Tabled President's Special Message and Part of Another.

Resolution of Special Committee Rebuking the President For What Was Termed a Breach of Privilege Was Adopted by a Vote of 212 to 35, Although There Were Defenders of the Executive-Largest Attendance of the Session.

The house of representatives on Friday night last, by a vote of 212 to 35, rebuked the president by tabling so much of his messages as reflected on members of congress in connection with his recommendations regarding the secret service detectives, and also declaring it to be the sense of the house that they shall decline to consider any communication from any source which is not in its own judgment respectful.

As had been forecasted, the report of the special committee appointed to deal with the language in the president's annual message and in his special message of Monday Jan. 4, bearing on the secret service affecting memhers of congress, was submitted and it was used as the basis for some of the most earnest and vigorous speeches ever heard in the historic chamber. The house was in no mood to treat the subject otherwise than seriously, although in the remarks which were made the references to the president almost invariably were couched in parliamentary language. Nor was the president without his supporters.

Toward the close of the debate, Mr. Gardner of Massachusetts vainly endeavored to secure first the adoption of a substitute for the resolution in the shape of an amendment expressing confidence in the committee on appropriations and then the postponement of the whole matter until Monday, but he was overwhelmingly outvoted.

BROWNTAIL MOTH

New Insect Pest Found In Some Recent Seedling Importations.

At a conference at the state department of agriculture at Albany it was decided to send to each nurseryman of the state a letter of warning against the browntail moth, which has been found in some importations of nursery seedlings recently arrived from France. The caterpillars have been identified by Professor Slingerland of Cornell university, Professor Parrot of the state experiment station, and State Entomologist Felt.

"This insect pest has not become established in New York state and nursery men and orchardists who know of its depredations in Massachusetts will unite to repress it," said Commissioner of Agriculture Pearson. "The discovery of its presence having been made at this early day, gives the inspectors of the agricultural department ample opportunity to examine all incoming stock and to attend to necessary fumigation, in which measures the nurserymen wil co-operate."

ATHLETES REINSTATED

Charges of Professionalism Against Six Men Were Not Sustained.

What proved to be a tempest in a teapot in amateur athletics was stilled when the registration board of the Amateur Athletic union lifted the ban of suspension for alleged professionalism which ten days ago it placed upon six prominent athletes, four of whom had won international and Olympic

The men who thus are again eligible to compete as amateurs are J. J. Lee of Boston, unattached; F. G. Bellars, New York Athletic club, and Melvin W. Sheppard, Charles J. Bacon, George Bonhag and H. F. Porter, Irish-American Athletic club.

The charges of professionalism laid against the men were covered by an allegation that they had demanded and accepted money for traveling and other expenses to cities outside of New York in excess of what really was necessary. These charges were not sustained at the meeting of the registration committee.

CAYUGA AND SENECA LAKES

Superintendent Stevens Recommends Canalizing of Outlets.

Superintendent Frederick C. Stevens recommends to the legislature the improvement of the Cayuga and Seneca lake outlets so as to bring them within the barge canal system.

Superintendent Stevens said that the canalizing of the outlet of Cayuga lake and the Seneca river from Mudlock to Geneva and Seneca lake could be accomplished for a sum inside of $6,000,000, and that with this improvement there would be added to the canal system upwards of one hundred miles of deep waterways, the lakes themselves providing practically eighty miles of this.

It is the superintendent's idea that with this improvement accomplished Ithaca and Watkins, which would then be the closest water points to the Penusylvania coal fields, would become the most important coal shipping points in the country.

Had Been Called by Dog's Whining. The body of Madame Ogston, wife of the British consul at Messina, who with her daughter made her escape from the ruins, was found Monday. They succeeded in removing a great quantity of debris and there they came upon the dog's mas ter, alive but unconscious. British Attache Radeliffe said he believed there are many still alive in the ruins. Unfortunately during the past few days the work of searching the ruins has been in a measure abandoned as it was thought impossible that any living remained.

Ray of the United States court of the Northern district of New York, at Norwich.

ANCIENT CHURCH COLLAPSED

Nearly All of the Congregation Were Killed or Injured.

During divine service an ancient church at Sion, near Berne, Switzerland, suddenly collapsed, burying the worshippers in the ruins. Practically all the members of the congregation were killed or injured. The wildest panic prevailed, those who escaped rushing through the fields shouting that an earthquake had overtaken the village.

After an hour's exertion, the fire company of the place extricated forty corpses, but it is believed that there is still a number under the timbers. Sixty persons were badly injured. The collapse of the church was caused by the time-worn pillars in the underground crypt giving way.

Lack of Safety Appliances.

Although the government suit at Boston against the New York Central Railroad company ended in the company's pleading guilty to a lack of safety appliances in six of the charges, the termination was hastened by the action of the federal cour in taking the case from the jury wher it was learned that one of the government inspectors had discussed some phase of the case with a juryman.

The government made twelve charges against the road, but three were thrown out by the court, and the government relinquished its prosecution on three more. The fine in each charge is $100.

Hudson Memorial Bridge.

The Hudson Memorial bridge, the latest bridge designed by the New York bridge department, is more interesting from some standpoints than any other structure of its kind around New York city. It will serve not only as a connecting link between New York and Spuyten Duyvil, a suburb, but also will commemorate the discovery of the Hudson river 300 years ago. The bridge will be of reinforced concrete, exceeding in magnitude many times any arched bridge ever built of

Appeared at Carthage, III., Friday Evening and Took Room at a Boarding House - Monday Morning He Cut His Throat In an Outhouse and one His Body Were Found Letters to the Sheriff of Adair, Mich., and to His Wife.

