CONGRESS.

ENDEAVOR, PA., Nov. 29th, 1909. My DEAR EDITOR:-You are hereby authorized to announce my name as a candidate for Congress in the Twenty-Eighth Congressional District of Pennsylvania, subject to the rules governing the Primary to be held Saturday, June 4th, 1910. NELSON P. WHEELER.

EDITOR FOREST REPUBLICAN:-Please announce that I am a candidate for Con-gress subject to the decision of the electors of the Twenty-eighth Congressional Distriet of Pennsylvania, at the primary election to be held Saturday, Jone 4th, 1910. JOSEPH C. SIBLEY. Franklin, Pa., February 21, 1910.

A PURE drink bill will be presented at Harrisburg to the next legislature with the backing of the state dairy and food division. It will closely follow the lines laid down by the federal government and will be so drawn as to remove the causes of objection to that passed by the session of 1909. Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust has outlined the plan in the tederal government, by the department of justice and the President, has defined whisky, the Pennsylvania legislature at its next session should enact a law in harmony with the attitude taken by the federal government relating to alcholic liquors:

THE trend of scientific medicine to-day is the prevention of scute or infectious diseases, and in its accomplishment rests to a considerable extent our ability to prevent many of the chronic conditions which harass and beset human kind The first factor, and the one which concerns all, in the invasion of acute or infectious diseases, is the lowered resistance of the individual. This lowered resistance is brought about in various preventable ways, as for example, indiscretions in diet, over fatigue, improper dress, worry anxiety, exposure to untoward weather unsuitably clad, while excess of all sorts -weather social or business -always trends to a lowering of the vital standard When this happens, the organism cannot withstand the invasion of disease germs. As these become active, the result is according to the weakest link of the individual. It may be an influenza, a bronchitis, a pneumonia, or some other preventable condition. All people are not equally susceptible by reason of a lowered standard, nor is it necessarily invited by any one transgression. What may be an indiscretion for one person may be all right for another, unless there be superposed an additional indiscretion. -"The Prevention of Disease," in The 16 and 17. He will hold the third quarterly Ladies' world for April.

Dwelling House Burned. The home of Solomon Mealy, who resides alone on his farm about a mile from the McDonald Siding, in Hickory township, was totally destroyed by fire about six o'clock last Thursday evening. Mr. Mealy had kindled a fire in the kitchen stove and gone out to attend to his bees. In a short time he discoverd the house to be on fire and the fire had gained such headway that nothing could be done to extinguish it. The house and all its conteuts were destroyed, as well as a wood shed, work shop and chicken house standing nearby. The fire is supposed to have originated from an overheated stove pipe, as there was no chimney in the house. Mr. Mealy's loss is total, he having no insurance, but we are not informed as to how much the loss will be. He also lost some valuable grafted trees, as he was quite an expert in that line of work. Misfortune has fallen heavily on Mr. Mealy, as doring the past winter he lost a good team horse. He was hauling logs and the animal went through a bridge near Braceville, breaking a leg and having to be shot.

G. W. Mong, a former resident of Tionests township, sends us a copy of the Maricopa (California) Oil News of Saturday, March 19th, containing a graphic description, as well as a picture, of the world's biggest oil well. Mr. Mong had the honor of being one of the tool dressers on the well. In a note he says the paper rates the well too low and that it was good for 50,000 barrels a day. From a three column write-up we gather the following interesting facts:

Although the well is located one and a half miles north of town a fine mist of oil sprayed the town all day Thursday until buildings and the white clothing worn by our townspeople presented a checkered appearance.
