The July Clearance Sale Is Nearing Its End.

How the time flies—how short is the passing of the "good thing." But the sale wouldn't be good if it could last forever—it would be just ordinary.

A Really Good Safety Razor for 10 Cents.

Having the same quality blade that is used in the highest-priced Safety Razor made, and a guard that makes the "slanting stroke" easy.

The Dime Safety Razor is going to revolutionize the safety razor trade. Of course, the first thing that a man will ask is: "Is it possible that I can get a really good safety razor for ten cents?"

The Dime Safety Razor

Gives you the same quality of highest grade selected Sheffield steel blade that is used in the highest-priced razor made. No stropping required. The holder is simple but ingenious, and many men who have paid $5 for a safety razor use the Dime Safety Razor in preference because it is so light on the face and because it permits a slanting stroke.

We have secured for a limited time the whole selling rights for Oil City. Complete with one blade in metal box, 10 cents. Extra blades, three for 10c. Each blade will give as many shaves as will that of any safety razor on the market, whatever its price. Mail orders filled.

Bill's Mistake

"Bill's got quite an eye on him this mornin'," remarked the man with the hod, pausing at the mortar box to wipe the honest dew of toll from his brow.

"I noticed that myself," said the man with the hoe.

"He don't act like a fightin' man," said the hodcarrier. "I'd took him for a feller 'at wouldn't get into no trouble he could keep out of."

"He ain't a fightin' man," said the man with the hoe. "He's a married man. She done it. She's a terror, all right. If I was Bill I'd do one o' two things; I'd take a pick handle some time to her or else I'd quit her."

"No you wouldn't," said the man with the hoe. "That wouldn't be no way to do. Takin' a pick handle to a woman ain't no way to reform her, an' if you quit her you'd have trouble."

"You don't know the kind o' woman Bill's got," said the man with the hoe. "I've lived neighbors with 'em for nigh on to a year, an' I do. Just as soon as he gets home she starts to chewin' the rag an' she don't give him no peace from that till he goes to work ag'in. I've seen him come out o' the house many's the time with half o' the kitchen dishes streakin' after him. She don't think nothin' o' throwin' a stove lid at him. Some o' these days she'll aim straight an' then there'll be an inquest."

"He don't handle her right," said the man with the hod, positively. "That's what I'm tellin' you. He ought to pickhandle her."

"I don't mean that. I mean he don't use no judgment. I don't have no trouble with my woman, an' I never took a pick handle to her either. When I git home there's my supper waitin' for me on the table good an' hot, an' never a cross word atwixt us. What's the reason? I know how to manage her. A woman ain't hard to manage if you go about it right."

"Sure," agreed the man with the hoe sarcastically. "It's as easy as making $10 a day. You git a woman like Bill's got the next time you get one an' then come around an' let me know how it goes."

"I don't know what kind of a woman Bill's got," retorted the man with the hod, "but I know I could handle her all right. If Billy has trouble with her he's got himself to blame for it. If Billy's woman has got any worse tongue than what my woman's got if she gits stirred up, I'd like to stand off somewheres an' hear it, jest out o' curiosity. That's what. If she can think of meaner things to say an' say 'em louder I'd like to hear her, an' if she can keep at it longer I'd like to time her an' give her the world's champion medal when she gits through. An' when it comes to backin' up what she says—say, what does Billy's wife weigh?"

"About a hundred'n thirty, I'd judge," replied the man with the hoe.

"My woman weighs a hundred an' seventy-eight, an' she's as quick as a cat," said the man with the hod. "If she lands on you you'll know it, all right. I've seen her pick up our cook stove and carry it out into the summer kitchen as easy as if it was a basket o' clo'es. All the same, you don't see me comin' to work with a black eye or dodging stove lids."

"Maybe your wife ain't got that ugly disposition," hazarded the man with the hoe.

"She's got her days when she ain't feelin' right good, jest the same as any of 'em," said the man with the hod. "But them's the days I step around extra soft an' keerful. I could git trouble if I wanted it an' git it easy an' plenty, but I don't. There's jest one way to do with a woman like that. Handle her right. If she wants to do anythin' let her do it an' don't make no bones about it an' if she wants you to do anythin' do it, and do it prompt an' cheerful, an' she won't be hard on you. When we was first married we had our little difficulties, same's most people, but I soon saw what was the right way to handle her."

