—Martin Beatty had the fingers of his right hand considerably lacerated by a saw on James Whitman's shingle mill, above Endeavor, Thursday morning, necessitating the amputation of one finger at the first joint, the others being saved.

—The Sunday excursion to Olean and Bradford did not draw very heavily from Tionesta, only six tickets being sold to the upper cities and eight to Warren. The train was well filled from Titusville and Oil City, having 450 passengers when it reached here.

—Young men who start to learn a trade in these days think that after a month they know it all. It is money they want more than a trade. Such boys take no interest in their work and usually are no good—develop into nothing. They do not realize that they should put ideas into their heads from which they can realize hereafter.—EX.

—For the benefit of the parties that visited H. C. Yarnell's chickens Saturday night, or rather Sunday morning, May 12th, near Stewart Run, who must have thought they were getting something nice and fat as they were shut in a small coop by themselves, we will state that three out of the five taken were sitting hens and had brought off broods Saturday. Yarnell advises chicken thieves to take a bag or some other secure receptacle to carry them in, as they were easily traced by feathers dropped at intervals on the way.

—"History," says a woman writer in an exchange "is a foolish little sugar cake, to be sure, but there isn't a bit of harm in it, not a single bit, and the woman who won't flatter her own husband once in a while will find out her cost that there are lots of other women in the world who are not so stiff-necked as she is." Now will our dearies be good?

—The Pittsburg Post, with a few strokes of the pen, has again converted the narrow gauge railroad between Foxburg and Kane into a grand trunk four track system. This important event happens about once in six months, greatly to the annoyance of the residents along the line who would be glad to see some substantial betterment of facilities.

—Special attention is directed to the change in the ad. of the Warren National Bank on the first page of the REPUBLICAN today. This solid financial institution has made marvelous strides since its organization, the assets growing with leaps and bounds from $225,040.06 in 1893 to $2,497,348.82 in the present year. This is a growth that is calculated to bring pride to the official management of the bank as well as its many patrons.

—Col. Samuel B. Dick, one of Meadville's best known, life long and most popular citizens, died at his home on Friday night after an illness of three days, leaving a host of friends, not alone in his native town, but throughout the state and nation. He had been a prominent figure for many years, serving his district in Congress, and his war record was one of which any man should be proud. As a business man he was quite noted, and leaves a large estate.

—In view of the rapid gait at which we are going we're apt to forget some things of comparatively recent happening. The Franklin News calls to mind that a year ago May 10th snow fell in this latitude of sufficient depth to make snow-balling easy, a matter which had escaped the memory of most of us. The snow storm of last Friday night, 10th inst., was just one year later, and gave people a rather chilly surprise as they looked out Saturday morning and saw the ground white with the "beautiful."

—N. F. Hoover, Samuel Aul, Ed. Harmon, of Marienville, George Younger, Sheffield, W. A. Wray, of Vowinckle, and others, left yesterday for Jefferson county a short distance from Brookville, where they are interested in a gas well that was brought in the last week which is reported to be good for two million feet per day. The company have about 2,600 acres under lease. All kinds of big offers have been made for the property. We are glad to report such a stroke of good fortune for our townsmen.—Express.

—The district Sunday school convention held in the Presbyterian church here yesterday, was quite well attended. Two interesting sessions were held, afternoon and evening, the program including a number of subjects of vital importance to Sunday school workers. Rev. P. J. Stonaker, of Brookwayville, president of the Forest county association, was present and delivered an address in the evening, as did also Rev. Mr. Scherer of Endeavor. The annual county convention will be held in Tionesta on June 17th.

—The wholesale prices of meat advanced two cents per pound last week, and another is expected from one-half to three-quarters of a cent in the near future. This applies alike to beef, lamb and pork. The reason the wholesalers give for the increase is that live cattle are scarce in the west and the price has risen there. But it is more likely that the big packers are taking this means to get even with the people. As new vegetables will soon be coming in it will be well for the average citizen to turn vegetarian for a while.

—Jerry McCartney, aged 21 years, met death in an accident on a logging train connected with the lumbering plant of R. M. Morrison & Co., at Morrill, W. Va., on the 3d inst. The young man was a brakeman on the train which got beyond control while going down a heavy grade and was wrecked, his body being badly mangled. The remains were brought to Marienville, this county, where the unfortunate young man had made his home with an aunt, and given burial in the R. C. cemetery. The deceased had many friends at his former home, being a young man of exemplary habits.

