Justice O'Gorman Dismissed Her Suit Against Senator Platt.

Collision of Trolley Cars - Pennsyl-Times-True Case of Hydrophobia.

from United States Senator Thomas C. Platt was on trial in the supreme court for several days, was committed to the Tombs prison after Justice O'Gorman had dismissed the complaint in her suit and ordered her held in $5,000 bail on the charge of perjury.

vor and the sudden and sensational ending of the suit came after a day which the defense had largely occuother testimony in attacking the genuineness of the documents by means of which the plaintiff was seeking to establish the fact of her marriage with Senator Platt.

A handwriting expert had testified that in his opinion the body of the letter in which Senator Platt was alleged to have admitted his relation as a husband to the plaintiff was added after the senator's signature had been affixed.

More telling, still, for the defense was the deposition of engravers and stationers called by counsel for Senator Platt that the blank form upon which the alleged Platt-Wood marriage certificate had been prepared had not been lithographed until three months after the date upon which the marriage of Miss Wood to Senator Platt is alleged to have occurred.

Justice O'Gorman turned to Miss Wood and pointedly questioned her. She repeated her assertion that the marriage had occurred as she had stated. She admitted that Senator Platt had never supported her, and asked by the court if she did not consider it the duty of a husband to support his wife, she replied: "I do, but as long as he was not enough of a gentleman to do so I never asked him

Senator Platt's counsel then again moved for a dismissal of the complaint. It was forthwith granted by Justice O'Gorman, who in rendering

After one of the hardest fights within the party in several years, the Democratic state convention at Harrisburg. Pa., decided not to instruct its delegates at large to the Denver convention. Railroad Horror In Belgium. One of the worst railroad accidents in Europe in recent times occurred at Contich, a station six miles southeast of Antwerp. The exact number of victims has not been determined owing to the difficulty of removing the bodies from the debris, but the latest estimate places the number at sixty killed and 100 wounded.

The catastrophe appears to have been due to a defective switch, where the main line crosses a local line. At this point a train carrying a large number of pilgrims on their way to a local shrine was standing. Into this the Antwerp-Brussels express dashed at a speed of fifty miles an hour, literally leaping on top of it.

The heavy coaches of the express crushed the lighter train into splinters. pled by the introduction of expert and The sides of the express train were torn from their fastenings, the floors practically collapsing, thus precipitating the passengers to the side of the track, whence they fled, frenzied, across the fields. But for this fact the death roll would be much greater. Few of the occupants of the local train escaped alive. Those that were not killed were badly injured, many of them mortally.

> Memorial to Senator Hanna. A monument in in memory of the late Senator Marcus A. Hanna was dedicated at Cleveland Saturday afternoon in the presence of many distinguished guests and thousands of spectators.

The oration was delivered by John W. Griggs, former United States attorney general. Former Governor Herrick presided. Secretary Taft and Governor Harris and staff were among the guests.

The invocation was delivered by Right Reverend George F. Houck, The was unveiled by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick and Mrs. Mabel Hanna Parsons, daughters of the late senator. The benediction was delivered by Right Reverend W. A. Leonard, bishop of Ohio.

The monument is in bronze and was designed by St. Gaudens. The figure, seated in a chair, is eight feet high and rests on a pedestal of twelve feet. The plate on the pedestal reads:

"This monument is erected by friends and fellow citizens to commemorate his efforts for peace between capital and labor, his useful citizenship and distinguished public service."

The statue complete costs $65,535.

Was a True Case of Hydrophobia. That William H. Marsh, the Brooklyn manufacturer, who died on Wednesday of last week, was a victim of hydrophobia, was the decision of Coroner Brewer following an autopsy performed under his direction after the Brooklyn health department had refused to grant a permit for Mr. Marsh's burial until the cause of his death had been thus decided.

During the autopsy Dr. Ira Van Giesen, an expert in hydrophobia for the New York board of health, who was assisting, became infected with the rabies germ from a small scratch on his arm made by one of the bones from Mr. Marsh's body. Dr. Van Giesen hastened to the health department in Manhattan, where he was given treatment.

The autopsy upon Mr. Marsh's body demonstrated, the coroner declared, that there had been no excessive administration of narcotics or anaesthe-

A permit was later issued for Mr Marsh's burlal.

Lamphere Indicted Seven Times.

In returning seven true bills against Ray Lamphere the grand jury at La Porte, Ind., also indicted Mrs. Belle Gunness for the murder of Andrew Helgelein.

No warrant was issued for Mrs Gunness, as she was declared officially dead by the verdict of Coroner Mack; but in order to vote a true bill against Lamphere as an accessory in the killing of Helgelein it was necessary to indict Mrs. Gunness as the principal. Lamphere now stands charged with arson, five murders and being an accessory in the Helgelein murder.

Separate bills were returned against Lamphere for the murder of Mrs. Gunness and her three children.

The digging on Friday resulted in the unearthing of a human skull, which, it was decided, belongs to one of the bodies dug up two weeks ago. At that time three skeletons were found in one hole but there were only two skulls.

Bucket-Shop Keeping a Felony.

After Sept. 1 it will be a felony to conduct a bucket-shop in New York. Gov. Hughes signed without comment Senator Cassidy's bill amending act is substantially similar to the Massachusetts law.

