CLEVELAND FUNERAL.

Services Were Simple—Many Distinguished Men Present.

College Boat Races—Successful Flight of Airship—Restrained From Increasing Rates—Vermont Democrats Not Instructed—Mobilization of British Fleets.

At 6 o'clock Friday as the sun was sinking in the west a distinguished company silently watched as the body of Grover Cleveland was lowered into the grave at Princeton, N. J. Then the simple burial service of the Presbyterian church was read and before the last of the carriages in the cortege had driven up to the path leading to the burial place the benediction had been pronounced and those who had gathered about the grave began to leave the cemetery.

Many of the personal friends of the dead statesman lingered about the spot which was to mark his last resting place and each in turn was permitted to cast a shovelful of earth into the grave.

Agreeable to the wishes of Mrs. Cleveland the services both at the house and at the cemetery were of the simplest character. An invocation, scriptural reading, a brief prayer and the reading of William Wordsworth's poem "Character of the Happy Warrior" constituted the services at the house. The reading of the burial service at the grave was brief and impressive.

Although the funeral was of a strictly private nature those in attendance numbered many distinguished citizens, including President Roosevelt, Governor Fort of New Jersey, Governor Hughes of New York, Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia, former member of President Cleveland's cabinet; officials of the Equitable Life Assurance society, members of the Princeton faculty, friends and neighbors.

The pall bearers, six on either side of the hearse, marched with the procession as it wended its way slowly down Bayard lane to Nassau street and along the main thoroughfare of the town. Business had suspended during the afternoon and curtains were drawn in many of the houses. The silent crowd stood with bare heads as the procession passed along Van deventer avenue and the bell in the tower of Old Nassau hall tolled mournfully.

The route led over Wiggins street to the cemetery, which was reached a few minutes before 6 o'clock. The members of the family alighted from their carriages and with the four clerymen in the lead walked slowly down the gravelled path leading to the open grave and the rose strewn grave of Ruth, both almost hidden in the profusion of green boughs and flowers.

Mrs. Cleveland stood with Esther and Richard and Dr. Bryant as the coffin was slowly lowered into the grave. Rev. William R. Richards of the Brick Presbyterian church of New York had started to read the committal service even before President Roosevelt and others had reached the scene. The president stood just back of Mrs. Cleveland as the impressive words were spoken. The services lasted less than five minutes.

As early as 2 o'clock distinguished visitors began to arrive. Among the first were Secretary Cortelyou and ex-United States Senator James Smith. General James G. Wilson and Hilary Herbert followed soon after. The guests were received on the veranda of the house by Professor John G. Wilson and Cleveland F. Bacon, nephew of Mr. Cleveland.

Governor Hughes was the first state executive to arrive. As he stepped from his carriage all the other assembled officials rose to greet him. The public men greeted each other on the veranda and presently the red upholstered benches which bordered the veranda were filled and the veranda became crowded. The guests were received into the house at 4 o'clock. Jesse Lynch Williams, Henry J. Van Dyke and Willard Bradford ushering the visitors to seats in various parts of the house. In the reception room with the casket were Mrs. Cleveland and children, relatives of the family, President Roosevelt and the officiating clergymen. As each clergyman delivered his part in the service, he stood at the door of the reception room so that he could be heard by all.

Harvard Won University Race.

With a deafening din of steam whistles and horns and the frenzied shouts of collegians at New London, Conn., the Harvard 'varsity eight shot their boat over the finish line, winning from the crippled and distanced Yale crew that classic of American college aquatics, the Harvard-Yale university boat race. But instead of a boat race Harvard finished the 1 1/2 mile and a half of the race alone, while far behind Yale limped along with but seven men at the oars, with Griswold, the stroke—the man who had been relied upon to set the winning pace—bent forward, limp and collapsed from the terrific strain of the opening two miles.

Up to this unexpected climax it had been a stirring struggle, worthy of the best traditions of the old antagonists, and with a fitting setting of a magnificent marine spectacle such as has seldom been equaled along a regatta course for brilliancy and imposing magnitude.

PROHIBITION PLANKS

Will Involve Democratic Convention In Discussion.

Boom of Lieutenant Governor Chanler For Vice President Seems to Have Vanished—Five Candidates From New York—Seating Capacity of Auditorium Increased to 12,500.

Denver, Colo., June 30.—The fight over the anti-injunction plank in the Democratic platform is not the only struggle in which the committee on resolutions, and possibly the convention itself, may be involved. It has developed that the prohibition question is to be brought to the front and that a desperate effort will be made to have a plank declaring in its favor placed in the platform.

The prohibition movement will be headed by General James B. Weaver of Iowa, who demanded of the recent Democratic convention in that state that it declare in favor of prohibition. General Weaver and his followers were not successful in their efforts in their own state, but not daunted by their failure, have made arrangements to bring the matter up before the Democratic national convention.

