—Among the most acceptable holiday gifts you can bestow upon a friend is an engraved calling card, and it is not too early now to place your order for them, because of the rush later in the season. The REPUBLICAN is prepared to furnish the very latest in this line at the most reasonable prices. Call and see samples.

—The Fulton harness shop fixtures and tools have been removed to the Sigworth store room, up stairs, and Mr. S. expects to have a saddler at work there within a few days. Since the departure of Mr. Fulton teamsters and others have felt the loss greatly, and they will welcome the re-establishing of a harness shop in this place.

—The old reliable insurance firm of C. M. Arner & Son has established a branch office at Kellettville, which will be in charge of Lewis Arner. Any one in that vicinity wanting fire insurance in none but first class companies, will do well to call on Mr. Arner, and will find him an agreeable gentleman to transact business with.

—Saturday afternoon Geo. B. Armstrong of the borough, missed $40 in currency which he had in his pocket. He thinks he may have dropped it, as the money was not in a pocket book. Mr. Armstrong can ill afford to lose so much money, and hopes that it may have fallen into the hands of an honest person who will return it to him. A liberal reward will be paid to the finder if left either with Mr. Armstrong or at this office.

—A new flag walk is being laid from the southwest corner of the court house grounds through the park to the side entrance to the building, which will be a source of convenience to the public, which persisted in taking this short-cut over the lawn anyway.

—R. O. Carson drilled in his No. 4 well on his farm at Nettown last Thursday and it is estimated to be good for about four barrels, natural. They are delayed in rigging up by some bad luck. While tubing the well, Friday, all of the tubing but a few joints was dropped into the hole and lost. It will probably make a bad fishing job.

—Reports are coming from different parts of the state, and more especially the western section, concerning swindlers who are apparently engaged in peddling linen. They carry bolts of seemingly fine Irish linen which they offer at a very low price, but the fabric is a cheap cotton imitating genuine linen. Household should make an iron clad rule to patronize only reputable dealers with whom they are acquainted.

—E. O. McCauley, cashier of the Freedom (Pa.) National Bank, and E. Y. Clark, the manager of the Freedom Casket Work, who were guests of Dr. J. C. Dunn recently, were so fortunate as to bring down a wildcat while hunting over in Harmony township. The feline was a large one, measuring 31 inches in length, and while its tail may have been a trifle longer than the specifications call for, yet it was a scrapper from the word go. After being shot out of a tree and badly wounded, the animal made things lively for the two dogs which the hunters had with them.

—United States Attorney John W. Dunkle, of Pittsburg, formerly of Warren, is still suffering from blood poison which has bothered him for some weeks. Mr. Dunkle took a vacation in the Canadian woods and in some way scratched his hand, making a slight wound, to which he paid no attention. Some foreign matter got into the wound and blood poison set in.

—Don't forget you farmers that it is a matter of ten dollars and costs under the new pure food law to bring ancient eggs to market. Better try them all out and be sure they are fresh to save trouble and costs. And the grocers had better sit up and take notice that the law applies to them as well. The consumer has suffered a long time from over ripe hen fruit, but will fare better hereafter we hope.—Emlenton News.

—Frank Hunter, whose farm is located in Green township, on the road leading from Nebraska to Newmansville, is piping gas to his place from the Tionesta gas company's wells located on the David Walters farm. It will require 5,000 feet to cover the distance and Frank was down yesterday to haul and string the pipe. James Walters, one of Mr. Hunter's neighbors will also probably use the gas from this line.

—An old citizen has the weather all figured out, says an exchange, and asks the public to take note of the following predictions: Indian summer will begin about Nov. 1 and there will be fine weather until Nov. 15. Snow will then begin to fall, and by Nov. 20 there will be enough of "the beautiful" for good sleighing. Up to the hour of going to press the fine Indian summer weather had not materialized.

—The bids have been opened for the four new buildings of the North Warren State Hospital, and work will be commenced upon them next spring. The buildings will be a men's infirmary, woman's building, dwelling for the steward, and a men's building. Bids were opened October 23rd, and William Hanley of Bradford was the lowest bidder. The structures will be finished in time for occupancy in the fall of 1908. The new structures will have room for 250 patients. The other improvements, such as a pumping station, piggery, etc., will not be taken up as yet.

—No excursions will be run on any of the local railroads either on Thanksgiving or Christmas as has been the custom in former years. With the introduction of the two-cent fare in Pennsylvania, the railroads made a tacit agreement that all excursions should cease. In past years fares as low as one and one-half cents a mile were granted. This may or may not be retaliatory, but it is satisfactory to the public. With a two cent rate the year round, the public will not figure on doing the bulk of its travel at holiday times and keep a sharp lookout for cheap rates, when trains are crowded and service not always the best.

