

LOUISIANA wants sugar and rice protected, but does not vote the Republican ticket. It expects Republican success and let's it go at that.

PITTSBURG grafters are getting their deserts these days. W. W. Ramsey, former bank president, and councilman John F. Klein have been convicted, and the same two, together with councilman Wm. Brand and J. C. Wasson, charged jointly with conspiracy, are now on trial. There is still a large number to be tried.

"DIXIE," words and music, was written by an Ohio man, Dan Emmet, who died in that state a few years ago at an advanced age. Emmet was a burnt-cork minstrel and da-bud-d "Dixie" to serve as a walk-around at the end of the programme. It is a good tune for general purposes and, in its origin, not sectional at all.

The presence of a cat, to those who care for him, is tranquillizing and a mental restorative. A cat asleep in the most comfortable chair in the room or drowsing on the window seat suggests reposefulness as almost nothing else can do. A cat's purr spells profound contentment, and is the synonym of perfect peace. No other domestic animal has such a soft purr to stroke. It is a weakness in a human to care for a cat, the cat lover errs in the excellent company of the good and great of all ages.—Philadelphia Ledger.

It is amusing to read the anonymous communication in the city papers, with reference to the "disturbance in regard to the lock system" at Panama. A blind man could see the "letters" are ready-made, and of a "stock" order, like the poster paper used by barn-storming theatrical aggregations. Strong railroad interests have opposed the construction of the canal from the outset, and still oppose it, the opposition taking the form of argument against the lock system, which the engineers consider the only practical one.—Blizzard.

It is a pleasure to note the rapid change to protection and high tariff ideas of many hitherto free trade advocates in these latter days. A petition to Congress protesting against the removal of the tariff on oil circulated in this borough last week received many signatures, among which were those of men who have all their lives advocated free trade of the rank sort. It makes a heap of difference whose ox is gored after all. But what does principle amount to anyway when it's your own hide that's liable to be hung on the fence? Amusing isn't it, to see one of these old dyed-in-wool fellows run for cover when there's a storm brewing?

MEMBERS of the Grand Army of the Republic of the Department of Pennsylvania and old soldiers who are not members of the organization are dying at a rate that has not been anticipated. Reports which are being compiled by the assistant adjutant general of the Grand Army tell the story forcibly of the passing away of the men who followed Grant, Sherman and Sheridan during the four years of strife. For the six months ending June 30, 1908, there were 644 deaths of members of the Grand Army and the adjutant general says the six months ending Dec. 30, 1908, show a greater mortality of an average of more than three deaths a day from the ranks of the organization.

This election held on the 19th inst will probably be the last "spring" election that will be held in Pennsylvania. An amendment to the State Constitution to abolish the election of municipal officers in the winter is about to be approved for the second time in the Legislature now in session and it will go before the people next November. As there is practically no opposition to the amendment, it will undoubtedly be endorsed by a large majority of voters and it will end the "spring" election. Henceforth there will be but one election each year, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. National, state, and county officers will be elected in the even numbered years and city, borough and township officers in the odd numbered years. Abolition of the February election will also abolish the January primaries and the winter registration of voters.

ONE of our exchanges very aptly remarks: The first question a man asks when he sees a girl flirting is whether she is respectable or not; it raises a doubt at once. This being the case no modest girl can afford to indulge in the pastime. When the down is brushed from a peach its beauty is so marred that it can never be restored, and when a young girl throws lightly aside that sweet and modest reserve so becoming to a maiden and which so elevates her and enables her to command the respect of all, she loses the great charm and becomes rather cheap and common, to use no rash terms. Flirting may seem to the giddy and thoughtless girl wonderfully amusing and she may get the idea that she is fascinating but it is a most degrading thing and should be frowned upon by every young lady who has an ambition to become a worthy and charming young woman.

