THERE is something rather ominous in the way so many Democrats are rising up to say they are for Bryan this time, but will support Johnson in 1912. Evidently they have no expectation that Mr. Bryan will be elected. If so, he would undoubtedly be a caudidate for re-election.

WHEN Bryan hears the news from Pennsylvania he will feel that the opposition is entrenching for a harder contest at Denver than he expected. He is perhaps safe enough, for the nomination, but his weaknesses as a nominee are developing rapidly. The Republicans will be satisfied with the Democratic choice if they take Bryan.

ADMIRAL SPERRY, the new commander of the big fleet, says: "We have now in the navy the most splendid body of young men that could be selected in all the world." The praise bestowed by Admirals Evans and Sperry on the crews after sailing with them from Hampton Roads to San Francisco is a high testimonial not only to them, but to all young Americans.

Memorial Day.

Although the rain was almost incessant during Memorial Day the program as order was reversed and the exercises at beautiful Memorial tribute was read by wives and friends at the noon hour. Had the day been more propitious the attendance would have been very much larger, but as it was there was no lack of enthusiasm among the comrades. The Myers martial band of Marienville furnished the musical inspiration and they pleased everybody in the willingness which they displayed in keeping the good fife and drum busy. The Sabbath schools and flower committees attended well to their part and an abundance of spring's loveliest flowers were provided. Let us hope the weather man will do better at another

Memorial Day at Hickory.

Never in the history of Eli Berlin Post were they surrounded by so large and patriotic an assembly as greeted them on Saturday last. The outdoor service was greatly interfered with by rain, which was a great disappointment to the large real patriotism of the Sunday school, which stood nobly by the old boys at the cemetery. At eleven a, m. after the services in the cemetery, all marched to the K. O. T. M. hall where, amid the melodies of the choir and music by the Post Marttal Band, all felt at home. Rev. W. E. Davis of West Hickory was the orator and was filled with holy patriotic fire. His address was never excelled in Hickory and as he referred to the trying days of 1861-5 his beautiful power of oratory moved the vast assembly to heartfelt amens. As a Post we thank our able speaker. We thank our singers and the martial band for their assistance and to all present we thank you for your presence and good will. May we all ever realize that we have the grandest nation and people on God's green earth.

True to their colors the needle and thread, and was instructed to ladies of the Relief Corps furnished a bem the garment while his lady friend splendid dinner to the veterans and their engaged him in conversation on the lines laid down on the cards. This grotesque feature was amusing almost to the point of ridiculousness, but the men folk in ail seriousness worked dexterously at their sewing and many had completed the job when the last tap of the bell was sounded, and the garments were collected and inspected by a committee for the purpose of determining who had won the prize, a pretty boutonniere of tulips and wild flowers. That there was much disappointment at the committee's decision we must frankly admit, and rank favoritsm was charged when the choice fell to Prof. Mitchell, principal of the summer normal. It was learned that the judges were influenced in their decision largely by the knowledge that the modest Professor could make the best speech of acceptance. and not by any merit of his sewing ability.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church did the catering, and they were highly complimented upon the quality of the viands and the elegance with which they were served. Mrs. James D. Davis, who has so gracefully presided over the club's affairs during the past year, had general supervision of the banquet on this occasion, and was ably assisted by Mrs. Suie May 5 per cent. added on $251.58 Sharpe in making the function the pleasing success that it was,

The club's honor guests from out of town were Mrs. J. A. Turner of West Hickory and Mrs. W. J. Bleakley of Franklin.

Damage By Heavy Rains.

The rain storm of Tuesday night of last week created no small havoe in this section, being one of the worst in its history. At West Hickory the McCabe lumber company's mill suffered damage to the extent of several thousand dollars in the loss of stock and the tearing up of their property. West Hickory creek, on which the mill is located, was on a rampage, and tore out a portion of the rear of the mill, destroying the carriage, runway, log-turner, and sweeping away the dam and letting loose a large quantity of logs that had been stocked. These were carried into the river and are almost a total loss to the company, which has been trying to pick up some on the lower river, but with indifferent success. A mile or more of the tramway was also washed

All the bridges on Little Hickory creek are said to have been carried away, and a number of slides on the "narrows," above the mouth of the creek has impeded travel greatly, and will entail a heavy loss on Hickory township. A bridge above and find them correct, to the best of our knowledge and belief. Endeavor, spanning Hickory creek was also carried away.

The surrounding country sustained much damage in the destruction of crops that had been newly planted. In one instance a party having just completed the planting of a quantity of potatoes, found them all washed down into the back yard next morning.

Young poultry suffered much from the great down pour, several coops being drowned out, among this class of flood sufferers being the editor of the REPUB-LICAN, who lost a brood of freshly hatched prize winners.

Oh, it rained some.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a con-stitutional disease, and therefore requires stitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufoctured by F. J.
