Exactly what has Congressman Wheeler done that he should be re-nominated?—Franklin News.

Although he has a fight on his hands for re-nomination and the subsidized organs of the big corporations have been slandering him at every opportunity, he was in his seat at Washington and helped to pass the railway regulation bill last week by a vote of 209 to 126, when he might have been excused had he remained at home. He has never voted against a railroad rate bill, or an irrigation bill, or a bill to reduce the excessive charges of railroads for carrying the mails. He has passed more private pension bills for old soldiers than any congressman who ever represented the district. He has carefully looked after the interests of his whole constituency at every point. Indeed, he has been so very busy attending to all these little details that he hasn't even had time to call on the President to tell him some unpalatable truths, or propose to buy up a new association. He is staying at his post of duty in Washington, confident that his friends will look after his affairs at home. Say, Jim, that was easy. Now give us a hard one.

Again Vindicated.

The following letter from Hon. Thomas W. Phillips shows the utter falseness of the statement that Congressman Wheeler neglected the interests of the oil producers when the tariff bill was up for consideration:

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 26, 1910. HON. N. P. WHEELER, M. C., House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR CONGRESSMAN:—I am in receipt of your letter of the 21st instant asking me two questions and stating that I "was in Washington during the tariff discussion in the interest of a protective duty on oil," and saying, "will you kindly advise during that discussion what was my action?"

In reply I am pleased to say, as a member of the Independent Oil Men's Committee, that your action was earnestly in support of the oil legislation presented to Congress by the Independent Oil producers in both House and Senate.

In reply to your second inquiry, viz: "Was Mr. Sibley in Washington during this time, did he meet with the committee of oil men, and what was his position as regards the tariff on oil?" I will say that while I did not meet Mr. Sibley, I was informed that he was in Washington during that period, but he did not attend any meetings of the Oil Men's Committee, so far as I know. Neither did he appear before the Senate Committee on Finance with the members of the Independent Oil Men's Committee, nor at any other time so far as I have been informed during the many weeks when Senator Lewis Emery, Jr., and myself and numerous other independent oil men were in Washington advocating the duty on oil.

Nor did Mr. Sibley appear with the committee of over fifty delegates from the oil regions of all parts of the United States who not only appeared before the Senate Committee on Finance, but also presented their case to President Taft at the White House.

As to further information relating to Mr. Sibley's position in regard to the oil industry, I refer you to the report of the U. S. Bureau of Corporations upon the Galena Oil Company of which he is a prominent member. Trusting this answer may be satisfactory, I am,

Very respectfully yours, THOMAS W. PHILLIPS.

Yellowed with age and creased and torn by numerous handlings, a deed was filed at the recorder's office Friday morning bearing date of May 18, 1865. It is from Marcus F. Copeland and Elizabeth Copeland, his wife, to Thomas J. Van Gieson, and conveys the one-eleventh part of two tracts in President township, one of 200 acres and the other of 60 acres. All the parties were residents of President township. Mr. Van Gieson has had the document in his possession all these years, and only Thursday when Recorder Johnson happened to be in that section did he hand the deed over to be filed. The endorsements on the back are partly illegible from wear, but the document is sufficiently well preserved for the purpose for which it was intended. A grim reminder of the times in which the paper was issued is seen in the wax stamp on the back, four in number, amounting to $4.50.—Venango Daily Herald.

"Lest We Forget."

Now that the fillings have been made by the several candidates for Congress in the 28 Congressional district of Pennsylvania, and the name of Joseph C. Sibley appears with others in the list, some facts in relation to the Sibley candidacy seem pertinent at this time.

In his letter announcing that he would be a candidate for Congress Mr. Sibley says:

"I have waited many weeks since receiving your petition, hoping that someone fully equipped for Congressional service would enter the field, but none has volunteered, and so many urging it upon me as a duty prompt me to say that I hereby accept your invitation."