SPECULATION as to the make-up of President-elect Taft's cabinet is growing less interesting as the date for his inauguration draws nearer, for it is a pretty well established fact that all the appointments, with the possible exception of secretary of the treasury, have been decided upon and will be as follows: Secretary of State—Philander C. Knox, of Pennsylvania. Attorney General—George W. Wickersham, of New York. Secretary of War—J. M. Dickinson, of Tennessee. Secretary of the Navy—George Von L. Meyer, of Massachusetts. Secretary of Commerce and Labor—Charles Nagell, of Missouri. Secretary of the Interior—R. A. Ballinger, of Washington. Postmaster General—Frank H. Hitchcock, of Massachusetts. Secretary of Agriculture—James Wilson, of Iowa. Franklin McVeigh and Myron T. Herick are two of the men under consideration for the treasury portfolio.

Futile to Attempt Trout Propagation.

In the Sheffield Observer of last week is a well written article on the early days and settlement of the country about Sheffield, by the "Son of a Pioneer," in which the following paragraph, so true to the facts, occurs: "Wild deer came into the opening and meat could be obtained at any time. The larger sized brook trout had their home in the Tionesta creek and could be obtained whenever wanted—it only required a few minutes time fishing to fill the basket. Recollection of this time, no doubt, impel men to the futile attempt now to restock the streams of this state with trout by pouring trout fry into the brooks. The object would be attained just as soon by pouring them into the handiest cesspools. Sure, there is some slight evidence of trout life in the brooks—but they were once spawning places of trout—in the large streams, because there is no creature more inclined to eat its kind than trout, and of necessity they must have room to escape being devoured by the larger fish if we ever hope to have them again in any considerable amount. One fair sized trout in a pool will devour all the small fish and fry that comes in. What are the environments necessary for maintaining life in brook trout? First, pure water; second shade. The first, except in brooks, is not attainable. What about shade? There is very little evidence of trout life in streams subject to the direct rays of the sun. It seems the proper thing to pour in fry and prohibit catching trout less than six inches in length. Result is that the six inch fish devour the fry. There might be some slight value derived from the fry if all fish large enough to bite a hook were caught out of the brooks, giving the fry a chance to live."

Indian Names.

Judge Irwin of this place, whose familiarity with such subjects as the Indian traditions and history of this section, and whose knowledge of the lore of the ancients is perhaps not equaled by any other person now living, writes this note of correction to the Oil City Derrick:

"I notice in the Derrick of to-day quite an able article under the heading "Historical Names," but some errors have crept into the same. The writer deprecates very properly the fact that so many Indian names have been ignored in the naming of our states, counties, cities, towns and streams, and as a consequence "the country, as a whole, has lost much of the poetical and picturesque that might have been preserved," etc. All this is true and it is a matter of regret to the student of history of our beloved state that so many towns, rivers and landmarks bear names of dukes and lords of the parent country, instead of the beautiful names the aborigines have given them long before "the smoke of the white man's cabin rose among the trees." The article says: "Seven counties in Pennsylvania bear Indian names—Delaware, Indiana, Lycoming, Tioga, Susquehanna, Venango and Wyoming." This is true of all except the first named, for Delaware is not, and never was, an Indian name, but was named from Lord Delaware, who, by the way, gave the name to the river, and the tribe of Indians that inhabited its banks; but that tribe ignored the name and called themselves "Leni Lenapes," meaning "the father of nations." Further proof of this is that both Schoolcraft and Catlin, the greatest authorities on the North American Indians, both say that the letter "R" is unknown in any Indian vernacular or tongue and that any name that carries that letter is a corruption by the whites and illustrates it by such names as Niagara, Delaware, Arkansas, etc., which are all pronounced alterations of Indian names, while Delaware is entirely factitious. Yes, it is true that there are seven counties bearing Indian names. From the above list we will expunge Delaware and substitute Juniata, "the blue Juniata," which figures in our early history and in song. I likewise file exceptions to the statement that but four county seats bear Indian names, namely, "Kittanning, Tunkhannock, Towanda and Indiana." How about Tionesta? It is strange that this should have been overlooked, but this is a pure Indian name of which its citizens are proud."

Neighborhood Notes.

