SHIP SUNK IN PACIFIC

Steamer Columbia Collided With Lumber Schooner.

The San Pedro Sank Her Stem Fully 10 Feet into the Columbia's Port Bow—in Five Minutes the Steamer Sank—Four Lifeboats and Two Rafts Launched.

Eureka, Cal., July 23.—Of the 249 persons on the steamer Columbia, which was run into and sunk early Sunday morning by the lumber-laden schooner San Pedro, 144 were brought here by the steamer Elder. Of these 107 were passengers and 37 members of the crew of the Columbia.

Besides this, four lifeboats are reported to have been picked up, one containing 13 people, another 18 and the third 15. The number in the fourth boat is not given.

San Francisco, July 23.—In one of the worst marine disasters in the history of the California coast between 100 and 150 lives were lost, as far as has been learned, by a midnight collision between the steamer Columbia and the steam lumber schooner San Pedro in Shelter Cove, 12 miles south-west of the Mendocino-Humboldt county line, between 12 and 1 o'clock Sunday morning.

Only meagre details of the tragedy have been received, though every effort has been made to get the facts. Scores of telegrams to Eureka, the nearest point of importance, remain unanswered. The few details known here were brought by the steamer Roanoke and the steam schooner Daisy Mitchell, which arrived in San Francisco yesterday forenoon.

The Columbia, a 300-foot steel vessel of the San Francisco and Portland Steamship company, while bound from San Francisco for Portland, Ore., with 185 passengers and a crew of 60, collided with and was rammed by the San Pedro, a 170-foot wooden steamer, southbound for this city.

The sea was smooth but the weather was foggy. The San Pedro, looming out of the mist a few ship lengths away, bore down on the Columbia at high speed, despite frantic efforts to clear. With a grinding crash the San Pedro sank her stem fully 10 feet into the Columbia's port bow.

Nearly all of the Columbia's passengers and many of her crew were asleep when the collision occurred. As the San Pedro backed away the sea poured in through the ragged hole in the Columbia's bow above and below the water line, and in five minutes she sank.

The story of that five minutes is yet to be told and until it is told by some survivors the facts of the tragedy can be but guessed at.

According to J. S. Flynn, a passenger on the Roanoke, Captain Doran of the Columbia succeeded in launching four life boats and two rafts before the Columbia sank. Flynn in an interview is quoted as saying that 28 passengers, all men, got away in that manner and were saved; that Captain Doran acted with great coolness in the face of death and went down with his ship. Flynn is further quoted as saying that not one of the 100 odd women passengers was saved.

Shortly after the collision the steamers Roanoke and George W. Elder and the steam schooner Daisy Mitchell, all southbound, came on the scene and stood by. The Elder took the San Pedro in tow and the latest report announces their arrival in Eureka. The stem of the San Pedro was smashed to splinters, one of her masts was snapped off at the deck, she was settling and she had a heavy list when taken in tow. Captain Hansen remained on board.

The Daisy Mitchell offered assistance to the Elder, but this was declined. She picked up a lifeboat and a raft of the Columbia and brought them to this city.

Near the scene of the wreck the Roanoke picked up a lifeboat and found underneath it the dead body of a passenger supposed to be Edward Butler of Portsmouth, N. H.

The officers of the Merchants' Exchange in this city and of the various newspapers have been besieged since early morning by relatives and friends of the Columbia's passengers, but the assistant and tearful requests for information of the victims and the rescued remained unsatisfied. Beyond the reported facts that Butler was drowned and that Captain Doran went down with his ship few details of casualties have been received.

President Frey of the steamship company said that the Columbia lies in deep water and 15 miles off shore, and that for the present at least no attempt will be made to raise her.

Captain Doran was regarded by the officials of the San Francisco and Portland Steamship company as one of the ablest seamen who ever operated a vessel on the coast. His career had been free from accidents and this was the first disaster that had befallen any vessel over which he held command.

Contractor Killed by Fall of Tree. Oneida, N. Y., July 23.—Elisha G. Gay, a well-known contractor of this city, was instantly killed while superintending the cutting of a tree in front of a building he was preparing to move. A large limb fell across a guy wire of the electric railroad, breaking off a pole, which in falling struck Mr. Gay on the head, fracturing his skull.

HAU SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Heard the Verdict of the Jury With Perfect Composure.

Karl Hau, July 23.—Karl Hau, a brilliant young law professor of Washington, D. C., was condemned to death this morning after a five days' trial, for the murder of his wife's mother, Frau Mollitor, a wealthy resident of Baden Baden, in that city Nov. 6 last.

The prisoner heard the verdict of the jury with perfect composure and chatted smilingly with his counsel after the judges withdrew to fix his sentence. Upon the return of the judges Hau arose and standing erect with folded arms, listened to the sentence without moving a muscle. A moment later he was hurried away to prison by half a dozen police-men.

The sentence is unpopular with the street crowds, which have been demonstrating more and more openly for several days in Hau's favor and against the Mollitor family.

After the adjournment of the court for a recess at 8 o'clock last night the women of the Mollitor party were compelled to remain in an office of the court house because it was dangerous for them to appear in the streets. A carriage waited for them in the court yard, and it was several hours before they were able to leave. Meanwhile, enormous crowds had assembled in the streets adjacent to the court house.

Cordons of police kept the crowds in check for an hour or more, but then lost control of them, the masses pushing and crushing forward to the doors with the evident intention of storming the entrance.
