-An old time fisherman gives the following hint to those who know or imagine that fish caught in local waters have the taste of crude oil. Treat the fish the same as an unplucked chicken, Plunge it into boiling bot water until a scum arises and then take the fish out of the vessel. This operation makes it easier to remove the fins and scales and it is said to obliterate any of the crude oil taint in the taste of the "critter."

-G. H. Lowe & Co., the owners of the oil leases on the Robinson and McKee tracts across the river, entertained a party of upwards of seventy of their friends in a most enjoyable clambake last Sunday at the big spring on the former property. About thirty of the guests came from Jamestown, N.Y., the home of the owners of the property, and the balance from Oil City, Tionesta and vicinity. The company, under the leadership of George H. Lowe, proved themselves to be entertainers of the first order, the preparation keeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphing, &c., from a business view.

-The ball game here last Saturday afternoon between Tionesta and Kellettville was very much one-sided, the home team winning by a score of 20 to 7. The Kellettville pitcher was hit bard but not as hard as the score would indicate, his team-mates giving him poor support at critical stages. The visitors were a gentlemanly lot of players and there was no kicking on the work of umpire David Blum. Foreman pitched a good game and was well-supported. The housewife cuts up real pumpkins and stews them and puts them through a sieve or something and then stirs in with the yellow product such things as new-laid eggs, Jersey cream, ground cinnamon, white sugar and a little molasses. Then they are put in the oven, about half an acre at a baking, and delicately browned. When they are cut they are divided so as to make one pie about the size of a Merry Widow hat do for three persons and the third piece all round the table is considered customary. The result is that the angel of peace always arrives about

With plenty of pies, neighbors may be made so good natured that they will busk a man's corn free of charge and join in a barn dance after it is over. All mankind is affected by the influence of the pumpkin season. The preachers who partake of it preach more hopeful sermons, and shorter ones, farmers heglect to thrash boys they catch in the orchard, sewing societies talk more about household matters, political contributions become larger and more common and family feuds are forgotten. It is a fortunate thing for editors that they have friends who will, if they love them, send them a few nice pumpkin pies and thus keep them in touch with the glad season of festivity."

M. L. Range's Barn Burned.

The large bank barn of Farmer Leonard Range, at Stewart Run, was burned own some hay into the manger He had instructed his son to hitch up after breakfast and haul some planks to bridge. The young man left the barn about 7 o'clock with his load and had been gone perhaps an hour and on his re turn discovered the fire when some dis tance away, the blaze seeming to be in the upper story of the building, where neither he nor his father had been that morning. Neither Mr. Range nor his son smoke and neither had any matches about them, so that the origin could no be attributed to them, and it is hard to be-lieve that the fire could have come from spontaneous combustion so early in the morning. There was no chance to save the contents, much less the building with the means at hand, in fact it took hard work to save the dwelling house and corn crib which stood near the barn. Between 45 and 50 tons of hay, 45 bushels of buck-wheat, a quantity of unthreshed rye, a grain drill, mowing machine and other farm implements were burned. Only an old buggy and a set of single harness were saved.

The barn was a fine three-story struct-ure, 50x70 feet in dimension, and cannot be replaced for $2,000, thus running the loss to Mr. Range up to nearly $3,000, on which there was an insurance of $700 on the building and $300 on the contents. A
