ZELAYA'S DESPOTISM

Father of Leroy Cannon Appeals to Government For Vengeance.

Americans From Nicaragua Recently Visited in Harrisburg and Told of Some of the Brutality With Which Leroy Cannon Had Been Treated by Some of Zelaya's Soldiers—Informants Were Compelled to Leave Nicaragua.
David K. Cannon of Harrisburg, Pa., the father of Leroy Cannon, who was executed in Nicaragua for alleged complicity in the recent revolution there, declares he is satisfied there is nothing in the story that his son had confessed orally or by letter to having been a party to a revolutionary dynamite plot.
The Cannons will appeal to the United States government to avenge the killing of their boy. Mr. Cannon will take up the matter with Congressman Olmsted.
Mr. and Mrs. Poltsbach, who formerly lived in Nicaragua and knew Cannon well there, recently visited the Cannons and told of some of the brutality with which the Harrisburg boy had been treated. Mr. and Mrs. Poltsbach were at Cannon's house one day and were talking with Mr. Cannon when of a sudden seven of Zelaya's soldiers entered the room, each armed with a rifle. Without any more ado they clubbed their rifles and began to beat Cannon.
After the seven of them had terribly battered Cannon, they left, saying that he had been suspected of sympathizing with the revolutionists and that their treatment was a warning.
The Poltsbachs, who were former residents of the United States, took up the matter with the United States consular representative and because of their activities there they were subjected to persecution by the Nicaraguan authorities and were finally compelled to leave the country. They are now in Guatemala.

USE OF OXYGEN HELMETS

Aided Greatly in Rescue of the Entombed Cherry Miners.
It is believed by government officials at Washington that the 21 miners who were saved from death in the St. Paul coal mine at Cherry, Ill., owe their lives to the work of the government's rescue corps connected with the United States geological survey. These men, who are stationed at Pittsburgh, where the survey has an experimental station for investigating causes of mine disasters, were rushed to Cherry as soon as word was received of the catastrophe.
Each member of the corps had been trained in the use of what is known as the oxygen helmet, an apparatus that permits artificial breathing in the presence of deadly gases. Equipped with such helmets, the government's life savers were able to enter the shaft of the burning mine and fight the fire at close range.
Officials said that had the methods that have been in use in the past been employed there the mine shaft would have smothered for want of oxygen. This of course would have meant a delay sufficient to have caused the death of every man under ground.
Geological survey officials said that the ability of the government rescue corps to enter the mine, filled as it was with smoke and gas, saved at least several days time in reaching the entombed men.

STANDARD'S DISSOLUTION

Comment of M. E. Elliott, General Counsel For the Company.
Outlawed by decree of United States circuit court at St. Paul, the Standard Oil company was ordered to dissolve within thirty days. Stocks broke sharply on the court decision against Standard Oil.
M. E. Elliott, general counsel for the Standard Oil company, in commenting upon the dissolution decision handed down on Saturday by the circuit court in St. Louis said:
"I have not yet read the full text of the decision and cannot, therefore, comment at length upon the subject. I have telegraphed for a copy of the decision and when I receive it I may have something to say. In the meantime I will say that the Standard Oil company is glad that the case has been disposed of by the circuit court. It will promptly take an appeal to the supreme court and will abide by whatever decision may be made by this, the highest tribunal in the country."
Fatally Bitten by Pet Black Bear.
Mrs. Martha Covalt of Wetzel county is dying at the Glendale hospital in Wheeling, W. Va., from wounds received in an encounter with a pet black bear. The animal literally bit her to pieces. Neighbors drove the bear away with clubs. There are no hopes for her recovery. The bear had been captured in the mountains.
Senator Culom's 80th Birthday.
Washington, Nov. 23.—Uncle Shelby M. Culom, senior senator from Illinois, was 80 years old or 80 years young yesterday and he celebrated in modest fashion by remaining at home most of the time.

DECLINE IN BIRTH-RATE

Theoretically, There Will Be No Births in 150 Years if Present Ratio Continues.

