all dogs, irrespective of creed, color or previous condition of servitude: That bill should receive the vote of every legislator that isn't a dogphobist, but another section making a dog owner responsible for all damages and expense occasioned in case his bites or annoys anybody, thus developing a hydrophobia scare. Or for damage of any kind done by his animal. There'd be mighty few tags sold in such case and thus the brutes could be wiped out of their special favored privileges.

Bro. White seems to lose sight of the fact that some of our newspaper claps are going down the other slope, verging dangerously and are apt to be just a trifle crusty and easily irritated, at times, and that often we allow these creaky old hinges of ours to be swayed by the little incidents of life, thus sending out rasping, disagreeable sounds, greatly to the discomfort of our younger and happier friends, who may perchance still have some admiration for the faithful canine. And it is possible, were some people to have their way of it, a lot of our sour old editors, too, would be taxed off the earth. Now let us glance for comparison upon another's opinion of the dog, that of U. S. Senator Vest, as he once addressed a jury on behalf of a friend whose faithful dog had been sent to the happy hunting grounds by an irate neighbor: Gentlemen of the jury—the best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has may be lost. His wife may leave him, perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolute, unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. Gentlemen of the jury, a man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he can be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert he remains. When riches take wings and poverty falls to pieces he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in his arms and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his grave side will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death.

In Memoriam.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in His infinite providence to remove from our midst our worthy and distinguished brother, Captain C. W. Clark, and whereas we deeply deplore our loss, yet we bow in humble submission to "Him who death all things weigh." Resolved, That by the death of Honorable C. W. Clark, Tionesta Lodge, No. 269, I. O. O. F., has lost one of her most respected and conscientious members, one whose every day walk in life exemplified the principles of our beloved order, a good citizen, respected and honored by all who knew him. Resolved, That we hereby extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family of our departed brother in their hours of sorrow and bereavement. Resolved, That as a token of respect to the memory of the deceased, our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days, a copy of these resolutions presented to his family and published in the county papers.
