/ICTORIOUS CAR HOME

Escort of Automobiles Meets the Buffalo Racer at City Line.

Noman's Torso Found in Trunk. Aeronaut Fell to Death-Fleet Left Melbourne - Respite on Pension Bills-$4,000,000 In Public Bequests. Tony Pastor's Will.

Covered with dust and victory, the Thomas car that made 13,431 miles in he endurance contest around the vorld, arrived in Buffalo Saturday. fully 20,000 people welcomed the car and its crew, George Schuster and leorge Miller. Five thousand of these vere jammed around a platform at arayette Square, where the car will emain on exhibition several days, The rest were scattered along Main treet from the city line to Ellicott touare.

The car left New York city in the indurance contest on Feb. 22. It arived in Paris on July 30. Other conestants in the race were De Dion French), with G. Boucier de Saint haffray, Captain Hans Hansen and d. Autran: Motor Bloc (French), with M. Godard, M. Hue and M. Livier; Sizaire et Naudin (French), with August Pons, M. Deschamps and M. Berthe: Zust (Italian), with Antonio Scarfoglio, Emelio Sitori and Henri Hanga, and Protos (German), with Jeutenant Koeppen, Engineer Ernest dans and Engineer Hans Knape.

The Protos arrived in Paris on July but the Thomas was declared winer to follow the official route, which ed through the United States, Alaska, Russia, Germany and France to Paris. Schuster was with the car from the ime it left New York city until it arived in Buffalo Saturday. Montague Roberts was in charge of the car when it started, but he left it at heyenne, Wyo., in order to compete m the Grand Prix in Paris.

Schuster took charge of the car at Seattle, Wash., and was at the wheel for the rest of the trip. Miller joined he car as machinist when it passed through Buffalo, and, like Schuster, emained with it to the finish. In an Ilustrated lecture at Convention Hall it night, at which the car and the crew were present, a few of the difficulties which the American car experienced were related. Many of them were caused by natural conditions, such as and rods and mountainous territory.

Woman's Torso Found In Trunk. The most horrible and brutal crime committed in Greater Boston since the death of Susan Geary, a chorus girl, four years ago, and one much resembling it, was disclosed by the discovery on Thursday of the torso of Mrs. Honorah Jordan, an actress, aged 23 years, of Somerville, in a trunk in a boarding house at 7 Hancock street, on Beacon Hill, Boston. Later the head and bones of the limbs were found in the furnace of the Jordan home at Somerville, and the scalp, hair and other grewsome remains were taken from the kitchen range of the house.

Chester Jordan, aged 29 years, an actor, of 509 Medford street, Somerville, is held by the police charged with the murder and, according to the officers, he made a full and complete confession of the crime.

According to Jordan's alleged confession he accidentally killed his wife Tuesday night in a quarrel at their home, and becoming desperate over what he had done, went out and bought a butcher's knife and hacksaw, cut up the body and placed the torso in a trunk. He then planned to take the steamer Harvard, which was scheduled to leave Wednesday night for New York, and throw the parts of the body overboard. The fact that the Harvard was laid off owing to an accident disarranged his plans and he was obliged to hire a hackman to take the trunk to a Boston boarding house to await a more favorable opportunity.

Aeronaut Fell to His Death.

In full view of 25,000 horrified spectators on the Central Maine fair grounds at Waterville, Mo., Charles Oliver Jones, the well-known aeronaut of Hammondsport, N. Y., fell a distance of 500 feet to his death. Among the witnesses of the frightful plunge were the man's wife and child, and they were almost the first to reach his side after the accident. The aeronaut expired about an hour and a half after the tragic event.

When the aeronaut reached a height of more than 500 feet the spectators were amazed to see small tongues of same issuing from under the gas bag in front of the motor. At this time the balloon had passed out of the fair grounds. Many persons in the great crowd endeavored to apprise Jones of his danger, but several minutes elapsed before he noticed the fire. Then he grasped the rip cord and by letting out gas endeavored to reach the earth. The machine had descended but a short distance when a sudden burst of flame enveloped the gas bag, the frame work immediately separating from the bag. Jones fell with the frame of his motor, and when the spectators reached him he was lying under it about a quarter of a mile from the fair grounds. The gas bag, which fell nearby, was completely destroyed.

Respite on Pension Bills.

Not for three years will the Grand army of the Republic ask for furthor relief measures from congress. resolution offered at Toledo looking o amending of the service pension ill reducing to 65 years the age at which a veteran can receive $20 a nonth and another amending the pendng widows' pension bill to make eligiile all soldiers' widows who were marded prior to the date of passage of he bill were laid over in favor of the esolution granting congress three rears respite from pension legislation. It appeared to be the concensus of pinion of the leaders that too much igitation for pension bills and relief neasures might soon create an undigiffied impression in congress and re lect discredit on Civil war veterans it the time in their lives when they rould need the most assistance from he nation. Another way will be jought by the veterans to get before engress the bits of unfinished legisation which they feel cannot wait. Colonel Nevius Commander-In-Chief.