If the present decline in the birth-rate should continue for a century and a half there would be no more births at that time, said Professor Walter F. Wilcox, the Cornell statistician, in a lecture at Ithaca. As no one believes that mankind will become immortal, however, no one believes that births will stop. He warned against the volitional control of the births by the better classes. He said:
"There has been an increase of perhaps five hundred million in the earth's population since 1750. This increase was not due to an increased birth-rate but rather to the decreased death-rate, secured by the progress of science and of government. Under earlier conditions famine, pestilence or war killed many persons and at the same time prevented many births.
"During the last half century this reciprocal relation has given place to a decrease in both death-rates and birth-rates. The decline of the birth-rate in the United States has probably been as rapid as in any country of Europe. This sharp decrease was necessary in order to grip firmly and retain the benefits secured by the decline in the death-rate.
"It is not the decreased birth-rate that is disturbing but rather the fact that the decrease is greater among the classes whose children would probably inherit most social worth and capacity for leadership. Thus, figures from Harvard college indicate that each 100 graduates produce in the next generation only 73 sons. The native American population, at least in New England and New York, loses more by death than it gains by births."

RICHARD W. GILDER DEAD

Editor of The Century Had Been Suffering Since Nov. 3.

Richard Watson Gilder died Thursday evening at the residence of Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer, 2 West Tenth street, New York, where he and Mrs. Gilder had been staying for the past few days. He was suffering from angina pectoris, or rheumatism of the heart, with which he was first attacked on the evening of Nov. 3, while he was delivering a lecture in Orange, N. J.
That night Mr. Gilder was able to get as far as the ferry house in Jersey City, where he was compelled to telephone New York for his son Rodman, who went to Jersey City with Dr. J. H. Hodgson and brought Mr. Gilder to New York. At first it was thought Mr. Gilder was suffering from indigestion but the doctors soon learned otherwise.
His condition became better and last Monday he and Mrs. Gilder went to stay at Mrs. Van Rensselaer's owing to some necessary alteration in their apartments.

HIS VERTEBRAE BROKEN

New Jersey Boy Met Death in Samr Way as Did Cadet Byrne.

Snapping his vertebrae much the same as Cadet Byrne, Albert P. Wibralske, the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wibralske of West Orange, died in the Orange Memorial hospital three hours after he had been admitted to the institution. Wibralske was playing right halfback for West Orange high school on the Witkesing oval of the Essex county park grounds, against the Trinity Chapel team of New York, when the fatal accident occurred.
Young Wibralske on a second down rushed the ball to the thirty-yard line of the opponents' goal when he was tackled low, falling head first, his head doubling under his chest and causing the neck to be broken. The unconscious form was picked up and hurried to the office of Dr. Frank W. Lockwood who ordered him immediately removed to the hospital, where the boy died without regaining consciousness.

TAX ON OLEOMARGARINE

Farmers Organizing to Prevent Any Change in Existing Law.

The dairymen of New York state are combining to fight at the next congress all efforts on the part of the manufacturers of oleomargarine to secure legislation which will make it possible for them to palm off their product for genuine butter.
Professor H. H. Wing, president of the New York State Dairyman's association, has sent out letters to the farmers in which it is stated that a determined effort will be made at the coming session of congress to modify existing laws in regard to the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine and to remove the tax of 10 cents per pound now imposed on colored oleomargarine.
In order to prevent this Mr. Wing requests all to whom the notice is sent to use their best efforts with the members of congress from this state to prevent any change in existing laws regarding the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine. Mr. Wing adds:
"If each person in this state interested would contribute one cent for each cow that he owns to this cause, the committee will have ample funds for this work."
The body of Frank De Rosa, 5 years old, who had been missing since Nov. 4, was found wedged in a chimney at No. 322 East Sixty-third street, New York.

DEAD ONLY 48 HOURS

Said Coroner of the 38 Bodies Found in Second Level.