—Hallowe'en was observed in Tionesta in a manner befitting the occasion and at once sensible. There seems to have been an utter absence of vandalism, and the merry-makers gave themselves up wholly to having a good time and furnishing fun for others. Fully one-half the burg seemed to have taken on the mask, and the grotesque costumes and ridiculous manners of the fun-makers kept the onlookers in a torrent of laughter from early evening till well toward midnight. The sport was not furnished alone by the younger element, but many of the older heads of both sexes got into the game and helped along with the amusement features. Were Hallowe'en always passed in such a joyful manner the occasion would be looked forward to with anticipations of pleasure rather than terror as has been the case in former years.

—The carcass of a little cub bear, weighing just nineteen pounds, attracted much attention Monday evening as it lay on the scales at Wilson's meat market. The pretty little fellow was killed by Howard, the 18-year-old son of Ernest Sibbe, who was squirrel hunting back of Henry Glassner's fields on German Hill, not more than two miles from Tionesta. The lad first noticed the mother bear feeding down over the hill, and then saw the cub climbing a small sapling not far away, being "treed" by Sibbe's squirrel dog. A load of shot brought down the little fellow, who was scarcely larger than a couple of black squirrels, and there was something touching about the thought that the mother of this young baby bear was obliged to flee from its protection, leaving it to the tender mercies of human hands to deal with. It is reasonable to suppose she has since been loitering about the spot in search of her offspring, and it will not be surprising if she also is bagged, as well as a second cub which is said to be with her. G. E. Gerow purchased the dead cub and will send it to Rochester, N. Y., to be mounted.

—It is a strange fact of human nature, but true beyond question, that people are most afraid when there is the least danger, and least afraid where the most danger lies. This characteristic is no doubt an evolution from the infancy of the race, when men, out of the blackness of the night of ignorance, looked with awe upon the vast unknown. Women, for instance, fear a mouse, but are not afraid to compress their vital organs into half their natural space by tight lacing. Men will make for the cyclone cellar during a thunder storm, but are not afraid to fraternize with the demon, rum, whose crease is death.—Punky Spirit.

—Miss Lillian M. Phelps, the noted lecturer from St. Catherine's, Ontario, Canada, will speak in the M. E. church, next Tuesday evening, Nov. 12th, at seven-thirty o'clock. She comes under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., and as she has lectured here before, they are to be congratulated for having secured her services. Miss Phelps is one of the most accomplished and eloquent platform speakers and she carries the audience with her by her clear cut statements and logical reasoning. We know she will sustain the golden opinions won for her when she was here before, so we hope she will be greeted by a large and appreciative audience. A free will offering will be taken.

—Here is a new theory, given for what it's worth: A very great scarcity of pheasants in and about Freeland, Luzerne county, was a puzzle to the hunters until Monday, when the real cause was found to be cholera. It is a circumstance never before encountered in the mountains of Luzerne county. In the lowlands and mountainous north of the Freeland line pheasants' nests have been found in abundance, the eggs all rotten. In some instances the hatching birds were found dead on the nests. Throughout the district, which in former years gave bird hunters the best sport, scarcely a bird has been seen so far this season. Immediately south of the Freeland line the epidemic's ravages have been most pronounced.

—The Skidoo Club, of Tionesta, made merry with their friends on Hallowe'en by a masquerade progressive party. The guests assembled at the home of Fern Dunn at 7:30 o'clock, where they were entertained for an hour by Janet Jamieson and herself. A dainty lunch consisting of two courses was served. The tables were decorated in autumn leaves. The guests then went to Mr. C. A. Lanson's, where they passed another hour of enjoyment. A delightful lunch was served there by May Lanson and Hazel Clark, their decorations being Jack-o'-lanterns. The next and last place was at Mr. S. R. Maxwell's, where they were served with another delightful lunch by Florence Maxwell and Eva Hunter. A jolly time was reported by all who were present.

—Among the many social events incident to the celebration of Hallowe'en, none were more successful or gave more pleasure to those who participated than the masquerade party given on Thursday night, in Bovard's hall. About sixty guests appeared in costume ranging from the grotesque to the fancy, and it was a right merry party which promaded in the grand march at nine o'clock. The unmasking came shortly after eleven o'clock, and many were the surprises. An elegant and satisfying lunch was served by the young ladies. The decorations of the hall were very pretty and appropriate to the season, being formed of corn, pumpkins and autumn leaves. Quite a number of visitors not in costume were also present. Among the out-of-town guests were, Miss Florence Kugler, of Oil City; Prof. Franklin Cannon and U. S. Miles, of Warren; Will Scott, of Oil City; Dr. Karl E. Wenk, of Kane, and Charles Shontz, of Franklin.

