MARQUETTE'S YAWL

Containing Nine Frozen Bodies Towed Into Erie Harbor.

Joseph Shenk, the Smallest Man in the Party, Was Evidently the First to Succumb, as the Others Were Huddled on Top of Him and About Him as if With the Intention of Keeping the Spark of Life in the Frail Body.

The last doubt concerning the fate of the Bessemer and Marquette car ferry No. 2 was removed when the state fish tug Commodore Perry towed the car ferry's lifeboat No. 4, containing nine dead bodies, into the port at Erie at 4:20 p. m. Sunday.

Some sitting on the seats and others huddled up in the bottom of the craft, all were frozen stiff. Four ambulances met the boat at the dock and the bodies were removed to Corner Hanley's morgue, later being identified as follows:

Thomas Steele, single, coal passer, Conneaut; John Hart, single, oiler, Conneaut; Charles Allen, single, Conneaut; George Smith, steward, married, Conneaut; William Ray, married, Conneaut; H. J. Thomas, Port Stanley, Ont.; Mennel Sours, single, Conneaut; Joseph Shenk, Conneaut; O'Hagen, London, Ont.

He is medical director of the Philadelphia Clinic for the Home Treatment of Chest and Throat Diseases.

MRS. STEELE'S DEFENSE

Is in Nature of Counter Action on Ground of Desertion.

Mrs. Jessamine Hart Steele, daughter of the late Bret Hart, testified before J. D. Sullivan of Yorkers in the suit for divorce begun in the supreme court of Boulder county, Colo., by her husband, a wealthy mine owner. The testimony was taken behind closed doors, but it is known that Mrs. Steele's defense is in the nature of a counter action on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Steele is a beautiful woman of 26 and since separating from her husband three years ago, has supported herself by singing and reading her father's poems at musical and private entertainments. She has a host of friends at Yorkers and among them is Eleanor Robson, the actress.

SHeldon WAS A WITNESS

Before Senate Judiciary Committee In Behalf of Keley and His Lieutenants.

George P. Sheldon, the indicted ex-president of the Phenix Fire Insurance company of New York, who loaned $250,000 to officials of the state insurance department under former administrations, was one of the witnesses upon whose testimony the senate relied in defeating Governor Hughes' first attempt to oust Otto Keley in 1907.

In his testimony before the senate judiciary committee, Mr. Sheldon praised the services rendered by Isaac Vanderpool, then department chief examiner, and Robert J. Hunter, Lou Parn's lieutenant, who was deputy superintendent for a good many years. The retention of these men in the department after the Armstrong committee disclosures was the principal ground upon which the governor attacked Keley. In the light of Superintendent Hotchkiss' report, Mr. Sheldon gave this testimony after he had loaned Vanderpool $120,000 and Hunter about $60,000 of the Phenix's money.

NEED NOT BELIEVE IT

It's a Matter of Indifference to Wallace E. Tillinghast.

Reiterates His Story That He Sailed With Two Mechanics From Some Place 40 Miles From Worcester to New York and Then to Boston and Back to Starting Point During a Night—Remained Up 46 Minutes Without Power While Machinery Was Being Repaired.

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 14.—Wallace E. Tillinghast said today that it is true he sailed in his new flying machine from somewhere to New York, around to Boston and back to somewhere all on a single night; that he does not have to prove it just now and won't until he gets ready, and that if anybody wants to think the story is not true it fails to interest him in the least.

"I have not asked the public to believe it," he said. "I am not offering any stock in the company for sale. I have no axe to grind. One of these days I shall bring the big monoplane out and fly with it; then the public will believe."

MAN WHO SAID HE WOULD HAS A VIVID IMAGINATION, SAID THE SPEAKER.

BANK'S RESPONSIBILITY

For Accepting Checks Drawn by a Corporation Officer and Deposited to His Own Account.

New York, Dec. 14.—A recent decision of the appellate division of the First department is attracting attention among lawyers and the management of large and small financial institutions, for it charges these institutions with a new responsibility in accepting checks drawn by an officer of a corporation as such officer and deposited by him to his private account.

The court holds that in such a transaction it is the duty of the bank receiving such a check for deposit to make inquiry as to the regularity of the proceeding, and that a bank accepting such checks and paying out money on them to the personal benefit of the officer who has drawn and deposited them is liable to the corporation on whose funds the officer has drawn, if reasonable inquiry would have revealed the unlawfulness of the officer's action.

A THIRD DEMOCRAT

Little Opposition Expected to Elevation of Judge Lurton to Supreme Court Bench.

Washington, Dec. 14.—The nomination of Judge Horace H. Lurton of the Sixth United States circuit court to be an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the late Rufus W. Peckham, was sent to the senate by President Taft and will be confirmed unless new opposition appears. No opposition is expected. There is no reason to believe that Judge Lurton's nomination will be seriously contested, if it is opposed at all.
The president convinced himself that the nomination would be confirmed before he dispatched it to the senate.
There were intimations that there might be opposition from some senators whose object would be to delay confirmation in order to permit investigation of the charge that Judge Lurton's decisions indicate a frame of mind that would result in a reversal of the decision of the court of appeals in the Standard Oil case. The elevation of Judge Lurton to the supreme court bench would give the Democrats a third representative in the court. Chief Justice Fuller and Justice White are Democrats. Judge Lurton and Justice White both served in the Confederate army.