If Mr. Sibley, in the light of events, were to write over again his letter of acceptance in response to these numerous petitions of which he speaks it is our judgment that he would have remembered the utterances both public and private of the most laudatory character which he paid to our Congressman, Hon. Nelson P. Wheeler. Joseph Sibley's memory has grown exceedingly sterile, otherwise he would have said nothing about the availability of a candidate not volunteering for the Congressional nomination. At the time Mr. Sibley wrote his letter announcing that he would be a candidate, Mr. Wheeler's announcement had gone forward. It was printed in the newspapers of the District and it was known throughout the district long before the "Sage of Franklin" intended to be a candidate at the behest of his masters, that Mr. Wheeler would be a candidate for re-election; and "Lest we forget" it seems fitting at this time to recall some things said to Mr. Wheeler by his opponent in this present contest for the Congressional nomination.

In 1908, in a letter to the Editor of the Franklin Evening News, Joseph C. Sibley, announcing his retirement from the public service said:

"I believe Representative Wheeler is entitled to the respect and confidence of his constituents, and that he will always be found on the right side of every great moral issue, and on public questions will stand with his party and is entitled to the re-nomination which I hope will come to him unopposed by any of my friends."

And speaking editorially on the action of Mr. Sibley, the Franklin Evening News, in commenting upon the above letter said:

"While many Franklin people, through municipal pride, will regret that our fellow townsman, Hon. Joseph C. Sibley, will not be a candidate for Congress at this time they will be only too glad to support again the Hon. Nelson P. Wheeler for the place. During the short time he has been in office Mr. Wheeler has shown that he is a capable, kind and efficient representative and as Mr. Sibley points out, is entitled to another term."

But, "Lest we forget," the attitude which Mr. Sibley showed to his successor, it seems especially timely to recall what the "Sage of Franklin" said of Mr. Wheeler in a letter to Major McDowell. Mr. Sibley said of Mr. Wheeler then:

"Mr. Wheeler is a man of character and one who commands my respect and confidence. I think he will co-operate with you and all our friends and is one who will be on the right side of all great questions. I shall be very much pleased if my friends give him the nomination without a contest."

Joseph C. Sibley is either forgetful of these tributes of respect and confidence to a man who has deserved them, or else he has decided upon a bold and daring effort to rehabilitate himself in power because of the interests behind him. In either case the "Sage of Franklin" has failed to appreciate the temper of our people. The electors of the 28th Congressional district are the peers of those of any congressional district in the United States; they believe in a square deal; they believe in honesty and integrity in public and in private life; and in the case of Mr. Wheeler, we believe they will show by their ballots on the 4th of June that "one good term deserves another."

Kellettville Commencement.

The second annual commencement of Kellettville High School was held in Andrews' Hall, Friday evening, May 13. The Hall was tastefully and beautifully decorated in the colors of the class, old gold and royal purple. The class motto, "Dedecimus tibi stabimus," formed a beautiful arch over the stage. Flags, pennants and long streamers of gold and purple were in evidence everywhere. At 8:15 the class and principal marched boldly and confidently to the stage. After the High School song "Come Away," Rev. R. J. Montgomery offered an appropriate prayer. Miss Anna Lease followed with the salutatory. Her delivery was clear and audible; and from the applause that followed we were convinced that her effort was appreciated. As soon as order was restored, Levi David Grove stepped to the front and declaimed "The International Race." Close attention was given the performer from the beginning to the close of the race, and a smile of contentment passed over the audience when it was announced that the United States had won the race. A trombone and cornet band was the next pleasing feature of the program. The same was executed by Nelson Russell and Roland Spangler, accompanied by Miss Hill on the piano. Glen Riche was the next speaker and paid a glowing tribute to America's greatness. "The Boat Song" by the High School, so pleased the audience that they called for an encore. Julian Robbins, the class orator, discussed the class motto in a beautiful manner, and then gave way to Mrs. C. Y. Dejar and Miss Hestie Porter, who sang "The Flowers of May." No comment of ours would do the ladies justice. These sweet and melodious voices will live with the audience for years to come. Miss Inez Daubenspeck lived up to her reputation as a reciter. "Who killed Joe's Baby" was her theme, and she sang with dignity, together with her excellent impersonation of the characters included, won the admiration of every one present.