—J. L. Clover, who with his family of wife and several small children were inmates at the county home for a number of weeks, died at Emergency hospital, Warren, Thursday, from a bronchial trouble. He had of late been with a brother-in-law at Lake City, Elk county, and Commissioner Emert had gone to Ridgway to bring him back to the home, but when they reached Warren he could go no farther and was taken to the hospital, where he lived but 24 hours. He was aged about 35 years, and was buried at Warren. He formerly lived at Marienville, and the family became a charge upon the county before gaining a residence elsewhere.

—Burglars paid a visit to the residence of Associate Judge John Siggins, in Tidououte, Wednesday night, sometime during the early hours of the morning, but were frightened away before securing anything beyond a few provisions and a dollar which was taken from a pocketbook in a handbag belonging to Mrs. Siggins, which lay in the sitting room. Judge Siggins heard the noise made by the intruders, but supposed that it was a member of the family who was up and about, until he saw a face peering in the doorway of his bedroom, when he called out and wanted to know who was there. This frightened the man or men, who left hastily. There is no clue as to who they were. Entrance was effected by picking a lock.

—We know a couple of fellows who took their first trout fishing holiday for this season one afternoon last week. The day wasn't anything extra for the sport and they didn't catch more than the limit, neither were they caught with any undressed fish. They had enough "bait" for two ordinary fishermen, but met a number of other fellows who were "just about out," but had no fish to sell, so the law wasn't broken in this respect. When they quit fishing one fellow took all the fish because his pard was modest and didn't believe in trying to make "two bites of a cherry." Before breakfast next morning the family cat made way with one-half the trout, leaving barely enough to scent the frying pan, and there was mourning in the household. Now, this isn't much of a fish story, but the beauty of it is, it's a true one.

—Rick Donovan, one of the best known and most popular hotel men this section has ever had, died at his home in Kane on the 10th inst., of neuralgia of the heart, after an illness of only a few hours. Mr. Donovan had quit the hotel business and was interested in oil developments. He was aged 58 years, and was a native of New York state, and is survived by his wife and one daughter.

—It is said the Pennsylvania railroad authorities have placed a "ban on galantry." No longer will white shirt waists and other finery of female passengers on the railroad be soiled by chivalric but unclean hands. An order has been issued that hereafter conductors and brakemen shall refrain from aiding the fair sex to board or leave trains, unless requested. Complaints of women whose apparel has been soiled by over anxious trainmen led to the order.

—The general assembly of the Presbyterian church, which will meet in Columbus, O., Thursday for a ten day session, will be one of the largest and most representative gatherings of religious workers ever held in this country. Every State in the union will be represented and almost every foreign country. The assembly is a delegate body and the greater part of the 1,100 commissioners have been chosen. Among the number are many prominent clergymen and laymen of the church. The greatest event of the assembly will undoubtedly be the recognition of the 200 or more commissioners, representing for the first time the 113 presbyteries, 2,889 churches and 145,419 members of the former Cumberland church and the final consummation of the union of the two churches. More than ordinary interest is manifested this year in the selection of a moderator. There is some talk of making it a salaried office. The principal argument used in favor of the proposed action is that the duties involved require a man's whole time.

—Now is the time to attend to the spring pruning of roses, when the buds begin to swell. Dwarf roses bloom from the wood of the current year. Keep your rose buds clear of all weeds. Stir the earth every week, and after a rain and the crust is dry begin to use the hoe. Feed your roses with liquid manure in blooming time. Use cow manure, allowing a half bushel to a barrel of water. Make a groove around the bush, so it will not escape, and try to do this just before a rain. The chemistry of nature is wonderful. What with recent discoveries of how certain plants cast off formaldehyde we can but ask, "What next?" Our queen of flowers is a gross feeder and converts compost into flowers and leaves that have made lovers and poets hold them as the choicest of gifts. When beetles find the roses hand picking is the only resort. A tin can of kerosene and patience are required, and when you get all through you can return, and often find that a lot more beetles have descended. The queen of oil roses, Her Majesty, is subject to mildew, and should be kept away from other bushes. Begin at once with flower of sulphur when you notice mildew. —Philadelphia Ledger.

