Exceptional Sale of Fine Thanksgiving Linens.

No less important than the turkey and the trimmings for your Thanksgiving table is the linen you'll use. And, because of this, there is no other period of the year when we make it so interesting for you to buy good linens—and economize on them. Fortunately, just at this time, we own an unusual collection of excellent linens at considerable under prevailing market values. This sale which is in progress this week will demonstrate this.

65-inch All Linen Damask at 45c the yard. German manufacture, handsome patterns, open borders, silver bleached. Fully one-quarter under price.

72-inch Linen Damask at 69c the yard. Comes full two yards wide; superior satin finish; ten patterns; single and open borders; extra heavy quality of Scotch make and is regularly priced 85c.

The Best Damask in Oil City at $1 yard. Full two yards wide, handsome set patterns with open borders, full satin bleached, extra heavy, napkins to match.

$1.50 Double Satin Damask $1.25, and $2.00 Quality $1.65.

Two lines of the handsomest linen we have ever imported, both as to quality and patterns.

Damask Tray Cloths at 15c.

All linen; oval shaped, with hand tied fringe. When we tell you these are usually sold at a half dollar each we are not stretching facts. We bought them at a "job" price. "That's why."

36-inch Lunch Cloths at 45c.

A ridiculous price for these double damask cloths. They were ordered out for a large New York hotel man, whose failure occurred before the cloths landed. That's why they're sold now at half value.

Cannibal Japs.

Young Lieutenant Marlinspike's bathing suit revealed on his right arm an Uncle Sam and on his left a peacock, while around his neck a gleaming serpent was coiled, the mouth holding its tail.

"This is Japanese tattooing," the lieutenant said proudly. "Nagasaki work. I was under the needle nineteen hours in all. My two tattooers drank quite a pint of my blood."

"Jap tattooers are all blood drinkers. They like it. They get to like it in the end as you or I like tobacco."

"You see, as they work the blood wells forth. It flows over the design, and then, very carefully, without smearing the wet ink, they lick the blood up delicately with the tongue. Every Jap tattooer as he picks and picks away at you bends down every few minutes and licks the little rising tide of blood away."

"If he is a seasoned tattooer he swallows the blood. He likes it, he says."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Proper Adjective.

At the close of a revival service in Philadelphia the minister of the church went down the aisle, according to his custom, to greet the strangers in the congregation. "I don't think you are a member of our church," said he to one as he warmly shook his hand. "No, sir," replied the stranger. "Well, you will not think me unduly curious if I ask to what denomination you belong?" asked the minister. "I suppose," responded the other, "I'm really what you might call a submerged Presbyterian." "A submerged Presbyterian?" exclaimed the minister. "I should be glad if you would explain."

"Well, I was brought up a Presbyterian, my wife is a Methodist, my eldest daughter is a Baptist, my son is the organist at a Unitarian church, my second daughter sings in an Episcopal choir, and my youngest goes to a Congregational Sunday school." "But," said the minister, aghast, "you contribute doubtless to some church?" "Yes; I contribute to all of them," was the answer. "That's what submerges me."

Crows and Strings.

It was proved centuries ago that a crow can count up to three and no more. I met a farmer once who said that his corn crop had not failed in twenty years owing to his habit of stringing his field. He explained: "No crow will enter an angle formed by two strings stretched on poles. I illustrated this to some friends several years ago by sowing a small field in corn for fodder, protecting it by a zigzag string running from one end to the other. Within the angles formed by the string not a blade of the young crop was touched, but close without them, at each end, the whole crop was demolished. A crow is a very wise fool, and this is an effective and cheap way of circumventing him."—New York Press.

Sign Language on the Curb.

Any one would imagine all the curb brokers in Broad street were mutes. They use the sign language down there now to convey quotations and sales to their office boys and clerks who sit in the windows of the offices to catch the quotations. As a matter of fact, some of the brokers use the deaf and dumb alphabet; others use a distinct signaling code of their own, known only to the one single house and its representative. Even this, however, has to be changed now and then. The brokers possess a nimble wit, and they soon learn the secret signs of their competitors.—New York Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Safest Way.

"My friends dragged me into this wretched affair," shiveringly said the first duelist to his adversary as the seconds approached with the deadly weapons. "I never pulled the trigger of a pistol in my life, so if I hit you it will be an accident."

"Nor is this awful duel to my liking," whined the challenger, white to the gills. "Like you, a pistol is a strange article to my hands, and if I shoot you it will be with a stray shot."

"Then, for heaven's sake," exclaimed the first duelist, with a ray of hope, "let's aim carefully at each other or one of us may get hit!"—Kansas City Newsbook.

Flavoring Tobacco.

Nearly all tobaccos are doctored in various ways in order to suit the tastes of different consumers. Each manufacturer—even in Havana—has his own secret methods, handed down from father to son, which are regarded as perfectly legitimate and necessary in the preparation of the soothing weed. Salt-peter is added to the tobacco to make it burn well, leorice, honey, molasses and maple sugar to give sweetness to it for the special benefit of chewers and rum to make it keep well and preserve its properties. Nearly every plant which will afford a perfume is used in the preparation of what are known as "fancy" tobaccos. But it is not true, as some suppose, that opium and deleterious drugs are employed, save in a few brands of imported Turkish and Egyptian cigarettes. Among the flavors used are coffee, tea, valerian, lemon, orange, geranium, sassafras, thyme, anise, mint and cinnamon. Gum and glycerin are occasionally employed to bind the tobacco particles so that they shall not crumble into dust. The various ingredients are made into a kind of sauce, into which the tobacco leaves are dipped or with which they are sprinkled.—London Answers.