Supr. Morrison addressed the audience in a beautiful manner for about seven minutes, and then to the surprise of all became serious for the same length of time. It was a good speech, however, and was well received. The second brass band was the next number of the program, and Ray Weller followed with an oration, "Ich Dien." It was a splendid effort and reflected credit to the young man. After the High School sang "Happy School Days are Ended," Prof. J. L. Simmonet addressed the class and presented the diplomas. Melvin Dotterer, in a fitting valedictory, bid teachers and audience a pathetic and final farewell. Thus closed a successful school year.

John D. Rockefeller would go broke if he should spend his entire income trying to prepare a better medicine than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is simply impossible to say ever one that has used it. Sold by Dunn & Craig.

RECENT DEATHS.

SHERMAN.

Daniel Sheehan, of Fagundus, Pa., died Monday afternoon May 9, 1910, at his home, from injuries sustained about a week previous, caused by a runaway accident, his horse taking fright, throwing him from the buggy and fracturing three of his ribs while en route to Tidioneta. He was one of the pioneer residents of Forest County, coming to the oil region in the early days. He first came to Trunkville in 1861, and a few years later moved to Fagundus. He is survived by his wife and nine children. Interment was made in the Tidioneta Cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

DEAN.

Mrs. Amelia (Barr) Dean, wife of Aaron B. Dean, of Henry's Mills, Warren county, died in the State Hospital at North Warren, Friday, May 13, 1910, aged about 52 years. The family formerly resided in Kellettville and other places in Kingsley township, where they were well and favorably known. Mrs. Dean was born near Scotch Hill, Pa. Owing to an unfortunate condition of her mind she was removed to the hospital about two months ago. She is survived by her husband, who is now with a son in Colings Cal., and two sons and four daughters.

JOHNSON.

Mrs. Lizzie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stover, of Coal Hill, Pa., died at her home in Golinza, Forest county, Monday of this week, aged 28 years, 11 months and 16 days, leaving an infant son a few hours old. She was united in marriage with E. C. Johnson, Dec. 27, 1894, and since that time they have lived in the vicinity of Nebraska. She is survived by her husband, two sons and one daughter; also her parents, one brother, Ira Stover, of Coal City, a sister, Mrs. Hildren, of Oil City, and a half brother, Henry Marsh, of Parkers Landing. Funeral services will be held this Wednesday at 7:30 a. m. at the home, Rev. W. O. Calhoun officiating. The interment will take place in the cemetery in Fertigs, Venango county.

MARIE.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Mabie died Tuesday morning, May 17, 1910, at her home at No. 262 East Sixth street, Erie, Pa., aged about 83 years. She had not been in good health for a number of years, suffering a stroke of paralysis about three years ago. Mrs. Mabie was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neal, who were among the first settlers in Fairview, Erie county, Pa. Her husband was C. D. Mabie, who has been dead many years. They resided in Tionesta for fifteen or eighteen years, during a part of which time they conducted the Holmes House, which was located on River street, a short distance below the river bridge. They were the occupants of the hotel when it was destroyed by fire on Dec. 10, 1872. The family left Tionesta about thirty-one years ago, but Mrs. Mabie had many old friends here who will be sorry to learn of her passing away. She is survived by one son, Harry Mabie, of Erie. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with interment beside the bodies of her husband and son, Frank, in the Fairview cemetery. Mrs. Mabie was an aunt of Mrs. J. D. W. Reck and Mrs. Thomas Snodgrass, of Tionesta.

BLAINE.

