It is too well known to require any brass band ideas or glorified exaggerations. Suffice it to say that it is a sale for cash of the best merchandise of the season, no "heirlooms" enter into this sale. Remember the dates and remember that during this sale goods will not be sold on credit or on approval. The reductions on regular stock follow. Besides these there are many McCuen Company specials, bargains too well known to cause comment.

FEW VOTES TO SPARE

House Adopts Conferees' Report by Majority of Only 12.

Twenty Republicans Voted Against Adopting the Report and Two Democrats, Both From Louisiana, Voted For Adoption—Previously a Tactical Motion by Mr. Payne to Recommend Was Defeated by Five Votes.

The tariff conferees' report was adopted by the house Saturday night by the narrow margin of twelve votes, after an eleven-hour session of speech-making in sweltering and oppressive heat. The vote was 195 to 183.

Twenty Republicans voted against adopting the report and two Democrats, Bronsard and Estopinal, both of Louisiana, voted for adoption.

The Republicans voting against the report were: Carey and Davis (Minn.); Gronna (N. D.); Haugen and Hubbard (Ia.); Keifer (O.); Kendall (Ia.); Leyrett (Wis.); Lumbergh (Minn.); Mann (Ill.); Miller (Minn.); Murdock (Kan.); Nelson (Wis.); Nye (Minn.); Poindexter (Wash.); Southwick (N. Y.); Stenerson (Minn.); Stevens (Minn.); Veststead (Minn.); and Woods (Ia.).

Loud applause from the Republicans marked the announcement of the result of the vote, and Chairman Payne was immediately surrounded by congratulatory friends.

The vote on the adoption of the report followed a vote on a motion by Mr. Payne to recommend the report. This was defeated by the narrow margin of five votes, the rollcall standing, nays 191, ayes 186.

DELAY IN THE SENATE

Many Members Object to Way Leather Schedule Was Made Up.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Beginning its consideration of the conference report on the tariff bill by a tedious reading of that document, which was insisted upon by senators who proposed to see that undue haste is not exercised in the final passage of the measure, the senate dragged along during nearly seven hours without accomplishing any important result.

Numerous conferences were held among senators on both sides of the chamber for the purpose of advancing or hindering the final passage of the bill. The developments which have occurred in respect to the framing of the leather schedule in conference called forth much interest. Senators spent much time in discussing the language and effect of that schedule.

The debate on the conference report

CONDUCT IN ASYLUM

Dr. Baker Described Thaw's Acts as Silly and Pompous.

Dr. Baker's Testimony Was Read From His Case Book and Described Thaw's Conduct, Both Normal and Queer, on Many Occasions From Feb. 1, 1908, the Date of His Commitment, Until June 25 of the Present Year.

White Plains, Aug. 3.—How Harry K. Thaw conducted himself at the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane, a phase of his life not gone into before, was described by Dr. Amos B. Baker, first assistant physician of the institution, the only witness called by District Attorney Jerome at the continuation of the hearing by which Thaw hopes to obtain his release. Aside from his testimony, a two-foot stack of canvas-bound books, labelled "The People vs. Harry K. Thaw"—records of the murder trials—furnished all the evidence introduced by Mr. Jerome.

Mother's Testimony Used Against Him

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, as she sat in court, saw Mr. Jerome introduce against her son testimony she had willingly given heretofore to save his life. It was seized upon by the state to prove him insane. It included her accounts of his nervous temperament as a child, materially valuable to Thaw when he was in danger of the electric chair but now menacing to his hope of proving himself a sane man. One thing quoted by the district attorney was her statement concerning Harry Thaw, "that his body was too puny for his head, and before and after the measles he had St. Vitus' dance."

Dr. Baker's testimony was read by himself from his "case book" and described Thaw's conduct, both normal and queer, on many occasions from Feb. 1, 1908, the date of his commitment, until June 25 of the present year.

While some of these notes describe the patient's acts as "silly" and while the witness said that in his belief Thaw was irrational now, Thaw's attorney made him admit that during the first three months of the patient's stay at Matteawan he observed no signs of paranoia. After that Thaw, by his counsel's advice, refused to let himself be examined or to answer questions asked by the hospital physicians.