—Fires have done considerable damage to young growing timber on the west side of the river, in Tionesta and Harmony townships, within the past few days, and for a time threatened to sweep the entire country. On Sunday a party went from here to fight a bad fire that had broken out in the vicinity of Neilltown. Fred Dryer's place, on Hunter run was burned over, and a fine lot of young timber practically destroyed. The same thing happened to Henry Yarnell and D. E. Carson, living near Stewart Run, Harmony twp., most of their young timber being ruined by the fire. The fact that these fires nearly always break out on Sunday leads to the suspicion that they are set out either willfully or carelessly by Sunday fishermen, many of whom get off the train at this and stations above and below this place, and fish the small streams. Over in Harmony township a bad fire broke out recently very shortly after three fishermen had passed along the road and those who discovered and tried to extinguish it believe these men deliberately set the fire out, there being three or four different spots where it had been started. Such desperate vandalism should be speedily hunted down and the vandals punished to the full extent of the law.

Among the donors to this handsome fund, who our Congressman, Hon. N. P. Wheeler, is writing the chairman of the committee, Mr. H. S. Thayer, as follows:

C. A. work ever since my first trip down the river as a boy and know no better means of improving a community. Trust you may succeed in your efforts. Yours very truly,

Killed By Falling Tree.

Saturday about the noon hour, John Kalcic, aged about 23 years, and a German by birth, met instant death by being crushed by a falling tree in the lumber woods near Porkey. He was employed as a "swampier"—clearing out roads for the teams at A. L. Wellers' camp, and having the only watch in the crew, had gone to inform the log cutters that it was noon, or dinner time. A tree had fallen partly to the ground and lodged on another, and when the unfortunate victim reached the men he expressed a desire to see it fall, and asked for an ax with which to cut the tree down. The other workmen warned him of the danger of such an undertaking, but he thought he could get out of the way and so tackled the job. When the trees began to fall Kalcic started to run from under them but was caught, one of the trees striking him on the head crushing him horribly and scattering his brains on the ground. Death was instantaneous. The body was prepared for burial and on Sunday the funeral was held, Rev. Mr. Tanner, of the Free Methodist church, conducting the services, with interment in the Whig Hill cemetery. Kalcic was known as an industrious and steady going fellow, who was well liked by his fellow laborers. He had on deposit in the Sheffield National bank $325 which he had saved from his earnings in the past few months. His parents reside in Brooklyn, N. Y. and he is also survived by three sisters.

RECENT DEATHS.

Stephen Emick, of Harmony township, died at the Oil City hospital, shortly after twelve o'clock, Thursday, May 9th, 1907.

As was noted in these columns last week, Mr. Emick was taken to the hospital on Monday previous to his death, where his right leg was amputated between the knee and hip, the operation being made necessary by an injury which he sustained in his boyhood. For a time after the operation his condition seemed favorable and hopes were entertained of his complete recovery, but his enfeebled constitution could not withstand the shock and his death was caused by pyemia at the time stated.

Mr. Emick was born at Lutersville, Switzerland, February 8, 1851. In 1873 he came to America, settling at Pithole. He followed the oil business in this vicinity and for a number of years was engaged in the same work in Millerstown and Glade Run, Butler county, and Wildwood and McDonald, Allegheny county. Thirteen years ago he purchased the farm on which he resided to the time of his death. Mr. Emick was an honest and industrious citizen and highly respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Lutheran church. In 1876 he was united in marriage with Miss Phoebe Hicks, of England, who survives him with one son, Charles. He is also survived by two brothers and one sister, Nicholas, of Pithole, Pa., and Benjamin and Elizabeth, of Switzerland.

Funeral services were held at the home Saturday at one o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. O. Calhoun, and the remains were interred in Riverside cemetery, Tionesta.

THE JOHNSTON All Steel RAKE

Two desirable features to look for when buying a rake are ease of operation and durability of construction. The Johnston All Steel Rake is made of the strongest material where the strain is greatest. The head and frame where most of the strain comes are made of angle steel making a light, rigid, strong, durable machine. Wheels are made of steel with cast hubs and round staggered spokes—it's all steel and no warp, no shrink and no split if it's a Johnston. The teeth do clean work without scratching, are long, flat-pointed and interchangeable. The Johnston All Steel Rake is easy to operate—easy on horse and man because it is so nicely and evenly balanced. The Johnston

Book describes the construction and tells all the good points—tells why it's the rake to buy, also describes other farm tools that you'll want to know about. Made, marketed and backed by 50 years devoted to the construction of farm machines of true merit. Read the book before you buy. Don't forget that Johnston's "Hot in the Trade" means much to the farmer who's going to buy machinery. Write today—we'll send the book free.

THE JOHN