Transactions to be legal must contemplate a bona fide receipt or delivery of the securities or commodities dealt in, and concerns must furnish upon written demand to any customer 'a written statement containing the names of the persons from whom such property was bought, or to whom it has been sold, as the case may be, the time when, place where, the amount of and the price at which the same was either bought or sold." Refusal to render such a statement within 48 hours shall be prima facie evidence of violation of the act.

Would Be Permitted by Insurance Law Amendment.

Governor Hughes Vetoes Assembly Insurance Committee's Bill - Would Extravagance In Rivalry to Secure New Business.

Albany, May 26. - In an extended his reasons for not approving the bill of the assembly insurance committee which would have amended section 97 of the insurance law so to mitigate the restrictions made by the legislation which followed the life insurance investigation of 1905 upon the expend itures of life insurance companies doing business in this state in obtaining new business.

The governor holds that the act would "permit unwarrantable outlays and facilitate a return to the injurious conditions of past years." The proposed limitation of first-year commissions to 50 per cent, for instance, the governor says, "is illusory and not real," for, he goes on to say, "It is not simply the rate of commissions in which the policyholders are interested. but the amount which is actually paid out under any form of compensation in the effort to obtain new business."

Existing Restrictions Necessary. With special reference to a proposed modification of the existing prohibition of bonuses, prizes and additional compensation "based upon the volume of any new or renewed business or the aggregate of policies written or paid for," the memorandum says that "the abuses which had arisen through the promise of bonuses and rewards of various sorts for obtaining a given amount of business made it advisable to impose the present restrictions. No sufficient reason appears for a change in this policy and in any event the amendment could not be approved in the ambiguous form now proposed."

"Nothing was more clearly revealed upon the gains and accumulations to which they are entitled. "The true standards by which insurance management must be tested were obscured. Those who desired to conduct business upon an economical basis and with proper regard to the interests of the policyholders, were driven by the stress of competition to outlays which they did not approve." The limitations opposed by section 79, the governor declares, are in the interests of companies themselves and of the large number of people who depend upon prudent and conservative management for protection for their

"This should not be changed hastily or without adequate opportunity, with a proper range of experience, for determinging wherein any change may be advisable without paving the way for a repetition of abuses. The opposite bill cannot be regarded as a mere corrective amendment for the purpose of improving the law in a manner consistent with its purpose. It must be tested by what it will permit and not by what would actually be done under it by conservative managers."

Conservative Management the Best. Of the much discussed falling off in the amount of business written by the New York companies during the year since the present law became operative, Governor Hughes says that "It is unnecessary to attempt a statement of all the causes which produced this result. It is desirable of course that new business to a normal extent, based upon normal cost, should be obtained. There is no sufficient reason to doubt that it will be. But there are other matters which also must be taken into consideration. It is useful to note the gains which have resulted from economies and reduced presing 1906. He continues: "The gains from economical management have already been reflected in largely increased amounts set apart for payment in dividends, and the policyholders will reap large benefits from the reduction of expenses Proper conservatism will vindicate it self and the New York companies, as their improved condition becomes known, will not suffer but rather gain from comparison with those which op-

Dina Moe and Dina Mite.

Mr. Cracker, a young colored gentleman of our city, had just obtained employment in one of our department stores as an experienced porter, but after a short time proved to be unfit for the position. Being fired, he there by gained the nickname of Fire Cracker. Fire Cracker was deeply in love with a young woman of his own race by the name of Miss Moe and after a short acquaintance found that her surname was Dina. He went to Dina Moe and said:

"Dina Moe, does you tub me?" She quickly replied, "No."

Not being disheartened and at the same time remembering the motto he learned at school, "If at first you don't succeed try, try again," he went to Dina Moe again and said:

"Dina Moe, could you learn to lub Dina this time rolled the white of Snapdragon Seed Pods. The antirrhinum, or snapdragon, is one of the old fashioned garden flowers known by every one. Although it is a visitor from southern Europe, it has been here so long that it has become naturalized. When we say "llon's mouth," "frog's mouth," "calf's mouth," "rabbit's mouth," we mean snapdragon, all these names being suggested by its grotesque masklike corol-In. But there is something still more grotesque if we will wait till the seed time and gather the dried, brown skeleton of the seed pod. Look at them sideways, under a bright lamplight if possible, and you will find they have quite a resemblance to a rhinoceros. Remove the calyx and the little horns on the nose and look at them from the front, and they have a still more striking resemblance to human skulls, and by turning them about you get all sorts of officer expressions on the grinning mouth.-St. Nicholas.

Hurry. To our own age belongs the credit of having raised hurry from the de graded position of a disease to that of a commercial process. Formerly hurry simply brought people to an early grave, with nothing to show for It, whereas now it is become the means of transforming peace of mind, which is a solecism, to say the best of it, into ready money. Hurry has grown to be a great fact in life. Even the fashlons take account of it until women are found doing up their hair in such a way that they may go the speed limit without fear of its coming down. And the best of hurry is that it is its own sufficient justification. Nobody expects hurry to have any particular reason behind it any more.-R. B. In New York Life:

Preposterous. An aged Jersey farmer visiting a circus for the first time stood before the dromedary's cage, eyes popping and mouth agape at the strange beast within. The circus proper began, and the crowds left for the main show, but still the old man stood before the cage in stunned silence appraising every detail of the misshapen legs, the cloven hoofs, the pendulous upper lip and the curiously mounded back of the sleepy eved beast. Fifteen minutes passed Then the farmer turned away and spat disgustedly.