The Best Machines.

The idea that peace could be the normal relation of the nations never entered Napoleon's head or the head of any man about him, declares A. L. Kiehl in "Napoleon's Men and Methods." In his mind peace could only mean a pause between two wars. He had no idea to give to the world. His thoughts did not go beyond his own life. He shrinks at once in comparison with a man of science, who expends his life to create a thought that will nourish and elevate posterity.

If Napoleon reached the highest summit of a prince and a commander, he was also the last who succeeded in gathering about his person all the glamour that had been wont to accompany and adorn the bloody business of war. There was no more of it after his fall. War became afterward an academic study. Military affairs came to resemble industrial interests, in which it is the best machines that gain the victory.

We now strip our armies of their gold cords and waving plumes. The admiral, who used to stand on the bridge in his gala uniform, with his decorations and sash, now sits in a steel box and presses buttons like a telephone girl. When the glamour goes from a thing it is near its end.

The Greatest General.

All things duly considered, the greatest general of whom we have any knowledge was in all probability the Carthaginian, Hannibal. All the information we have of Hannibal comes from his enemies, and yet what achievements they were forced to credit him with! The second Punic war—the most brilliant in history—was practically one man against a whole nation, and that the strongest then known. With the army that he had molded out of raw and barbarous levies Hannibal had to fight a nation of the stoutest and best trained warriors of ancient times, and he had to do this without any assistance from home. It has been well said that there is nowhere else an example of what a single man of genius may achieve against the most tremendous odds.—New York American.

The Color of Jade.

The idea of jade possessing the virtue of bringing the wearer food fortune arose in China, where the stone is so valued that the finding of a particularly fine piece causes the state to take possession of the land where it was found. The best specimens represent all the hues and effects of sea foam, but these are eagerly snapped up by collectors and seldom come into the public market. There is another cause for the popularity of jade. Its peculiar green tinge has the effect of making the human skin look very white. In this connection the quality of the stone is of no account so long as the color is there. Indeed, many of the less expensive jade ornaments are made from chips of the stone which contain noticeable flaws.—Pearson's.

A New Delight— Foods Shot from Guns

There are myriads of homes where these foods are not new—these delicious Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice. The people who know them are already serving seventeen million dishes per month. But to millions of others these foods remain a new and unknown delight. And to those this appeal is addressed.

The appeal is to try one package—just for the children's sake.

Puffed Wheat—10c Puffed Rice—15c

These are the foods invented by Prof. Anderson, and this is his curious process: The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees. That fierce heat turns the moisture in the grain to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles. The kernels of grain are expanded eight times. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grain.

One package will tell you why people delight in them. Order it now.

There are several very good reasons why this suit stock is entitled to the consideration of suit buyers. There's the very important fact that we're conducting a

November Suit Sale.

Which, to date, has been the most successful suit sale of the year. Upward of 50 Suits—$16.50, $18.50, $20 and $22.50, priced $14.50, $14.75, $16.50, $16.75, $18.50 and $18.75. But those fifty odd suits are a small part of the suit assortment this store has to offer.

There's a suit maker on upper Fifth Avenue, New York, who makes a specialty of reproducing high priced imported Paris models for retail at $25. This work, originally, was done exclusively for certain New York retail stores. Then as his business grew and expanded he was able to make more suits than his New York customers could use he extended his territory. The handsomest $25 Suits we have come from this suit maker.

He employs the highest skilled tailors. There's a very apparent superiority in the materials he uses. Each suit seems to have a certain distinct tone and character. The lines are cut over perfect models and you're conscious of that fact the moment you put one of these suits on. Lastly there's an air of exclusive tailoring about these $25 Suits that immediately attracts your attention. Much of this department's suit prestige is due to these $25 Suits.

The Choicest Fish That Come Out of the Sea

The whole world knows that fish is one of the most nourishing and strengthening foods in existence. And of all the fish that come out of the sea, the cod is the richest in nutriment. And cod, as you get it in Beardsley's Shredded Codfish, is also one of the choicest foods ever put on the table. Yet wonderfully economical. And surprisingly easy to cook.

BEARDSLEY'S SHREDDED MARK CODFISH

Only the Sweetest Meat

The cod we use are the finest flavored fish all the world's waters produce. They are caught off the New England Coast. Cod which come from other regions can't compare in quality and taste with these.

And of these fine fish we select only the fattest and plumpest. Each fish is examined three times. Then we take only the best part of each fish. Only the sweetest, most delicate meat.

Ready to Cook

We prepare Beardsley's Shredded Codfish in a way that saves you all bother and trouble. We take out the bones. Then our wonderful Shredding Process makes the meat fine and fluffy and dainty.

It is ready to cook the instant you open the package. No washing—no soaking—no boiling.

Cheaper Than Meat

A package of Beardsley's Shredded Codfish costs only 10 cents. Yet it goes farther than two or three pounds of meat, or a dozen eggs. It makes a full meal for five. Think of the vast economy in serving this fine food often, instead of meat or eggs. It makes a better breakfast or lunch than either. And there are so many tempting ways to serve it, that your family will never tire of it. You can have it at least once a week the whole winter through and never serve it twice alike.

Let your family try this delicious and new kind of meat tomorrow. Order Beardsley's Shredded Codfish today. And please see that your grocer gives you Beardsley's—the package with the red band. That is the kind you will like. For Beardsley's is the only Shredded Codfish. Our shredding process is patented.

Free Book of Recipes

Ask your grocer for our book of tempting new recipes. It means pleasing variety in meals. Or write us. We will send you the book, and with it a generous sample of Beardsley's Shredded Codfish.