When Thaw reached Matteawan on the day the jury acquitted him of the murder of Stanford White on the ground of insanity, almost his first

WRIGHTS MEET ALL TESTS

Their Aeroplane Carried a Passenger In 10-Mile Cross Country Flight.

Orville Wright last week attained the zenith of hard-earned success. In a ten-mile cross-country flight in the aeroplane built by himself and his elder brother, Wilbur, and accompanied by Lieutenant Benjamin D. Foulois, an intrepid officer of the army signal corps, he not only surpassed the speed requirements of his contract with the United States government but accomplished the most difficult and daring flight ever planned for a heavier-than-air flying machine. Incidentally, he broke all speed records over a measured course.

Wright's speed was more than 42 miles an hour. He made the ten-mile flight in 14 minutes and 42 seconds, including more than twenty seconds required for the turn beyond the line at Shuter hill, the southern end of the course. He attained a height in crossing the valley of Four Mile run of nearly 500 feet, and the average altitude of his practically level course was about 200 feet.

Like a giant bird the machine swept unswervingly straight to the south, passing over the diverse and heavily wooded country in the distance until it became a mere speck above the horizon.

Those who had glasses saw the aeroplane turn, first to the left, then to the right, above Shuter hill.

Suddenly the speck was lost to view, and as the seconds passed, a silence grew upon the crowd, a silence that spoke of deep concern. Wilbur Wright, standing with levelled glasses beside his sister, strained his gaze in effort to catch sight of the aeroplane when it should rise again above the skyline. Seconds seemed minutes, and as the interval became seemingly alarming, his agitation was evident.

Suddenly the speck came in sight again, over the distant hill. A cry swept over the watching crowd.

"There it is," everybody said and the sigh of relief was plainly audible.

Onward the machine came, seemingly swerved from its course by a westerly breeze. Soon the aerial navigators were home again over the drill ground, flying very low. Orville steered straight across the field, and at a height of about twenty feet, swung round again to the southward, and landed easily far down the field. The task was done, and in triumph, cheer upon cheer welcomed the return.

Police Machine Turns Turtle, Crushing Victim on Sidewalk.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 3.—Miss Lydia Denhard, aged 39 years, died in a hospital here from injuries received Sunday night when an electric automobile driven by Police Sergeant Marion F. Cressman turned turtle.

Cressman was assisting in inspecting the fire alarm system, when the machine got beyond his control and dashed into an iron post, overturning on Miss Denhard, who was on the sidewalk.

WOMAN SUPERINTENDENT

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young Appointed Head of Chicago's School System.

The superintendency of Chicago's great school system has been given into the hands of a woman for the first time in its history. Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, principal of the Chicago normal school, and an educator of national reputation, was chosen by the newly organized board of education as head of the public schools.

Mrs. Young's selection followed a struggle for the office which has been going on since the resignation of Edwin G. Cooley several months ago. Many educators from other cities have been urged by their friends for the position, but the board decided to appoint a Chicago man or woman.

Mrs. Young is 64 years old and was born in Buffalo, N. Y. She has been teaching since 1862. She was district superintendent of schools for Chicago from 1867 to 1899 and professor of education at the University of Chicago from 1899 to 1905. She is the author of several books on educational subjects.

$100,000 IN SECURITIES

Found Hidden in House of an Eccentric Maiden Recluse.

More than $100,000 securities, bank notes and gold, has been found hidden in the house of Miss Elizabeth Dieffendorf, the eccentric recluse who died at Fort Plain, N. Y. on Saturday of last week, leaving an estate estimated to be worth $1,000,000. The rear yard is to be plowed and the house torn down if further search promises returns.

Many of the bonds found had run to maturity but still lay untouched under a loose board, or tucked beneath a carpet or sewed into the lining of a dress that had not been worn for years.

One nest egg was found in a bonnet fashionable in days before the civil war, another in the bustle of a hoop skirt of the same period.

"Oleomargarine used here" must be printed plainly and conspicuously on all bills-of-fare in those restaurants throughout the state which serve it as substitute for butter. Lunch carts, boarding houses and other eating places which do not rise to the dignity of a menu card, must post signs in places where they can be easily seen and read, which shall bear the words "Oleomargarine used here" in letters at least two inches in length and so printed as to be easily read by the boarders.