Colonel Henry M. Nevins of Red Bank, N. J., was elected commandern-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at Toledo, O. The election was made on the first ballot. Colonel Nevins receiving 454 votes as compared with 254 for former Governor Van Sant of Minnesota, and 90 for L. r. Dickinson of Illinois. Other offiers were chosen as follows:

Senior vice commander, J. Kent familton of Ohio; junior vice, comnander, C. C. Royce of California: haplain-in-chief, J. F. Spence of Tenessee; surgeon-in-chief, G. Lane Taniehill of Maryland.

$4,000,000 In Public Bequests.

More than $4,000,000 is left to chartable institutions, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and Yale university by the will of Frederick Cooper Hewitt, one of the wealthiest men in Tioga county, who died at his home in Owego Sunday of last week.

To relatives and friends less than nalf a million dollars is left. The estate is estimated to be worth from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000, and in addiion to receiving a bequest of $1,500,-000 the Metropolitan Museum of Art s made the residuary legatee, so that t will be seen that the institution may e the recipient of more than twice the amount specified in the will if the estate should prove to be worth $8,-300,000 or anything like that amount.

The largest bequest mentioned in he will is the gift of $2,000,000 to the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital. To Yale university, of which Mr. Hewitt was a graduate in the class of '58, $500,000 is left.

Receiver For Pittsburg & Binghamton Judge Archibald of the U.S. circuit court at Scranton, appointed L. T. Mc-Fadden of Canton, Pa., and John T. Reynolds of Boston, Mass., receivers f the Pittsburg, Binghamton & Eastern Railway company. The road is under construction between Binghamton and Pittsburg. It has an author ized bond issue of $5,000,000 and about $2,000,000 have been expended for equipment and in grading. This action has been taken in behalf of the creditors and bondholders with a view to reorganizing the company and completing the read. Mr. McFadden is cashier of the National bank of Canton and Mr. Reynolds represents large banking interests in Boston.

Arrival of British Strike Breakers. The first installment of British mechanics to replace the Canadian Pacific strike breakers arrived in Montreal on Sunday when 150 men were landed from the steamer Lake Erie. They include machinists, boiler makers and other metal workers. The railway officials state that other parties are now on the Atlantic and that when they arrive the company will have a staff almost as large as before the strike. They intimate that there will not be many openings for the strikers when the strike is declared off. The new arrivals were taken to the Angus shops, where they will be housed until they can be distributed to various

Death of Frank P. Sargent.

Frank Pierce Sargent, United States commissioner general of immigration, for more than sixteen years grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and one of the most forceful characters in the field of labor, immigration and allied questions in the country, died at his apart ments at the Manor House in Washington Friday. Fight a Draw.

Contest Was Marked by Moran's Aggressiveness and Attell's Cleverness In Blocking and His All-Around Defense - Attell Had Advantage In Nine Rounds, Moran Was Given Six and For the Balance Honors Were About Even.

San Francisco, Sept. 8 .- Abe Attell, the champion featherweight of America, and Owen Moran, England's premier boxer in the same division, lought to a draw at the Colma open tir arena yesterday afternoon before about 6,000 spectators. The fight asted 23 rounds and at its conclusion Referee Jack Welch unhesitatingly grasped each lad by the hand, signify-ng that the fight was indecisive. The decision seemed to please the crowd and there were cheers for each fighter as he wended his way from the ringside. The fight on the whole was rather tame, but this was offset by he cleverness of both fighters. It was marked by Moran's aggressiveness and Attell's eleverness in blocking and his all-round defense. The consensus of opinion was the Californian did not show his best form of former contests. After the fight Moran declared:

"I broke my right hand in the sec ond round. After that it was almost useless. At that I think I won by a mile. I am willing to fight Attell 45 rounds, winner to take all." A press representative visited the Englishman in his dressing room after the contest and carefully examined the hand which he claimed was broken. It was badly swollen around the thumb but it was not possible to verify the claim of a broken bone. Moran's face was much battered and his left eye was nearly closed from Attell's almost ceaseless pounding. On the other hand Attell emerged from the fight without a mark. Attell gave out a statement after being informed of Moran's challenge for a return match:

"I will fight no one 45 rounds. I want to live a while yet. But I will give him a return match for any number of rounds up to 25. I beat him at every stage."

An examination of Attell's right hand disclosed that the middle knuckle was disjointed. A resume of the fight by rounds shows that Attell had more or less advantage in nine rounds, Moran was given six and for the balance honors were even.

