CLEVELAND FUNERAL.

Services Were Simple--- Many Distinguished Men Present.

College Boat Races-Successful Flight of Airship - Restrained From Increasing Rates - Vermont Democrats Not Instructed-Mobilization of British Fleets.

At 6 o'clock Friday as the sun was sinking in the west a distinguished company silently watched as the body of Grover Cleveland was lowered into the grave at Princeton, N. J. Then the simple burial service of the Presbyterian church was read and before the last of the carriages in the corteges had driven up to the path leading to the burial place the benediction had been prongunced and those who had gathered about the grave began to leave the cemetery. Many of the personal friends of the dead statesman lingered about the spot which was to mark his last resting place and each in turn was permitted to cast a shovelful of earth into the four never a slice of water showthe grave.

Agreeable to the wishes of Mrs. Cleveland the services both at the house and at the cemetery were of the simplest character. An invocation, scriptual reading, a brief prayer and the reading of William Wordsworth's poem "Character of the Happy Warrior" constituted the services at the house. The reading of the burial service at the grave was brief and impressive.

Although the funeral was of strictly private nature those in attendance numbered many distinguished citizens, including President Roosevelt, Governor Fort of New Jersey, Governor Hughes of New York, Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia, former member of President Cleveland's cabinet; officials of the Equitable Life As-Princeton faculty, friends and neigh-

The pall bearers, six on either side of the hearse, marched with the procession as it wended its way slowly down Bayard lane to Nassau street and on along the main thoroughfare of the town. Business had suspended during the afternoon and curtains were drawn in many of the houses. The silent crowd stood with bared heads as the procession passed along into Vandeventer avenue and the bell in mournfully: The route led over Wiggans street phore of the family alighted from their carriages and with the four clergymen in the lead walked slowly down the graveled path leading to the open grave and the rose strewn grave of Ruth, both almost hidden in the profusion of green boughs and flowers. Mrs. Cleveland stood with Esther and Richard and Dr. Bryant as the coffin was slowly lowered into the grave. Rev. William R. Richards of the Brick Presbyterian church of New York had started to read the commital service even before President Roosevelt and others had reached the scene. The president stood just back of Mrs. Cleveland as the impressive words were spoken. The services lasted less than five minutes.

As early as 2 o'clock distinguished visitor's began to arrive. Among the first were Secretary Cortelyou and ex-United States Senator James Smith. General James G. Wilson and Hilary Herbert followed soon after. The guests were received on the veranda of the house by Professor John G. Wilson and Cleveland F. Bacon, nephew of Mr Cleveland.

Governor Hughes was the first state executive to arrive. As he stepped from his carriage all the other assembled officials rose to greet him. The public men greeted each other on the verandah and presently the red upholstered benches which bordered the verandah were filled and the verandah became crowded. The guests were received into the house at 4 o'clock, Jesse Lynch Williams, Henry J. Van Dyke and Willard Bradford ushering the visitors to seats in various parts of the house. In the reception room with the casket were Mrs. Cleveland and children, relatives of the family. President Roosevelt and the officiating clergymen. As each clergyman delivered his part in the service, he stood at the door of the reception room so that he could be heard by all.

Harvard Won University Race.

With a deafening din of steam whistles and horns and the frenzied shouts of collegians at New London, Conn., the Harvard 'varsity eight shot their boat over the finish line, winning from the crippled and distanced Yale crew that classic of American college aquatics, the Harvard-Yale university boat race. But instead of a boat race Harvard finished the ir t mile and a half of the race alone, while far behind Yale limped along with but seven men at the oars, with Griswold, the stroke-the man who had been relied upon to set the winning pace-bent forward, limp and collapsed from the terrific strain of the opening two miles. Up to this unexpected climax it had been a stirring struggle, worthy of the best traditions of the old antagonists, and with a fitting setting of a magnificent marine spectacle such as has seldom been equalled along a regatta course for brilliancy and imposing centennary celebration of the founding magnitude.

