Original Pattern Hats

Reduced Nearly Half.

Possibly this is millinery news for which you have been waiting. If so, this is particularly interesting. It will have your special notice whatever be the case.

Most of the Pattern Hats which remain from our opening display now marked to sell at practically half.

There are some 30 or 40 of these, the original prices being from $15 to $50.

There are also special displays here and special values in pretty Trimmed Hats for Children and Misses.

We want you to know just how well we can do for the young folks.

Very Attractive Specials in Little Tots' Coats and Dresses.

The proper outfitting of the younger members of the family demands as much attention as that of the grown-ups, and is even more interesting, especially to the parents.

We would suggest that they permit us to help them; there are many beautiful and appropriate Dresses, Bonnets, Coats and other accessories to be found in the Infants' Department of our store—a stock that is as comprehensive as can be found anywhere—from which you can make your selections and feel that your money will go further here than elsewhere.

Free.

A life size Crayon Portrait with every purchase of $1 or over. Ask for a coupon. We do our work right in the store. We have no agents outside. The work is lasting and satisfactory.

CAREFUL WORK ON THE TARIFF

Scientific Skill and Accuracy Marks Progress Republican Senators Are Making

OLD LINES BEING WIPED OUT

Tariff Problem Loses Many of Its Perplexities — Southern Senators Join With Those From Pennsylvania in Opposing Insurgents From the West.

Progress is being made daily in the construction of the tariff bill the members of the United States Senate are industriously working on. The work goes ahead slowly, but is marked with exceeding care. There are some who grumble because better speed is not made, but these seem to overlook the fact that to a very considerable degree the vital interests of the nation are involved in this revision of the tariff laws and that every step taken in the contemplated legislation should be measured with scientific skill and accuracy. The Republican party, safely in the majority in the Senate, is pledged to give to the nation reform tariff legislation and such legislation is a positive certainty whether it comes in a day, a week or a month.

Just now the Republicans and the Democrats are closer together on the tariff question than they have ever been before, and that promises well for the tariff bill. Protection is one of the fundamental principles of the Republican party, but more so now than ever before Democrats of prominence and standing in the Senate are embracing this Republican principle, as evidenced by the speeches many of them have made and the votes they have cast in the past ten days, and the chances are largely that this vital question will in the future be lifted out of politics and the doctrine of tariff protection along the lines of which many fierce political battles have been fought and invariably won by the Republicans, become a fixed principle with both the great political parties.

It is, therefore, wise and abundantly necessary that the tariff bill now in process of construction should be along lines marked out by the master builders who are experts in matters of taxation and revenue raising—men who are capable, conscientious and who understand the country's needs. Time is of course material, but it is by no means the all-important factor, and the country is adjusting itself with absolute confidence that the tariff bill when it finally becomes a law will fully justify whatever delay there has been in its consideration and preparation, and will meet all the demands of industries and interests in which capital and labor are equally and deeply concerned.

After all is said and done the tariff is not a perplexing problem. The tariff system is not entirely confusing. Many have proven themselves abundantly capable in mastering the intricacies of the whole system. There is not an industry in America where men are not to be found, even among the unskilled workmen, who thoroughly understand the tariff system in its entirety. It is just the very exact spot upon which the tariff burdens and benefits are to bear which requires the skill of the statesmen. There must be no unequal burdens. There must be no unjust benefits. That is why there is delay in framing tariff legislation. That is why the best minds of the nation are now industriously bending their energies in preparing for the country what the country most needs in the way of tariff legislation. That is why Senators Boies Penrose and George T. Oliver are standing with other eastern Republican senators against several Republican senators from the west in drafting the various schedules of the bill. That is why several Democratic senators from the south are standing with Senators Penrose and Oliver in the struggle against Republican and Democratic senators from other sections of the country.

Senator Penrose, probably more than any other man in Congress, is new and has been standing firmly and faithfully for equal and exact protection for American industries and American labor. Senator Penrose very properly contends that America is far ahead of any other nation in the world as a wealth producer. It is well known that the position of our country as a wealth producer is due to our protective system. The greatest asset of this nation, Senator Penrose contends, is its employed men, and its greatest liability its unemployed men. The simple, plain purpose of the tariff is to protect the nation's asset and to reduce its liabilities. Students of governmental problems argue that a protective tariff, comprehending a sensible system of taxation, is the best possible way to protect both capital and labor. Both must be protected to get the best results from either for the benefit of the government as a whole. The protection required must, in the nature of things, come through a system of taxation. The enormous expenses of the government must be provided for by taxation and the very principle of taxation is for the benefit of the whole people. No argument in favor of reducing taxation will stand so long as the government progresses. Insufficiency of funds is the one great problem which confronts every legislative body. That simply means insufficient taxation, and insufficient taxation means governmental stagnation and lack of progress.