PAPKE KNOCKS OUT KETCHEL

Fight Was Practically Over After First Two Rounds.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 8.—Stanley Ketchell of Michigan, former middleweight champion of the world, was knocked out in the twelfth round at Jeffries' Vernon arena by Billy Papke of Illinois, who is now middleweight champion of the world.

Both men entered the ring in an parently perfect condition and neither had ever been knocked out. Ketchell had had a decision over Papke in a ten-round bout.

The bout turned out to be one of the bloodiest in ring history. Ketchel was plainly the favorite of the crowd, which had bet on him at 2 to 1.

The fight was practically over a minute and twenty seconds after the gong sounded. From that time on it was merely a question as to how long Ketchel would last. Papke fought with such fury that the undefeated champion was simply lifted off his feet four times within the next minute. He sent Ketchel to the mat for the count and from his first knock-down Ketchel never really recovered his form. He was dazed and bleeding from twenty blows on the face, yet he stayed with remarkable determination and for at least three rounds he held his own with the victorious challenger.

When Ketchel stepped to the corner for the second round it was seen that his right eye was closed. At the next intermission his seconds lanced the eye and sucked the blood, but Ketchel did not regain the sight of that eye Before the finish the other eve was all but closed and during the last three rounds he staggered about the ring dizzily like a drunken man, practically blinded.

In the third Ketchel showed his best form when he forced Panke through the ropes. In the last round he seemed down and out and the gong saved him just as he was knocked through the ropes. Another minute finished him with Papke almost as strong as when he entered the ring.

FOUGHT 23 ROUNDS, GREED THE MOTIVE

Referee Declared Attell-Moran Not a Difficult Matter to Learn Why Some Men in Pennsylvania Shout for Bryan

PENROSE IN HARNESS AGAIN

Benior Senator Returns From Health-Seeking Vacation More Vigorous Than Ever-Studied Situation Care fully and Sees No Hope for Bryan.

Scratch the most ardent Bryan man to be found in Pennsylvania and to a certainty there will be found an officeseeker, consistent only in his appetite for public place. In all other things political he will be found as inconsistent as Mr. Bryan himself, who since he shouted himself into political notice a dozen years ago has ever been shifting his policies and principles, with the single exception of his incessant and intolerable greed for the presidency. W. R. Hearst, in a speech at Indianapolis last week, was happy in his description of Bryan when he spoke of him as "the peerlees prestidigitator of modern politics, whose hand is quicker than the eye, who causes his principles to disappear and changes his politics in full view of the audience."

The country's good has never cost Candidate Bryan a single serious thought. His thoughts have been, under all circumstances and conditions, the children of his ambition to become president of the United States. This country and its cherished institutions have been and now are with him merely secondary considerations. The same greed he has shown is now fairly consuming the most devoted followers of the leather-lunged aspirant for the presidency. They want the postoffices and the petty places with an utter disregard for consequences. They care absolutely nothing for the problems of national government-do mestic or foreign. They simply want political preferment and to secure it they are endeavoring to throw dust into the eyes of the people.

Just now these ambitious Democratic place hunters are manifesting soulful devotion for the wage earners, endeavoring to wipe out of memory the stern and ever-present fact that neither Mr. Bryan nor the Democracy has ever given to labor anything but very liberal doses of foolish advice. No laboring man in Pennsylvania will vote for Mr. Bryan without voting knowingly against his own best interests and against the party which fn and out of season-when political campaigns were on and when they were off-has stood firm and steadfast for the best interests of the wage earner and labor generally. The record of the Republican party so far as labor is concerned is the record of action and devotion to the sacred cause of those who earn their bread by the sweat of their brows. No wage earner in Pennsylvania will be tricked into following the advice of the place-hunting Bryan shouters with out knowingly voting to advance the selfish interests of the place-hunters at his own personal sacrifice.

It is worth repeating: Scratch the most ardent Bryan shouter in any section and there will be uncovered a man who is being consumed by his greed for public place! United States Senator Boles Pen rose has returned to his Philadelphia home after spending the summer to the open in the west. During the time he was away Senator Penrose slept out of doors and ate only the plainest of foods. As a result he returns to as sume the responsible duties of his exalted position with his youth renewed and his political sagacity sharper than ever. Senator Penrose, it will be recalled, was a very sick man for several weeks last winter. Frequently during his illness his life was despaired of. While convalescing Senator Penrose visited at the farm of his brother near Philadelphia. When he felt sufficiently recovered he went into the Colorado mountains, where he found rest in abundance and game in