For the first time, too, the president of the United States was taking keen and active interest as a champion of the Crimson colors, and although compelled by circumstances to absent himself the spirit of his enthusiasm was voiced by the Roosevelt family, who witnessed the contest from the deck of the presidential yacht. Old Eli was more fortunate in having her distinguished champion, Sec retary Taft, present in reality, the central figure of a group of collegians aboard one of the observation trains who shouted encouragement to the Yale crew as they sped over the early reaches of the course, and then lapsed into glum dismay as Griswold was seen to fall over helpless in the Yale boat.

Syracuse Won on the Hudson. Everything great in the history of boat racing on the Hudson was swept back to be merely mediocre by the wonderfu race of the 'varsity eights Saturday afternoon.

Syracuse won, leading Columbia by less than one-third of a length, and Cornell by a bare length. Syracuse's time was 19:34 ! 5. The record, made by Cornell on July 2, 1901, is 18:55 1-5. The contest was one of the flercest and most interesting in the cievenyear history of collegiate racing on the Hudson. For three good miles of ed between the first crew and the fifth of the 'varsity shells.

Syracuse also won for the second successive time the race for the university four-oared shells for the Kennedy challenge trophy, leading the Pennsylvania crew by nearly two lengths and covering the two miles in 10:52 4-5. Columbia was third, three lengths behind Pennsylvania, which had fouled the Columbia crew in the last half mile of the contest. The judges disqualified Pennsylvania and awarded Columbia place honors.

Cornell watermanship won for the Ithaca crew the freshman eight-oared race, after a two-mile contest, in which Wisconsin, Columbia and Pennsylvania held the lead at different periods of the race. After the mile and three-quarters, the contest was never surance society, members of the in doubt, Cornell's smooth and powerful stroke placing her full four lengths in the lead when the finish line was crossed.

Successful Flight of Airship.

Several hundred spectators Thursday witnessed the most successful flight yet made on the testing grounds of the Aerial Experiment association at Hammondsport, N. Y. The suc cessful performer was G. N. Curtiss in his Junebug aerodrome No. 3. Un der his guidance the Junebug flew the tower of Old Nassau hall tolled | 1,140 yards in sixty seconds. All that stopped the flight was the limited area of the practice ground, bounded by to the cemetery, which was reached a trees and a fence which would have few minutes before 6 o'clock. The interfered with the progress of the height of from three to twenty-three feet above the ground.

The performance of the Junebug and her designer is considered the most remarkable of its kind on record. It was only the seventh flight of the machine and the eighth attempt of the aviator. The controls worked perfectly in every respect, the machine having to travel on the arc of a circle in order to make the distance it did in a field the size and shape of the association's grounds.

Restrained From Increasing Rates. A temporary injunction was granted at Rochester, N. Y., by Judge G A. Benton restraining the supreme court of the Independent Order of For esters from increasing its insurance rates pending the action brought or that point by Henry J. Simmelink of that city. The matter of increasing the rates of insurance in this fraternal order was taken up at a convention in Canada this year. Under the present order it will be impossible for the order to put the increase into effect.

Vermont Democrats Not Instructed at Burlington, Vt., adjourned after a long and animated session de voted to the election of delegates to the national convention at Denver, the nomination of candidates for state of fices and the adoption of a platform. A resolution instructing the delegates to vote for William J. Bryan for nomination for president, was laid on the table by a vote of 193 to 37 after a lively debate lasting about an hour.

Will Involve Democratic Convention In Discussion.

Boom of Lieutenant Governor Chanler For Vice President Seems to Have Vanished - Five Candidates From New York - Seating Capacity of Auditorium Increased to 12,500.

Denver, Colo., June 30 .- The fight over the anti-injunction plank in the Democratic platform is not the only struggle in which the committee on resolutions, and possibly the convention itself, may be involved. It has developed that the prohibition question is to be brought to the front and that a desperate effort will be made to have a plank declaring in its favor placed in the platform.