"That's all right if you want a woman to boss you," said the man with the hoe.

"Boss nothin'," said the man with the hod, indignantly. "She don't never try to boss me. If I give in to her it's because I want to."

The Sleeping Sickness. How important it is that a remedy should be discovered for sleeping sickness may be judged from Dr. Todd's estimate, drawn from his investigations on the West Coast of Africa for the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, that in ten years the mortality in Africa from the disease has been from 400,000 to 600,000 persons.

WANT THE NEGRO VOTE.

Democrats Hope to Profit by a Foraker Defection in Ohio. Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 21.—According to Democratic leaders who have been to Fairview and conferred with Mr. Bryan, the ability of the Democrats to secure the negro vote in Ohio will depend largely upon the attitude of Senator Foraker. If Mr. Foraker does not give cordial support to Mr. Taft, the Democrats declare they feel assured of large negro support in that state. Should, however, Senator Foraker lend full support to Taft, it is conceded that there is little probability of enrolling a sufficient number of negro voters in the cause of Democracy to affect the result materially.

Former Attorney General Frank S. Monnet of Columbus and E. H. Moore of Youngstown, who was chairman of the Ohio Democratic state convention in the last Democratic state convention in Ohio, are speeding home after a conference with Mr. Bryan Sunday night, with instructions to size up the situation and take every advantage of the so-called Foraker-Taft feud.

The first feeling of hopefulness with regard to Illinois is not gaining ground and while that state will be carefully looked after, it has been practically determined that the main efforts in the middle West will be directed toward Indiana and Ohio, where the Democratic leaders are counting on wresting the majority vote from the Republican column. It is now definitely settled that the chairmanship of the national committee will not go to a Southern man because of the attitude of the Southerners toward the negro. This eliminates Ollie James of Kentucky.

Why when and how to preserve eggs. THE QUALITY WAY. There are at least three pertinent reasons for preserving eggs.

No Water For Coal Mines. Pottsville, July 21.—Owing to the lack of water only half the collieries in the Schuylkill region will resume work today. Unless rain falls this week there will be an entire suspension of mining in the lower anthracite region next week, as there is no longer sufficient water for steam purposes and washing of the coal. The sulphur water from the mines which is now being used is badly corroding the boilers. The Schuylkill river here has dried up to such an extent that it is scarcely visible.

Caught in Jaws of Death. Harrisburg, July 21.—Martin I. Miller, an expert electrician, was instantly killed in the bridge shop of the Pennsylvania Steel works while locking some connections. He became entangled in the machinery of a large crane and his limbs were terribly crushed, while he suffered three fractures of the skull. Miller was aged 35 and had been connected with the steel works for years. He leaves a wife and three small children.

Missing Woman Located. Atlantic City, N. J., July 21.—The local police department has given up its search for Mrs. Beyers, the wealthy Pittsburg woman who was reported missing Saturday. It was stated that Mrs. Morgan, her companion, intimated that Mrs. Beyers is staying at a beach front hotel and the latter has requested that her whereabouts be kept secret.

Women Seek Police Jobs. Christiansa, July 21.—In Norway, where women have the parliamentary vote, a movement is on foot for the employment of women on the police force.

WHEN TO PRESERVE EGGS. Many people have flocks of hens that are prolific layers from April till September. After that they rarely lay enough eggs to pay for their care.

Quoting from our local market, (and we have kept several years) the price in April is 12c retail, and the grocer pays from 11c to 12c. In May you can get 13c if you buy in lots, and five dozens in the basket. In June and July half the hens are broody and prices advance so the grocer pays 15c and the dealer 14c. In August the price is "strictly fresh." In August the price advances to 20c and in September to 22c. October marks 25c, November 30c, and during the next three months fresh eggs find a ready market at from 32c to 34c. The retail price is always from two to four cents higher.