They claim, moreover, to have strong backing from a number of delegations from the Southern states which have recently passed prohibition laws.

The Anti-Injunction Plank.

The anti-injunction plank continues to provoke discussion among party leaders who have already arrived for the convention. Such members of the national committee who have discussed the matter are a unit in saying that the wording of the anti-injunction plank shall leave no possible doubt in the mind of any reader as to where the party stands on this question.

It is now generally believed that the anti-injunction resolution will not provide for trials by jury in cases of contempt of court, or favor in any way measures which might be construed as interfering with the prerogatives of the federal courts.

The friends of Mr. Bryan say that those of his critics who are expressing themselves in fear of a radical anti-injunction plank are fighting the air. The plank has not yet been written but is under consideration. It is said to be the desire of Mr. Bryan to consult as many of the prominent members of the party as possible before any decisive action in formulating this resolution is taken.

The vice presidential question remains, to all appearances, just where it was, although the boom of Lieutenant Governor Chanler of New York seems to have vanished and his name is not mentioned as prominently as it was two days ago. This is largely due to the announcement made by Norman E. Mack, national committee man of New York, that he has no authority to speak for Mr. Chanler and that his interest in the matter was dictated by friendship and by a sincere belief that the New York man is well qualified to take second place on the ticket.

Only one new name was mentioned as a vice presidential possibility. This was Governor George E. Chamberlain of Oregon. He is in much favor with some of the party leaders and it is believed he will be personally acceptable to Mr. Bryan, if the latter is nominated.

The sponsors of the vice presidential booms located outside of New York state, claim to be generally encouraged by the fact that already five men have been mentioned as aspirants to the vice presidential nomination. They believe, with the New York delegation divided among that number of candidates, an outsider has a far better chance of securing the prize than would be the case if the delegation from the Empire State were standing solidly for a single man.

Chairman Taggart of the national committee announced the chaplains for the last three days of the convention, and complete list is now as follows:
Tuesday, July 7, Right Rev. James J. Keane of Wyoming; Wednesday, Rev. C. F. Beisner of Grace M. E. church, Denver; Thursday, Rabbi Manuel March of Seattle, Wash.; Friday, Rev. P. T. Ramsey of St. Paul's M. E. church, South Denver.

Secretary Urey Woodson of the national committee did not announce the names of the assistant secretaries, reading clerks and tally clerks of the convention, a press of routine work having rendered him unable to fill out the list from the large number of applications. The number is limited to fifty.

Notices of 45 Contests For Seats.

Notice of contests has been filed with the national committee involving 45 seats, but of this number the contests actually filed relate to 13 seats. Six of these are from the District of Columbia, and seven from the First, Second, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Pennsylvania congressional districts. The First and Second districts, however, have only one seat each in dispute.

Notices of contests yet to be filed came from Chicago and Brooklyn. In the Chicago cases the First to the Tenth congressional districts inclusive are involved, the contesting delegations being led by Robert E. Burke of Chicago. Contesting delegations from Brooklyn will come from the Second to the Seventh New York congressional districts, inclusive, and relate to the McClarren-Murphy fight. Two

LONG ISLAND WOODS AFIRE.

Many Game Birds and Rabbits Destroyed in Four Day Blaze Near Manorville.

Eastport, L. I., June 30.—Great loss, from a sportsman's point of view, has been occasioned in the last few days by a woods fire which is raging to the northwest of Manorville. As yet the fire has not reached any hamlet or even outlying farms, but it has burned over several square miles of woodland, and hundreds of quail, rabbits and partridges have perished. Many of the young especially could not fly from the flames and perished.

Several efforts to check the fire have been made, but because the danger is not imminent the farmers are not turning out. The fire has burned since Thursday. Its advance has been somewhat slow owing to the absence of wind. The woods are very dry and if there isn't some rain soon the flames will endanger farms and buildings.

ON FULL TIME ON JULY 1.

Pennsylvania Railroad Shopmen Will Have Plenty of Work This Summer.

Pittsburg, June 30.—Shopmen of the Pennsylvania Railroad company have been ordered to prepare to go on full time on July 1. A minimum of fifty-five hours a week has been decided on for the present, but this will likely be increased before the month is very old. This fifty-five hour rule applies particularly to the Altoona shops of the road, where the locomotives are repaired and where many of them are rebuilt.

Word from Altoona is that the work of repairing locomotives, which will begin in earnest on July 1, will require the time of several thousand men for weeks. Already the Pennsylvania is beginning to uncover its "Teddy Bears," or locomotives which were boxed up and placed on sidings when business fell off so that the round-houses were filled with idle locomotives.

Farm For Delinquent Women.

Albany, June 30.—Governor Hughes appointed Mrs. Jane L. Armstrong of Rochester and Mrs. Eliza M. Guy of New York as members of the new commission on state farm for women.
