Now or Never

Carpets, Mattings, Rugs, Linoleums.

Now is your time to buy and save money. Never again will you see carpetings of all kinds as low priced as they are to-day. This is not guess work, but a positive fact as the market conditions are such that the goods cannot be made at first cost for the prices they are offered to you. We anticipated advances and bought very largely and very early. With the backward spring we have many lots too big. Our motto is never carry goods over to next season if a price will sell them. So we have decided to make a price that must sell them. We are never undersold for goods of equal value. Don't fail to see what we have before buying.

USE FOR OLD WASHSTANDS.

A Valuable Addition to the Kitchen Furnishings.

Perhaps there's an old-fashioned washstand with a marble top which has been banished from the bedroom to give place to an all-wood article of handsomer and up-to-date make.

But the old-time stand is not past its usefulness yet, by any means, so pull it from its cobwebby corner down to the light of outdoors for a general overhauling. If in good repair, merely treat the shelves and drawers to a generous application of warm suds, clean off the marble with some whitening and a cloth dipped in alcohol, finishing the woodwork with a kerosene-moistened cloth, and leave for a good sunning and airing.

It is now ready for a place in your kitchen, where it will fill a long-felt need, for the marble surface is far superior to the ordinary board for the rolling out of pie dough; because it is cold for one reason. Should the top be furnished with tin shelves, all the handier, then, for accommodating the vessel of ice-water and other articles.

Besides its uses as a "baking board," it is just the thing upon which to slice down vegetables for soup, or cutting cabbage for slaw, or trimming the steak for the evening meal. It requires next to no work to keep it clean, and is so sanitary, its smooth surface affording but scanty lodgment for the ubiquitous microbe. Then, there is the drawer, for the dish towels; and there are the shelves, for the stowing out of sight and dust of the homely kettle and pots and pans, the presence of which should never be too conspicuous in a well-ordered kitchen.

Where Closet Room Is Scarce.

The accompanying illustration fills a long felt want in households where closets are small, and at the same time takes up very little space. The plan of its construction is as follows: Upon an ordinary standard is placed a center upright, which supports a revolving hub at the top. Connected with the hub is a tubular rim, upon which are suspended a dozen or more hooks arranged to slide on the rim. On each hook an arm is attached. These arms are about a foot in length and serve to support the garments. When not actually in use they can be swung out to their extended position so as not to extend beyond the outline of the rim.

Prim Dutch Girls.

The etiquette of Holland is exceedingly strict in all classes. The young girl is most carefully chaperoned, and she never goes anywhere, even to church, unless accompanied by her parents, some male relative, or other equally trustworthy attendant. At a dance the parents sit round the walls sipping their coffee or wine, and the young men must make the best of their chances in the opportunities afforded by the dance, for when it pleases the guardians to depart there is no help for it but the girls must go, too.

An unmarried girl always takes the right arm of her escort, while the matron takes the left, perhaps because it is nearer the heart.

Soup Without Meat.

Take four ounces of butter, two sliced onions, two heads of celery, two lettuce, a small bunch of parsley, two handfuls of spinach, three pieces of bread crust, salt and pepper to taste, the yolks of two eggs, three teaspoonfuls of vinegar, two quarts of water. Melt the butter in a stewpan and put in the onions to stew for three or four minutes, then add the celery, spinach, lettuce and parsley cut small. Stir the ingredients well for ten minutes. Now put in the water, bread and seasoning. Boil gently for one and half hours, and at the moment of serving beat in the eggs and the vinegar, but do not let it boil, or the eggs will curdle.

Stuffed Onions.

Boil until tender—but not broken—some large onions. Drain, and when cool enough to handle, take out the centers with a small knife. Chop enough ham or cold meat to make a cupful, add to it half as much fine breadcrumbs and mix all to a soft paste with a little milk and one beaten egg. Season to taste and put this mixture into the centers of the onions. Put in the top of each onion a bit of butter. Place the onions in a buttered pudding dish and bake slowly until tender all through. Three-quarters of an hour should be time enough. Serve with a white sauce.