Now that he has returned to the state Senator Penrose has entered ear nestly into the fight for Taft and Sher man. It is practically certain that the senator will have no opposition for reelection to the United States senate next winter, and in the pending presidential campaign he will be able to make a number of speeches throughout the commonwealth. He will give his very best efforts in helping to elect Republican congressmen and all other Republican candidates throughout the past and, in addition, he is of the firm belief that the Republicans will be able to carry one or more of the southern states that have heretofore been Democratic. He regards it practically certain that the Republicans will break in on the southern congressional delegations, for, he says, the young Democrats of the south are restless under the political policies which have harrassed them all their lives and are ambitious for better conditions for their section of the country. Senator Penrose contends that there is a much greater chance for the Republicans to carry some of the southern states than there is for the Democrats to carry any Republican state in the west. There is no question but what the conservative people and interests of the country are afraid of Mr. Bryan. While they appreciate what virtues he has and regard him as entertaining and interesting, reading with pleasure those of his sayings that are trite, still they are afraid of that spirit of discontent which manifests itself in nearly every move made by Mr. Bryan. When he was a comparatively poor man, struggling for attention and money, his discontent was looked upon with sympathy. Now, however, when he has grown immensely rich by forcing the Democratic party to do his advertising for him his discontent is naturally looked upon with alarm and his apparent determination to line up and keep lined up the masses against the classes and to foment discontent among the people, even when no political advantage is possible from such recklessness, the danger of hiselevation to the presidency of the United States becomes so apparent that a blind man might see it. A simple reading of Mr. Bryan's speeches thus far in this campaign uncovers his determination to get votes regardless of the sacrifice the nation may be compelled to make. When business men in every section are demanding rest from the contentions which have been so grievously disturbing business affairs, in his every speech Mr. Bryan is adding fuel to the fire of general discontent and doing much toward the laying of foundations for a future revolution in this country. A continuance of the disturbed conditions in this country would be an extravagant price to pay for votes for Mr. Bryan, but so long as the country has to pay the price Mr. Bryan is determined to get the votes, revolution or no revolution.

Immediately upon his return to Philadelphia Senator Penrose gave out an interview analyzing the political conditions in the country and telling, in a forceful way, why Republicans will have to do but their plain duty to elect Mr. Taft president. He watched polities closely during his vacation, studled conditions carefully and managed to gather political sentiment from nearly every state in the union, and as a result of his research and efforts Senator Penrose said he found naught but encouragement for the Republican party. He says Bryan is in no way stronger in this contest than he was In his former fights when he and his spurious politics were repudiated and Ignored. Senator Penrose is positive west just as they have done in the vices from California.

It is a fair assumption that the electorate of the nation will think serious. ly before casting votes for the presidential candida es, and it is certain that where there is intelligent thinking done there will be no tendency to promote discontent and disorder just because William Jennings Bryan is now making his third attempt to he president.

Gave His Life to Save a Child.

New York, Sept. 8.-Though badly burned, John Tuck, a retired real es tate dealer, returned to a burning apartment in Brooklyn for a missing child and saved it but at the expense of his own life. He had already res cued the mother, using his coat to pro tect her as he carried her down the stairs. She cried for her child when the street was reached. Disregarding his own injuries. Tuck hurried back and safely brought the infant out of the house. On his second trip he was unable to prevent his own clothing from taking fire. When he laid the child in its mother's arms he collapsed and died before the ambulance doctor reached him. Neither Mrs. Clampet the mother, nor the child received se rious injuries.

Farmer Nearly Killed by a Bull. Marksboro, N. J., Sept. 8.-Attacked by a bull which became suddenly enraged when he entered the barnyard, Rufus Jennings, a farmer, received injuries that will probably result in his death. The savage animal tossed Jennings against a fence several times. then hurled him to the ground, and but for the interferences of his 12-year old daughter and a large Newfoundland dog would have killed him on the spot. As the dog seized the bull's hind leg the girl dragged her father away, but the bull shook off the dog and attacked the girl, knocking her down but not seriously injuring her. The girl finally got her father out of the barnyard and then collapsed.

Knox Had a Narrow Escape.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 8 .- Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania had a narrow escape from serious injury while returning from Evian-Lec-Bains to Geneva by automobile. He was accompanied by his son and the latter also escaped with a few bruises and torn clothes. The mis hap occurred while the automobile was proceeding along a narrow road at a good speed. In passing over a soft spot the machine skidded and ran over the bank into a deep ditch. Senator Knox was practically unhurt, and his son, who managed to jump from the car, was only slightly bruised about the arms and shoulders.

Charged With Six Murders.

Sherman, Tex., Sept. 8 .- A man giving the name of William Halfield but who, it is thought, may be James C. Dunham, charged with the murder of six persons in San Jose, Cal., twelve years ago, is in jail here, having been arrested in Cooke county by a deputy United States marshal. The crimes, when committed, created great excite ment and rewards of $11,000 were of Tered for the murderer. Halfield came to this community about two months that the Republicans will carry the ago. He is being held awaiting ad-
