All are cordially invited.

Take Notice!

A new ruling just promulgated by the Postoffice Department means that newspapers extending credit to subscribers will be denied the use of the mails at the usual newspaper rates. Subscribers to all newspapers and periodicals will be affected by this ruling and will be obliged to pay their subscriptions promptly or be taken off the list. The REPUBLICAN will have to enforce the rule, not by choice, but because the matter is compulsory, and in the course of a few weeks subscriptions that are not paid up will have to be discontinued, so don't blame the publisher if your paper should suddenly stop coming. But the better way for all knowing themselves to be in arrears is to pay up at once. Don't put it off. We have no choice in the matter, but must obey the mandates of the postoffice department.

THE PUBLISHER.

The wise purchaser lays in his supplies when goods are the cheapest though he may not be in immediate need. Of all the bargain offers of the day those at the Hopkins store these days take the lead. Winter wearables are cut so there is scarcely anything left of the prices. It

Twenty-six degrees below zero is coming down the line at a pretty good speed in this latitude, but that's what the most of the thermometers registered on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. Some reported 28 below, but we'd rather take the smaller figure for safety and common decency's sake.

Don't forget that there will be an election next Tuesday, but turn out and cast your ballot. The Republicans of the borough present a ticket composed of worthy and competent men, who will carefully guard the interests of the municipality, and they should be pulled through without a scratch.

Waldo & Morris began work Monday on their fourth well on the Morris farm, in President township, Venango county. We are informed that their No. 3, which started off at a 35-barrel clip, is holding up well. The new location is 300 feet west of this strike. The first two wells are expected to make small pumps when rigged up.

It is said that the Pennsylvania Railroad officials are getting ready for a movement which will finally result in ridding the company of all its incompetent employees, not only those who get intoxicated once in a while, but also those who continue their drinking to an occasional glass. In the suspension and discharge of men preference will be given to teetotalers and the fact that a man drinks will weigh heavily against him, says the Greensburg Press.

Trains on the B. & O narrow gauge have just pulled themselves out of the snow drifts after a week's tussle along the line between Clarion junction and Kane. A passenger train was stalled and completely snowed in near Arthurs station last Wednesday and only succeeded in getting out yesterday when the track was cleared up and the first engines, pushing a snow plow went down the road from Kane. It is just a week since our neighbors at Marienville have received or dispatched any mail matter.

A few days ago Congressman Wheeler was notified by the department that a pension had been allowed to Mrs. Caroline M. Law, of Franklin, at the usual rate of $8.00 per month. Furthermore that the restoration and increase of the claim of her husband, at the rate of $46.00 per month from March 2d, 1903, to Sept. 9, 1907, the date of her husband's death, had also been allowed, making back pay for about 56 months, or about $2,481.00 in lump sum. Surely Uncle Sam is doing nobly by the old boys in blue and their widows.

The past two days have been of the "ethereal mildness" type, than which a finer article of weather never laid out of doors, and following so closely in the wake of the rough and stormy ways of last week, have been thoroughly appreciated and thrice welcome. People who were completely "snowed-up" for several days are just beginning to pull themselves out of the drifts, and business on the roads is assuming normal proportions once more, thanks. It was one of the worst storms this country has experienced within the memory of the oldest of them, if not altogether so.

Will Nichols, a married man living at Fox Creek, Green township, met with an accident Monday evening which lacked but a hair's breadth, as it were, of being a fatal one. While chopping in the woods his ax caught on a brush and was so turned as to bring the sharp blade down upon his neck just back of and under the right ear, cutting a long gash, the one point of the blade striking the tip of the jaw bone, thus preventing the large arteries and jugular vein from being severed. Dr. Bovard was summoned and made the necessary surgical repairs and Mr. Nichols was doing well at last accounts.

Foster, the famous long range weather forecaster, says that the first ten days of February will be unusually warm, and the last 19 days unusually cold. From the 20th to the 23th, about nine days, a great cold wave will cover the continent, with extremely low temperature in places. During the cold spell very low temperatures will prevail in the vicinity of Washington, D. C., and heavy snows may be expected. The month will average much warmer and will be very dry in the great central valleys. Judging from the professor's wide miss on the weather of the first ten days we wouldn't give much for his guess on the latter part of the month. Rather take the ground-hog's word for it.

Precoity in a child is a thing to be regretted rather than encouraged. Few precocious children rise above the average in adult life. Rather the tendency is to fall below it. During early childhood, say the first seven years, the brain is imperfect both in form and substance, and any strain then put upon it is at the expense of future vigor. One trouble is that the brain of such a child tends of itself to dangerous activity; and another is that the fond parent is almost sure, sometimes unconsciously and sometimes purposely, to push it to the limit of its power. What the parents should do is to hold the child away from schools and books and study, from talk above its years, and from admiring friends, and to keep it down to childish companions and sports and simple outdoor life, even if it should not learn its letters until eight years of age.

James P. Williams, one of Marienville's oldest citizens, died on Monday of this week from the infirmities of age, leaving his wife and one daughter. He had passed his eightieth year.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Hensfield, of Oil City, left on Sunday evening for a three week's visit to Philadelphia and New York, combining business with pleasure. Mr. Hensfield is manager of the Monarch Clothing Co.'s establishment and will select a large stock of spring and summer goods while in the east.