—Charles Arnold Hill, one of the day patrolmen of the local police force, was married last evening at 8:30 o'clock to Miss Grace Edna Smith one of Siverly's most estimable young women. The ceremony was a modest one, so far as witnesses were concerned, the only friends present being members of the family and the wife and son of the officiating clergyman, Rev. J. K. Whippo, pastor of the Siverly M. E. church. The event occurred at the home of the father of the bride, Like Smith, No. 135 River street, Siverly. The house was beautifully decorated in pink and white and the wedding feast was a family dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Hill have departed on a short wedding trip and will be "at home" on Graff street, after November 20.—Oil City Derrick, 5th.

—The groom is a former Tionesta boy, and his bride is favorably known to many of our citizens as having been employed at the Tionesta bakery during a portion of the past summer.

—Indications are that James Strail, of Rousseville, charged with the murder of his wife in Oil City, will have a regularly retained attorney to defend him. His case is among those on the calendar of criminal court which opens on Monday, November 24, at Franklin. A number of business men of Rousseville on Saturday circulated a subscription paper and in a short time secured pledges for about $70 and expect to make the amount $100. At first it was thought that Strail would be entitled to an attorney under a state law, but in a ruling Judge Criswell gave the opinion that the statute was open to criticism and expressed the belief that there were Venango county attorneys who would undertake the defense without asking pecuniary recompense. Strail's actions, before shooting down his wife and his demeanor since, gave his acquaintances and neighbors in Rousseville the opinion that he was mentally irresponsible and they have decided to raise money to retain an attorney to advance that plea when the man comes before the court for trial.—Derrick.

A Methodist Minister Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
 We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for seven years, and it has always proved to be a reliable remedy. We have found that it would do more than the manufacturers claimed for it. It is especially good for croup and whooping cough.—Rev. James A. Lewis, Pastor Milaca, Minn., M. E. Church. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is sold by Dunn & Fulton.

—Miss Nancy C. Morrow teacher in the primary department of the Tidouste school, was one of the instructors in primary work at the recent county institute held at Warren. Miss Morrow evidently "made good" in her work, as Supt. Gunning rewarded her handsomely at the close of the institute.

—Friends here have received the announcement of the marriage of Miss Myrtle Horton Reid to Mr. Rowell Howe, who will be remembered by many as a former Tionesta boy. The wedding occurred at the bride's home at Danvers, Mass., on the 31st ult., and the young couple will reside at Sault Saint Marie, Mich.

—Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Bailey were treated to a genuine surprise Thursday evening, when a large number of their friends called at the manse and "showered" them with many good things to eat, besides a number of useful household articles, one of which was a Reznor gas stove. The popular parson and wife were taken completely by surprise, and the masking by some of their visitors, it being Hallowe'en, made the visitation the more mystifying, but none the less appreciated.

Presentation to the Public School.

On Saturday evening, November 2d, a delightful entertainment was held in the Presbyterian church, at which was the pleasant privilege of the members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union to present to each room of the public school of Tionesta a portrait of the immortal Frances E. Willard. The pupils of the school who assisted in the exercises had been most carefully trained by the teachers, and it was a pleasure to listen to their sweet young voices as they proclaimed the cause of temperance in recitations and in songs. A sketch of Miss Willard's life was given by Mrs. Sule May Sharpe, after which Mrs. Ella L. Wenk, the Superintendent of Scientific Temperance Instruction, in most fitting and eloquent words, presented the five portraits, which were received by the principal and associate teachers, to be placed by them in the different rooms of the school. Professor Carson accepted the gifts on behalf of the public school with most cordial thanks and words of praise for this most gifted woman. While there was a fair attendance at this entertainment, yet it was largely made up of the school children, which was a beautiful sight, yet it could not but be remarked how many of the parents and patrons of the public school failed to be present. On such an occasion, when the pictures of this noble woman, who wrought so grandly for the uplift of humanity and believed that the hope of the nation lay in the proper education of the children, were to be placed in the public school, the church should have been filled to overflowing. The presence of these portraits in the different rooms will surely "cast a halo of light and cheerfulness" and will be an inspiration to teacher, pupil and patron.