Carthage, Ili., Jan. 12 .- Rev. John H. Carmichael, pastor of three Methodist churches in and near Adair, Mich., confessed slayer of Gideon Browning, a neigh or whom he slew with a hatchet and cremated last Tuesday night in Battle Run church, committed suicide in the toilet room of Miss Mir anda Hughes' boarding house here by cutting his throat with a pocketknife

The preacher left a letter to the sheriff of Adair, Mich., giving details of the murder, dismembering and in-*ineration of Browning, and attributed the act to self-defense and moral cowardice because of the hypnotic influence that Browning, an illiterate carpenter, held over him.

Reason For Tragedy Unsolved.

While the confession of the clergyman is rather long and on some points minute, it leaves many questions regarding the tragedy unsolved, admitting that the statements of the minister are true. Some parts of the letter tend to cause the impression that the confession is really the produc tion of an unsound mind.

The preacher does not explain satisfactorily how he and Browning came to go to Rattle Run church, or why both seemed bent on keeping their presence there secret, except to say that Browning wanted the minister to officiate at Browning's wedding ly. William G. Brogan was elected to that night. This account does not explain the fact that the preacher evidently knew that Browning already had one wife, if not two.

Nothing more than Rev. Mr. Carmichael's letter to the Michigan sheriff has thus far been discovered in Carthage tending to explain the mysterious tragedy. Carmichael died without regaining consciousness. He had prepared to leave Carthage and went to the tollet room in the yard before starting for the railway station. There several hours later Miss Hughes discovered him bleeding and frozen. He had cut his throat, but the wound was not fatal except that long bleeding and the low temperature had sapped his life.

Unknown in Carthage. The suicide left a letter addressed to his wife in Adair, Mich., but it has not been opened. He was unknown to anyone in Carthage and gave the name here of John Elder. On Friday, when the Burlington train pulled into Carthage a man over six feet tall and with reddish brown hair and shaved face, alighted and sought a room at Miss Hughes' boarding house He said that he was a cabinet maker and thought of opening a shop in Carthage. He talked and ate little and he led Miss Hughes to think that he was a Catholic and was fasting. He acted rather strange ly but she thought little about it at the time.

Monday morning he packed all his belongings in his vallee, and leaving his room in order went out to the toilet room and nothing more was seen or heard of him until 9 o'clock.

Then Miss Hughes went out to feed her chickens. She heard a moaning in the toilet room. Looking in the door, she saw the man on the floor with his throat cut. There the doctors found that he had cut a small slit in his throat, but the knife had not touched the jugular vein. Had it not been that he had lain so long in the cold and lost so much blood the doctors could have restored him to consciousness; but, as the thermome er stood almost at zero, he had become so thoroughly chilled that he never aroused from his stupor and died at 12:40 o'clock.

CRIME AND CRAZE DUE TO DEFECTIVE TEETH

Can Prevent Insanity.

Cleveland, Jan. 12. - Prominent criminologists and alienists throughout the country are interested in the experimental work of Dr. Henry Upson, a distinguished neurologist of this city, who believes that criminal instincts, as well as many nervous disorders and even insanity, are caused in numerous instances by defective teeth.

Dr. Upson has already produced marked beneficial effects upon patients at the Newburg Insane asylum by simple dental operations.

Arrangements have been made by which Dr. Upson will during the coming week begin experiments upon prisoners at the workhouse. The X-ray machine is used to determine whether or not the teeth or their roots are defective. This test also develops any pressure of the roots on the various nerves leading from the mouth to the brain. Dr. Upson bases his belief upon the theory that insanity and crime are correlated.

The series of experiments will extend over six months and the results will be embodied by Dr. Upson in a monograph addressed to the medical profession.

TILLMAN'S DEFENSE

Read His Prepared Remarks With Little Attempt at Oratory.

Washington, Jan. 12.-Greeted by applause from the galleries when he entered the senate chamber to reply to President Roosevelt's strictures in respect to his connection with Oregon timber land transactions, Senator Tillman of South Carolina proceeded to read his prepared remarks with little attempt at oratorical effort. He was accorded careful attention by senators on both sides of the chamber. In addition to his speech, which had been printed in advance, Mr. Tillman had prepared other brief remarks which he read. "It has been expected and desired." he said. "that having made my own defense I should turn my batteries on my assailant. I do not feel that my strength is sufficient for the double task, for my physicians have warned me against overtaxing myself. One of the truest and best sentiments in English literature is this from Tennyson:

"'Soiling another will never make one's self "lean.

Good Character a Bulwark. "The president lives in a glass house with even a glass floor in it and should remember the old adage. He has exerted all the power of the government to destroy me, but I feel that I stand unscathed because, if all other arguments fall to convince men, the character for rectifude, truthfulness and honesty which I have builded in the sixty-one years of my life would at last be my bulwark. Men who have always been clean and honorable do not suddenly become liars and hypocrites at 61 without any necessity. "Later in this session it is my purpose to devote some time to bringing Theodore Roosevelt face to face with his true self and let the people of the United States see what character of man they have been bowing down to. For the present I content myself with applying to him this quotation from Spenser's 'Faerie Queene:" "He ranges throughout the whole world, neither is there any that can restrain him. Of late he has grown especially presumptuous and pestilent, barking at and biting all alike whether they be blameworthy or innocent. None are free from his attacks. He spares neither the learned wit nor the gentle poet, but rends and tears without regard of person, reason or time." Vice President Suppressed Applause.

When Mr. Tillman concluded his remarks there was no further outbreak of applause, the vice president having admonished the occupants of the galleries against making such demonstrations. Mr. Tillman was congratulated by a number of Democratic senators.

Not long after he had concluded his speech Senator Tillman received a cafrom a London newspaper asking him to express in fifty words his opinion of President Roosevelt and saying that if he would do so the tolls would be paid at the other end. The senator declined to comply with the request.