Mrs. J. C. Dower, of Marienville, died very suddenly of heart trouble at noon hour yesterday. Mrs. Dower, who was aged about 68 years, had not been in robust health for some time, but was up and attending her household duties when attacked with the fatal malady. Her husband was out for the moment, returning to the house in time to assist his wife to a couch where she expired almost instantly.

Mrs. J. G. Dale had the misfortune to fall and hurt her hip quite severely at her home Sabbath afternoon last, since which she has been confined to her bed, but her physician believes she will not be permanently injured. Mrs. Dale is upward of 84 years of age and the shock to her nervous system is a severe one to bear. Dr. J. C. Dunn is the attending physician and Dr. J. B. Siggins, of Oil City, was called in consultation, Wednesday morning. Mrs. Dale is better this morning.

Friends of Solomon R. Mealy, a former Tionesta township boy, and son of the late George Mealy, will be pleased to learn of his rapid advancement as a railroad official of the far southwest. A circular from the President of the Texas & Gulf railroad company, which is a branch of the great Santa Fe system, states that Mr. Mealy has been appointed Acting Auditor of that company with headquarters at Longview, Texas. For one who had few advantages as a boy and who is not yet out of the twenties, this is showing up remarkably well, and his Forest county friends are proud of him.

The farmers and owners of woodlots in this section, who have been deriving a considerable income from the sale of railroad ties to the P. R. R., will probably be somewhat disturbed by orders recently issued to local employes. These are to the effect that on and after February 15 no more ties shall be accepted or taken up along the lines of the Pennsylvania. And also "that after that date none shall be allowed to deliver ties on the property of that company." Thousands of ties are cut and marketed from this and adjoining counties in the course of a year and the order, which indicates that the company has all they need at the present time, will find many farmers and jobbers with a large stock on hand, for which they can find no market.

Tylersburg lost one of its good citizens in the death of George I. Keefe, which occurred at his late home on Saturday night last. The deceased was aged about 68 years, and was a veteran of the civil war and a member of Capt. Stow Post of Tionesta. He had resided in Tylersburg for upward of 30 years and was highly respected in that community. His death was caused by a complication of diseases. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Wilkinson of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which the deceased had been a consistent member for many years, and the interment was made at the Hagan cemetery on Monday at 2 o'clock. Mr. Keefe is survived by two daughters, one of whom kept house for him, and the other, who is married, living at Edenburg.

Now that the railroads are to have their own way again, increased passenger rates, how would it do for them to spend a little of the surplus for the accommodation of the traveling public in the way of time tables? As it is now, there is not a line in the newspapers to indicate the arrival or departure of a single train on any railroad. Of course, if a man has a telephone in his house he can call up the station and find out, providing there is a telephone in the station. But not all have this means of communication at hand, and the habit has been to turn to the newspaper columns for the desired information. Now that traveling is once more a luxury, why not throw in all the conveniences to which the traveling public has been accustomed? Very pertinently asks the Oil City Blizzard.

Hon. George A. Jenks, for many years one of Pennsylvania's most prominent figures in legal and political attainments, died at his home in Brookville, Pa., on Monday of this week from infirmities of age, being 72 years old. He was well known to the older population of our county, having in his younger days been engaged in most of the important lawsuits tried in the Forest county courts. Mr. Jenks was elected to Congress from the 25th district, of which Forest county was then a part, in 1874, defeating Gen. Harry White. He became a prominent figure in national affairs during the first Cleveland administration, serving as assistant secretary of the interior, and afterward as solicitor general. Mr. Jenks was the Democratic nominee for governor in 1888 and was the Democratic caucus nominee for United States senator in 1890. Mr. Jenks is survived by his widow and one daughter, the wife of former Congressman B. F. Shively, of Indiana.

The visit of the Kellettsville Concert Band to Tionesta last Saturday night was an event deserving of more than passing mention. It is seldom that our people are given the opportunity of hearing such a large and well trained organization of musicians and those who were so fortunate as to attend the concert given by the band in the court house, were given a rare musical treat. The selections ranged from the classic to rag-time and each number was enthusiastically applauded by the audience. Kellettsville is to be congratulated for its enterprise in supporting such a fine band and we assure them that they will be welcome visitors here at any time. The members of the band present were, F. B. Robbins, director, Miss Edna Johnson, Ronald Spangler, Wm. Rudy, Reed Detar, Ray Weller, Glenn Shaw, Andy Scheive, Floyd Grove, Andy Bobonic, Sr., Andy Bobonic, Jr., Edward Nelson, Julian Robbins, Rex Henderson, Alvin Watson, Archie Horner, Ed. Shaw, Ivan Carbaugh, Mike Supski, George Supski, John Robbins, Ralph Deellis, Robert Cohoon, Wm. Sizle, Nelson Russell, Harry Murphy, John Olson, Joe Albaugh, Harry Shaw, James Grove, Will Shaw, J. C. Miller, manager, and John Shaw, drum major. Quite a number of Kellettsville citizens, aside from those were down to attend the entertainment.