Now, it is quite apparent that if eggs laid in July and August are preserved till December they will show a net profit of ten cents a dozen.

It becomes plain, therefore, that the preservation of eggs for periods of four and five months will result in a nice profit on the money invested, whether that investment is made in hens or in fresh eggs and there is no doubt as to the result, as the demand is always present and the market open.

That this can be done at a nice profit and sell an egg until for food, we positively know.

For our own family we preserve the eggs laid in July and August, and they remain perfectly fresh, with no change of flavor, until eggs are plentiful again, in the Spring.

HOW TO PRESERVE EGGS. This problem has been the subject of constant investigation all over the world for half a century, and it was less than ten years ago that a successful method was discovered. The discoverer was Dr. Todd, by us, but we have tested the method thoroughly and carefully for five years with the most satisfactory results. We call it "The Quality Way," because the quality of the egg is perfectly preserved. We have kept eggs since a year and they were as good, hence, we are honest in our belief that eggs can be kept in a perfectly fresh condition longer than anyone needs to keep them.

We have supplied a great many people with the method and, where instructions were carefully followed, there were no failures.

The process is simple, the labor insignificant, the material inexpensive and a few seconds' traces are left to indicate that the eggs have been kept. The most skilled expert cannot tell the difference between an egg four months old and one laid the day before, by candling, breaking, whipping or cooking.

We will supply you with explicit instructions for preserving eggs "The Quality Way" for one dollar, and there will be no strings attached to the purchase.

Having purchased the instructions they are yours to do with as you please. You may sell or give the method to your neighbors, your choice, or you can keep your own counsel and let them wonder why your hens produce an abundance of eggs at a time when their own hens are "teating their heads off."

If you care for a supply of fresh eggs for your own table, all winter, this process is worth more to you than the price asked.

It will not make a bad egg good, but it will preserve fresh eggs continually fresh for an indefinite period.

Nothing is used that is poison or caustic, or that penetrates beyond the shell.

If you are sufficiently interested, send us a dollar and the instructions will be promptly forwarded. Address: THE EMPIRE COMPANY, 999 Elliott Square, Buffalo, N. Y.

FOUR STABBED BY MADMAN.

Two May Die From Wounds Inflicted by Heat-Crazed Foreigner. Wilkes-Barre, July 21.—Made insane by the heat, Giuseppe Marcinnia, a foreigner, ran amuck in the town of Nanticoke. He ran out of his boarding house with a big stiletto in his hand and stabbed Michael Boalko and wife, Mrs. John Wolfe and William Kikeler. Boalko will die of his wounds, and it is thought that Mrs. Wolfe is fatally injured. A half-dozen other people had narrow escapes.

Marcinnia fled to the woods when there were no more victims in sight, and he has not yet been captured.

The proprietor of the boarding house where the man stopped told the police that Marcinnia returned home from work about 5 in the evening and complained of the heat. After supper he went out on the front porch and conversed with a number of other boarders.

Shortly after 10 o'clock he said he would retire for the night. In a second he became a demon. Drawing his long stiletto from an inside pocket, he rushed out into the street and stabbed the first person he met. The cries of the wounded aroused the whole neighborhood, and if the man had been caught it is believed he would have been roughly handled by the crowd.

Pennsylvania Opens New Line.

Pittsburg, July 21.—The Pennsylvania has just completed and placed in service a new branch line starting one mile south of Ellsworth, Pa., and extending a distance of nearly eight miles to Marianna, where the Pittsburg-Buffalo company has sunk two shafts. The construction of this branch was begun in the latter part of 1906, and numerous obstacles had to be overcome. Owing to their importance, these extensive improvements have been carried on without a halt throughout the present financial depression.

Between Seasons.

Best time of the year to visit this store. Every department is endeavoring to get rid of end of season merchandise. They're but following out instructions, and as they are permitted to resort to some drastic price cutting, the shelves, racks and boxes will be pretty well cleared by September 1st. Of course.

"Ready to Wear" Gets Hit the Hardest.

Many of these suits have a jacket, so they'll be in excellent style for Fall. Plenty of opportunities offered, all over the store, to save many times your car fare, so it will pay you to come.