Clarion is preparing for an "old home week" to begin June 20. Pennsylvania has over 16,000 insane inmates in the institutions of the state, and each year adds another 700 men and women to the roll. G. E. Richards of Clarendon who travels for the Shreve's Chair Company, of Union City is ill with small pox. It is thought that he contracted the disease while in Ohio. Perry D. Clark, Esq., one of Warren's talented lawyers and most popular citizens, died from the effects of an operation for appendicitis on Thursday last. He was aged 68 years, and is survived by his wife. Wednesday of last week Miss Jennie Bainbridge, a most estimable young lady of Kane, was so badly injured by being struck by a small boy coaster on the sidewalk that she died a few hours afterward, having never regained consciousness. The heavy sleet storm of last week is reported to have caused great damage throughout the Chautauque grape belt. Thousands of vines were broken down. Acres of peach orchards along the lake shores are also said to be totally destroyed. Detective Darius Magee of Warren is engaged in investigating the alleged suspicious circumstances surrounding the death of Charles McKane at Rogertown. Mr. Magee has been at Fredonia and other points looking after clues concerning the case, and no stone will be left unturned to sift the matter to the bottom. McKane's death was at first supposed to be a case of suicide.

Porkey.

Jan. Welsh was a business visitor in Sheffield, Monday. Pat Cronin of Clarendon, superintendent of the telephone lines for the National Transit Co., was in town Wednesday looking after the lines after the sleet storm. Robert Downey, wife and two sons, have been visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Louise King, in Sugar Grove, the past week. Mr. Downey and his family expect to leave for their home in Coaloga, Cal., the first of March. Thomas Miller had a very narrow escape from drowning Sunday when returning from church. The roads being very muddy, a number of people decided to cross the railroad bridge at Minister and come down the track to Porkey. Some cars had been placed on the bridge and Mr. Miller caught hold of a board which he supposed was solid on the drop. The board gave way, letting him drop into the dam. He had come up the second time when Frank Littlefield made his way to him and assisted him in getting to the shore. A number of people of town attended meeting at Hastings, Sunday evening. Ed Gillespie returned to his work at Bluejay, Monday morning. Prayer meeting will be held at Mr. and Mrs. Frank Littlefield's, Thursday evening. Mr. Wilcox has gone to Coal Hill to work. Mr. W. expects to move his family there in the near future.

A Common Cold.

We claim that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and scarlet fever, for of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of the germs of these diseases, that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a good expectorant cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so universally successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting these dangerous diseases. For sale by Dunn & Fulton.

Titusville, Pa., March 31, 1909.

For twenty years I suffered with bleeding and itching piles, at times was confined to the house for more than a month. Two years ago I began using E. K. Thompson's San-Cura Ointment, and one 50-cent bottle made a firm and permanent cure and have not been troubled since. I can freely recommend San-Cura to any suffering humanity. I am glad to give this testimony and will guarantee a cure if used as directed. I have had perfect health for 5 years. REV. W. F. GILBERT, Pleasantville, Pa. Nov., 1908.

A SOLDIER OF 1861-63.

Have Been in Perfect Health 7 Years. Several years ago I was taken with kidney and bladder disease and suffered terrible pain, besides losing control of the action of my kidneys and bladder. I was given up by the doctors as incurable and fully expected death would relieve my sufferings. A friend recommended Thompson's Barossa and I began taking it. At first I could see little change, but after taking about eight bottles of Barossa I began to get better. I continued to use it and today am entirely cured. I am an old resident of this county and am well known in this section, and consider myself a walking advertisement of your truly wonderful medicine, Thompson's Barossa. NATHAN BURDICK. Two years ago my daughter stepped on a needle, breaking it off in the ball of the foot, which swelled up very painfully swelling to the knee. The doctor at Go-wanda lanced the foot, but was unable to find the needle. The X ray was applied, and we could see the needle. We then applied San-Cura Ointment, thick as a poultice, and after four applications the needle made its appearance, (just as Mr. Thompson said it would) and was taken out to the great relief of my daughter, and all the family, as she had suffered a great deal, and every step pained her.