FATALLY FROZEN.

Terrible End of Youth Who Came to Oil City For a "Good Time."

From the Oil City papers, the Derrick and Blizzard of Monday, we culled the following account of a very distressing affair which happened in that city Saturday night, in which a young Forest county boy lost his life:
Frank Barnes, of Whig Hill, Forest county, died at the Oil City hospital at 11:30 on Sunday, the results of lying out nearly all night in the open wagon shed of the Saltzmann brewery, on Union street.

There are elements of mystery about the case which the police are attempting to unravel. When Barnes was found his hat and overcoat were missing and no money was found in his pockets, although it is known that he had $30 earlier in the day.

His tragic and terrible death is all the more grievous to relatives on account of the manner in which he met his fate.

The following facts have been gathered by the police:

According to the story told Chief of Police Reid by Max Barnes, a cousin of the deceased, three of the party, Ben Withersell, Roy Smith and Max Barnes arrived in the city Saturday on the noon train. The other two, Frank Barnes, the deceased, and Guy Hilliard, came here on the evening train and were met by their three companions. Most of the party made a tour of the saloons and about 10:30 started for a resort up the creek. When near the White bridge Frank Barnes met two men and accosting one of them as "Charley," stopped to talk with him. His companions walked on, and looking back, saw Frank and the men following slowly, but as the night was cold the party ahead kept moving along at a rapid pace until the house on Union street was reached.

Some time later they were joined by "Charley." They asked him what had become of their companion and were informed that Frank had decided not to go to the rendezvous. His companions then went out and made a perfunctory search of the neighborhood for the missing youth without results. They concluded that he had returned to town and apparently gave the missing youth no further thought.

It was about 10:30 o'clock on Sunday morning that two men who live in that neighborhood, Rieker and Hahn, were passing the brewery plant when they noticed a man crumpled in a heap lying in one corner of the wagon shed and went to his rescue. He was without either hat or overcoat and his hands and lower part of his legs were frozen solidly. They notified employes of the brewery and the young man was carried inside and a doctor sent for. The freezing and exposure to which Barnes had been subjected were sufficient to cause death and he was hurried to the hospital where he remained unconscious until death ensued.

Chief of Police Reid was notified and spent the remainder of the day in looking up the facts connected with the death of Barnes. He was unable to learn where the overcoat and hat had been discarded, the young men who were with him last being rather hazy as to whether he had his overcoat when he left the last hotel bar. He had told them that he had $20, but had not showed any money. His body showed no marks of any violence other than an abrasion on the point of the chin, which might have been made when he sank exhausted from the cold in the wagon shed.

The body was removed from the hospital to the Paul undertaking rooms and prepared for burial. Coroner Dr. M. L. Battles, of Franklin, was notified and, after viewing the body, decided that an inquest was not necessary.

Philo Barnes, of Whig Hill, an uncle of the deceased, arrived here last night and has made arrangements to have the body sent to that place this afternoon via Hickory.

He states that the deceased was barely past 19 years of age and had been employed in a lathe mill owned by Hon. N. P. Wheeler at Endeavor, Pa., in which the uncle is also an employe. That when he left Hickory, Frank had $30 with him and wore an overcoat.

The deceased was a son of Leonard Barnes and, besides his parents, he is survived by five brothers and one sister.

From what information the police were able to gain yesterday, it is evident that the companions of Barnes, with one exception, were too much under the influence of drink to know much that was transpiring, but they are positive that Frank was not one of the party when they entered the Union street resort. It is highly probable that the unfortunate young man was equally intoxicated. There was no sign of any struggle having taken place in the wagon shed where he was found unconscious. He wore heavy woolen stockings, stout shoes and a new pair of rubbers. The sharp imprint of the heels of the rubbers led from the walk to the building and apparently showed that he had leaned against the inside of the wagon shed and then apparently collapsed and fell into the slumber that precedes death by freezing.

To-day (Monday) Chief Reid learned from "Jack" Finnegan that he and a friend went home on the last Rousseville car Saturday night. Near the foot of Union street they stumbled over the body of Barnes, lying in the road. They picked him up and after walking him around a little he told them where he was headed for. Finnegan claims when they applied for admittance to the resort it was refused. Finnegan claimed he and his friend then started home, leaving the young man in front of the house. So far as can be learned this was the last time Barnes was seen by anyone, and the supposition is he floundered about until he landed in the wagon shed.

Over for the fact that his money and overcoat are both missing, it would be taken without question that his death was caused by his being so overcome by drink that he was unable to realize the danger of his predicament or too helpless to do anything to avoid it.

The following is taken from the Portland Oregonian: "Mrs. George F. Watson, of Tionesta, Pa., has rented Prof. Pfordner's beautiful furnished home on Overton St., and has as her house guests Mrs. Cora Felt and son Lewis, of Tionesta, Mrs. Elizabeth Root, Ostrander, Wash., Mrs. Wm. A. Showman Jr. and son Alon of Randolph, New York. Mr. Watson and Mr. Showman Jr., who are on a trip through the state of California, will join the ladies later on."