Governor Edwin S. Stuart has been forced to the painful duty of reducing the recent legislative appropriations some $20,000,000. Charitable institutions, hospitals and homes were forced to suffer to the extent of the governor's pruning. Many other pieces of legislation, generally agreed to be good, were vetoed by Governor Stuart on account of the shortage of funds, and this shortage was the direct result of insufficient taxation.

Let the free trader argue, therefore, that the tariff is a tax. That argument is without foundation and without weight because if the tax is just and laid for the express purpose of raising revenue the whole country profits and no argument against a just system of taxation will stand whether the tariff be a tax or the tax be a tariff.

One of the loftiest charges made against the tariff is that it creates and fosters trusts. The fact is that the air of the whole country was filled with profound arguments against the tariff long before trusts were known to this country. Years ago Andrew Carnegie, the very head and heart of the great steel trust, declared for free trade. In fact ever since its creation the steel trust has been decidedly indifferent as to whether this country should or should not have a protective tariff. The great oil trust can in no way be connected with the tariff, but the thousands upon thousands of employees in these two great trusts are decidedly in favor of a tariff which will protect them in their determination to secure fair wages for a fair day's work.

What the country wants now and what it is certain of getting within a very short time is a continuation of a protective tariff and that tariff must be based upon an equal and an exact system of taxation.

The Democratic state convention to nominate candidates for justice of the supreme court, auditor general and state treasurer will be held some time in August. This was informally decided on at a meeting of the state executive committee held in Harrisburg recently, but the selection of a date was left to the new executive committee which is to be named at the meeting of the state central committee in Harrisburg July 21.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder and stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the affected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by Dunn & Fulton.

REMARKABLE.

About six weeks ago a swelling came in my groin 2½ inches from my navel about the size of a half lemon very painful and said to be caused by blood poison. I doctored about six weeks, and was getting worse, when Mr. Brown told me about San-Cura Ointment. I applied it as a poultice, changing morning and night, removing all pain at once. In two days it broke, discharging pus. I then changed it once a day until it was perfectly healed. I recommend San-Cura Ointment as the best poultice I ever used. It removes pain and all pus, keeping a sore moist and soft.

Biliousness and Constipation.
For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made me miserable for me. My appetite failed me, I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally. —Mrs. Rosa Fort, Birmingham, Ala. SUMMER TRIPS AFAR AND NEAR.

Summer days are coming fast. Already vacation days are being discussed in the home and in the office, and in a few weeks the annual exodus to country, seashore and mountain will have begun.

America abounds with delightful summering places, in valley, on mountain and beside the sea—thousands of resorts whither wend the pilgrims in search of pleasure and recreation.

Pennsylvania Railroad ticket agents now have on sale excursion tickets to the greater number of these resorts; by the first week in June there will be about eight hundred points covered by Pennsylvania Railroad summer excursion tickets.

From the rock-bound bays of Newfoundland to the sunny slopes of the Virginia shores; from the White Mountains of New Hampshire to the Cumberland Mountains of Tennessee; along the forty beaches of New Jersey; even to the far coast of the Pacific Ocean, these summer resorts stand ready to entertain the transient or all-summer guest.

Any Pennsylvania Railroad Ticket Agent will cheerfully give information concerning routes and fares to these resorts, enabling summer pilgrims to plan their outing at a minimum of time and cost.

Information may also be secured by addressing Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia; C. Studds, D. P. A., 265 Fifth Avenue, New York City; Wm. This Young Man could not save money

A young man who had never been able to save money, tried the experiment of paying all bills by check and drawing checks for personal expenses.

He found at first that he was spending too much money for personal purposes. He decided to be more careful and to watch every expenditure. In one year he saved over two hundred dollars, a thing he had never before thought possible.

To a greater or less extent every young man can do the same by opening a checking account with this bank.