Dr. John Elliott Blaine, a former well known practicing physician of Tionesta, died suddenly in St. Louis, Mo., Thursday, May 12, 1910, from angina pectoris, after an illness of only an hour. Dr. Blaine was aged 69 years. He came to Tionesta in October, 1872, and shortly thereafter engaged in the practice of medicine here, being very successful. Leaving here over twenty-five years ago he went to Pleasantville, Pa., then to Chicago, Illinois, and later to St. Louis, where he was secretary, treasurer and manager of a Keeley Institute. He was regarded as an authority on the treatment of alcoholism, drug and tobacco addiction, making that a specialty in the later years of his life. Dr. Blaine was united in marriage in June, 1873, with Miss Ella Stow, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who survives him, with one son and two daughters, as follows: Roger Blaine, of San Francisco, Cal.; Mrs. Fay Faine, of Alaska and Miss Augusta Blaine, at home. He was a visitor at the home of Mr. A. B. Kelly, here, three years ago. Many old friends here have a very kindly remembrance of Dr. Blaine and all these will learn with regret of his demise. The body was cremated and the ashes sent to his birthplace, Beaver, Pa., for interment.

FOREMAN.

James Hamilton Foreman, a former respected resident of Tionesta, died suddenly in Pittsburgh, Pa., at 10 p. m., Friday, May 13, 1910, aged 71 years. Mr. Foreman was born in Butler county and was the son of James B. and Maria (Karnes) Foreman. He was the oldest of eight children, four of whom survive, as follows: H. M. Foreman, of Tionesta; Wm. J. Foreman, of Seattle, Wash.; Samuel Foreman, of Indian Territory, and Mrs. Wm. Laird, of Wadestown, W. Va. Mr. Foreman was reared in Butler and Armstrong counties, learning the trade of tank builder, and followed the oil development to many fields. He resided for a number of years at East Hickory and for six or eight years in Tionesta. He left here about ten years ago, going to Pittsburgh, where he has since been employed by the Watson Tank Co. He was respected by all for his integrity and had many friends wherever he went. He was married in early life to Miss Mary Carson, of Armstrong county, who died twenty-five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. M. Foreman went to Kittanning, Saturday evening, to attend the funeral, which was held Sunday afternoon at Middlesex, Armstrong county, the body being laid to rest beside those of his wife and daughter.

SIVERLING.

Henry Siverling was born in Venango, Pa., May 12, 1852, and died in the hospital in Oil City, May 15, 1910. He was the son of Daniel Siverling, one of the old residents of Venango. When a young man he came to Nebraska at the time that T. D. Collins purchased the timber tract at that place and aided in building the mill that has been used there for the past forty years. When the firm began to manufacture lumber he took the position of clerk in the store and in the discharge of his duties he made for himself a host of friends. For the last twenty-four years he has been the head Sawyer in the mill and proved himself a faithful employee, always endeavoring to give the company the best product the mill was capable of producing. In 1881 he was united in marriage to Miss Josephine Platt, of Oil

City. Their home life was a pleasant one and her death twenty years ago was the great sorrow of his life. Shortly after her death he gave up housekeeping and made his home at the hotel in Nebraska. Mr. Siverling was a man who made friends easily and held them with a firm grasp, so that the announcement of his death will bring genuine sorrow, not only to every resident of Nebraska, but as well to the many who have known him in other years and are now located elsewhere. Up to a few months ago he enjoyed the best of health. Last fall his friends began to notice that he had lost something of his usual vivacity and in February he went to Hardy, California, to visit his daughter, Mrs. H. H. Watson. The change of climate did not improve his condition and about five weeks ago he returned, greatly weakened by the long journey. Continuing to grow worse he was diagnosed as cancer of the pancreas. An operation gave temporary relief and his friends were hopeful that his life might be prolonged for several years but a change for the worse warned them that this was not to be. His daughter was summoned from her home and reached his bedside a week before his death, to his great joy. His mind was clear until the last and he made all necessary preparations for the change. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Harry H. Watson, of Hardy, California, and two grandchildren, George Siverling Watson and Henry Dalton Watson. Three sisters and one brother also survive him, as follows: Mrs. Frank Lindsay and Mrs. Samuel Able, of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Algarno Close, of Cambridge Springs, Pa.; and Birt Siverling, of St. Louis, Mo. Funeral services will be held at the hotel in Nebraska, Thursday at 1 o'clock p. m., conducted by Rev. W. O. Calhoun. Interment will be made in Riverside cemetery in Tionesta. Tionesta Lodge, No. 369, I. O. O. F., of which the deceased was a member, will have charge of the ceremonies at the grave.