More Than 100 of the Miners Expected to Be Found Alive in the Third Vein—Fresh Air Has Been Freely Circulating Through This Level. One of the Miners Found in the Second Level Was at First Thought to Be Alive.
Cherry Ill., Nov. 23.—Thirty-eight miners' dead bodies lying face downward were discovered late yesterday in the last end of the second level of the St. Paul mine, who the coroner stated, after examination, had been dead less than 48 hours. Fire was raging in the vicinity. They had evidently died from the poisonous gases in the colliery, after a desperate fight for life.
The rescuers on the third vein late made desperate attempts to rescue more than 100 entombed miners believed to be alive in one of its furthermost pockets.
One of the miners discovered in the second level east end was thought to be alive and his body was hurried to the hospital, where the physician declared he had been dead several hours.
Rescuers Tried to Reach Last Level.
Until last night no attempt has been made to enter the third vein of the mine. The discovery of the bodies in the second level, together with an emphatic protest from the United Mine Workers of Illinois against the unwarranted delay, caused the mining inspectors to rush a party of rescuers into the lowest level. According to the mine officials' estimates there are more than 150 miners yet unaccounted for.
More than 100 of the miners are expected to be found alive in the lower vein. While it is known that there has stood several feet deep in the third vein since the disaster, it is said there is an overcast where hundreds of entombed miners could live high and dry. Fresh air has been freely circulating through this vein. The experts admitted the likelihood of saving more of the imprisoned miners.
Captains Latimer and Hall, in command of the troops at the collieries, wired Governor Deneen regarding the feasibility of placing the town under martial law, explaining that under martial law the rescue work would be greatly facilitated. The governor decided not to issue such an order at present. There has been much discussion over the way in which the rescue party work has been conducted, and experienced miners are censuring the state inspectors in charge.
"Too Many Bosses."
"I hope they will hurry the work and rescue those miners if they are still alive, but there have been too many bosses. That is the trouble." Thus spoke Captain Latimer of the state troops, discussing the proposition of taking control of the situation from the sheriff.

Bravery Puts Youth in Hospital With Fractured Skull.

Pittsburg, Nov. 23.—Clarence A. Riley, aged 17, of 1208 River avenue, Northside, received probably fatal injuries by plunging from the top of a two-and-a-half-story house near his home. He landed on his head, sustaining a fractured skull. He was removed to the Allegheny general hospital, where the trephining was performed. There is little hope for his recovery.
With companions young Riley had been playing "follow the leader." The leader climbed to the top of the house, leaped across a narrow alleyway and dared Riley to follow. Riley refused to take the "dare." He slipped as he was about to make the leap. Firemen from Engine company No. 48 sent him to the hospital.

Tokio, Nov. 23.—The opening of a railroad to Kagoshima on Kishuu, the most southerly island of Japan, completes a grand trunk line of about 2,000 miles running the whole length of the country from Hokkaido on the northeast to Kishuu on the southwest. It is all rail except for ferries between Aomori and Shimoda and between Aomori and Hakodate.
The time between Tokio and Kagoshima is now 46 hours, as against 52 days required in feudal times for the lords of Satsuma to come up to the Shoguns in the capital city, Yedo.

She was a merry member of a house party at Idlehour a week ago Saturday and her illness will probably cause the cancelling of an elaborate Thanksgiving function at Idlehour.

bled to death in woods

Franklin Citizens Find Body of Former County Treasurer Borland.

Franklin, Pa., Nov. 23.—A systematic search by 400 citizens resulted in the finding of the dead body of former County Treasurer I. H. Borland, who failed to return from a hunting trip on Friday. He had accidentally shot himself below the left knee and bled to death in the woods, a mile from the nearest house. Appearances indicate that when he saw he was going to die he took a pencil and book from his pocket and wrote two sentences as follows:
"Accidental; slipped and fell. Take care of things."
It is not believed he lived more than 20 minutes. Mr. Borland was a well-known Republican politician, and served one term as county treasurer. He was aged 50 years. Besides a wife and one daughter he leaves his father, Dr. J. R. Borland; one brother, James B. Borland, editor of the Evening News, and two sisters, the Misses Nettie and Mary Borland.

Cities and Villages Near Cherry Give Liberally For Widows' Relief.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 23.—Headed by two individual donations of $1,000 each, made by F. W. Mathlessen, millionaire manufacturer of La Salle, and President Thomas F. Noon of the Illinois Zinc company of Peru, ten Bureau and La Salle county cities near Cherry have raised nearly $50,000 in cash to go to the relief of the families left destitute here.
The cities in which the record collections have been secured are Streator, Ottawa, La Salle, Peru and Mendota, in La Salle county, and Princeton, Spring Valley, Ladd, Dupue and Bureau, in Bureau county.