The prohibition movement will be headed by General James B. Weaver of Iowa, who demanded of the recent Democratic convention in that state that it declare in favor of prohibition. General Weaver and his followers were not successful in their efforts in their own state but not daunted by their failure, have made arrangements to bring the matter up before the Democratic national convention.

They claim, moreover, to have strong backing from a number of delegations from the Southern states which have recently passed prohibition laws.

The Anti-Injunction Plank.

The anti-injunction plank continues to provoke discussion among party leaders who have already arrived for the convention. Such members of the national committee who have discussed the matter are a unit in saying that the wording of the anti-injunction plank shall leave no possible doubt in the mind of any reader as to where the party stands on this ques

It is now generally believed that the anti-injunction resolution will not provide for trials by jury in cases of contempt of court, or favor in any way measures which might be construed as interfering with the prerogatives of the federal courts.

The friends of Mr. Bryan say that those of his critics who are expressing themselves in fear of a radical anti-injunction plank are fighting the air. The plank has not yet been written but is under consideration. It is said to be the desire of Mr. Bryan to consult as many of the prominent members of the party as possible before any decisive action in formulating this resolution is taken.

The vice presidential question remains, to all appearances, just where machine, traveling, as it was, at a it was, although the boom of Lieuten ant Governor Chanler of New York seems to have vanished and his name is not mentioned as prominently as it was two days ago. This is largely due to the announcement made by Norman E. Mack, national committeeman of New York, that he has no authority to speak for Mr. Chanler and that his interest in the matter was dictated by friendship and by a sincere belief that the New York man is well qualified to take second place on the Only one new name was mentioned as a vice presidential possibility. This was Governor George E. Chamberlain of Oregon. He is in much favor with some of the party leaders and it is believed he will be personally acceptable to Mr. Bryan, if the latter is nom inated. The sponsors of the vice presidential booms located outside of New York state, claim to be generally encouraged by the fact that already five men have been mentioned as asnirants to the vice presidential nomination. They believe, with the New York delegation divided among that number of candidates, an outsider has a far better chance of securing the prize than would be the case if the delegation from the Empire State were standing solidly for a single man. Chairman Taggart of the national committee announced the chaplains for the last three days of the convention, and complete list is now as fol-torium which was pregnant in results as far as increasing the seating capacity of the hall is concerned, but brought woe to Architect Wilson. That gentleman, with a keen professional eye to the beauty and finished character of his work, had arranged the seating capacity in such a way as to produce the most pleasing effect on the eve of the spectator. In so doing, however, he had left a considerable amount of vacant floor space, much of which was in extra width giv-

When the members of the committee visited the hall their eyes at once fastened upon this extent of empty floor, and Roger S. Sullivan of Illinois at once asked if more chairs could not be placed. "It would injure the scenic effect," replied Mr. Architect Wilson. Mr. Sullivan in a single energetic sentence gave vent to the opinion that what the committee desired was seats, seats, and then more seats, and that scenic effect could take its chances or be taken itself to any place it chose

The other members of the committee, whose lives are made a burden for the unceasing demand for tickets, cordially supported the criticisms and contentions of Mr. Sullivan with the result that the seating capacity of the hall was at once increased from the original number of 11,538 to more than 12.500.

The members of the committee are now poring over blueprints in an effort to see if they cannot still further increase the possible number of admissions. The alterations suggested also resulted in allowing seventy-five additional seats for members of the press.

The local committee on convention arrangements headed by Mayor E. W. Speer and C. W. Franklin and C. M. Day, members of the Denver convention league, held a conference with the national committee relative to the number of seats to be allowed to the people of Denver. They were given the assurance that the city would be amply provided for.

The national committee, which for several days has been in cramped quarters on one of the upper floors of the Brown Palace hotel, Monday moved into the more commodious quarters on the parlor floor, which it will occupy until after the convention has ad-

The statements declare that the expenditures were for "retainers of counsel, fees and disbursements." According to the statement former Governor Frank S.
