One more body was added to the death roll of the Bella Guinness farm, near La Porte, Ind., making a total of ten corpses and skeletons exhumed in the yard besides the four bodies found in the ruins of the farmhouse that burned on April 28. Coroner Mack at first announced that the grave opened contained one complete cadaver and several bones of a secead skeleton, but in the evening he said that what he at first believed to have been an additional thigh and arm bones in reality belong to the first body recovered during the day.

The body unearthed was by far the least preserved of any of the ten grewsome relics. In addition to usual traces of lime, the body showed that a less skillful hand had dismembered

The legs had been, as usual, severed above the knee joint, but the bones were splintered. The shoulder blade was shattered in cleaving the head from the body. The skull was lying near the pelvis.

During the afternoon Sheriff Smutzer abandoned the pit explored previously and transferred operations to a likely spot near the burned building. some distance removed from the burial ground thus far explored, but no results were obtained. Digging will continue.

Mysterious Disappearance.

Emil Greening, a carpenter of Oklahoma City, Okla., and his brother Frederick, a painter, both of whom worked last summer on Mrs. Guinness' Indiana farm, told of the mysterious visits of a dozen men to the home of Mrs. Belle Guinness and of their more mysterious disappearance. Greening said: "Mrs. Guinness received men visitors all the time. A different man came nearly every week to stay at the house. She introduced them as cousins from Kansas, South Dakota, Wisconsin and from Chicago. Most of the men that came brought trunks with them, but they rarely took the trunks way." Greening said that preceding the mysterious disappearance of a "cousin" he was sent away by Mrs. Guinness on some errand. When he came back he was told the "cousin" was "In the light of what has happened, I believe that many murders were done under my nose," said Greening. President Asserts His Supremacy. Three members of the senate have his supremacy, as commander-in-chief in all matters referring to the control of the army and navy. The letters have created intense feeling in the senate, and it is not unlikely that Besides Four Bodies In Ruins they will precipitate a conference of Republican members. The letters in every case are in defense of his course in discharging without honor the negro soldiers he believed to be guilty of "shooting up" the town of Brownsville, Tex., and his action in banishing Colonel William F. Stewart to an abandoned military post in a desert section of Arizona. The third letter came on Friday to Senator Stewart of Vermont. A few days ago during the debate on the Brownsville case Senator Stewart asked a question indicating that he had doubt as to the wisdom of extending to the president the power of passing on the innocence or guilt of ex-soldiers applying for reinstatement in view of the fact that it appeared the president still believes all of the negroes to have been guilty of complicity in the affray.

The senator was surprised to receive from the president a letter bearing on both the Colonel Stewart and the Brownsville cases. Attached to the communication were letters to Senator Raynor and William Alden Smith, the one to Mr. Raynor asserting chiefly the president's right to deal with an officer in such manner as he pleased, as commander-in-chief, while the one to Mr. Smith was confined to the Brownsville affair and reiterated. the president's belief that he had dealt with the case as conditions demanded.

The president went farther still in his letter to Senator Stewart, in addition to repeating much that he said to other senators. He declared that Senator Stewart, from the question he asked in the debate, appeared to be proceeding under a misapprehension of the duties of the president of the United States in connection with the army and navy.

He quoted the law as he understood it, and denied that he was under any obligation to give to the discharged negro soldiers or to Colonel Stewart any court of inquiry. Several paragraphs were devoted to a discussion of Colonel Stewart's case and the faults of his which have put him in disrepute in army circles.

Judson Harmon For Governor.
