ROOSEVELT RETURNS

Ex-President Receives Great Welcome in New York.

is Taken Off the Kaiserin by Revenue Cutter Androscoogin—Big Flo-tilla Honors Him—Naval Parade Held—Traveler Glad to Get Home Again.

A reception that transcended all of his visits to the capitals of Europe combined in point of numbers, enthusiasm and spontaneity greeted Colonel Roosevelt here on his return to his native land.

The most frankly pleased person was the returned traveler himself, and not only by words of thanks, but with the famous Roosevelt smile and vigorously enthusiastic acknowledgements of greetings, did he show his appreciation of the greatest reception tendered any American.

New York has welcomed many notables, but never a one attracted the attention or received the welcome accorded the citizen of Oyster Bay. Before many of the so-called "malefactors of a great wealth" had arisen for the half day's labors the naval flotilla was in quarantine awaiting the transferring of the Roosevelt party from the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria to the revenue cutter Androscoogin.

Despite the early hour thousands of sightseers—men, women and children—were at the Battery by 5 o'clock in the morning. The reason was twofold. They wanted to see the departure of the flotilla of steamers as it started down the bay for quarantine, and they had hopes they would beat the police to positions of vantage around the stand of welcome. The latter was a vain quest, for hundreds of bluecoats surrounded the platforms and adjacent space reserved for the reception committee.

The din was at its height when the Roosevelt party was espied on the upper forward deck, the colonel boyishly waving his hat to Collector William Loeb and other friends on the revenue cutter Androscoogin.

By his side were Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Miss Ethel and Kermit Roosevelt and Secretary of the Navy Meyer, who met the steamer at Sandy Hook last night. The Androscoogin headed the procession, and Colonel Roosevelt held an improvised levee forward. There were few of the committeemen whose names he could not recall without prompting, for they embraced old friends and allies and bitter political foes, but all this was laid aside for a day in New York's expressions of the national welcome to the statesman and hunter.

If the naval parade was a success the parade up Broadway and Fifth avenue was trebly so. It was here that the thousands upon thousands who lined the streets could see the man who had caused this uproar and greet him, and the canyon of Broadway resounded with cheers. Here, as at the Battery, the office buildings were jammed with sightseers. Even the wonderful height of the Singer tower was no obstacle to privileged ones who gazed at a spectacle that must have resembled an ants' procession in their eyes.

Roosevelt's Doings to Be Known Only at Bi-Weekly Chats

Ex-President Roosevelt has made known that thereafter absolute privacy will be observed at his residence at Sagamore Hill. What he does, what he thinks, how he amuses himself, whom he receives, these and several other items about which the public has been accustomed to have a fair working knowledge, are to become known only at the bi-weekly chats which he will submit to. And these are to be held in the office of The Outlook, where he will begin his editorship in person this week Wednesday. Mr. Roosevelt had two distinguished personages at the hill with him Sunday. One of these, Senator Lodge, was a house guest over Sunday. Secretary of the Navy Meyer dropped in by way of the Dolphin and Long Island sound for an evening's talk.

These impressions were gained when the president came out on his verandah to receive several callers. His last word to them in answer to a question about his African trip was this: "I shan't have anything to say, ever."

DESTRUCTIVE CORN PEST

State Zoologist Advises Farmers How to Save Crop.

The Pennsylvania state zoologist Professor H. A. Surface, who has discovered a number of new orchard and tree pests this spring, has also found that a dangerous and particularly destructive corn pest has appeared. This pest was discovered in specimens of corn stalks sent to him by D. R. Rihel, a farmer of Ottawa, Montour county, and Dr. Surface says that unless checked it may cause heavy loss in corn.

It is known as the corn root webworm, and the doctor says it belongs to the genus crambus and attacks corn following sod. He says the best way to head it off is to plow sod ground in the fall. However, as the webworm appears to have a hold, he recommends that the farmers spray the corn with a solution of one ounce of arsenate of lead to a gallon of water.

DECLINES NOMINATION

President Taft Insists on Knox Remaining in the Cabinet.

Secretary of State Knox will not accept the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania. The secretary killed the boom that had been started in his favor in a formal statement issued on Sunday night. Mr. Knox's decision to head off the gubernatorial boom was reached after a conference with President Taft at the White House.

Secretary Knox's action in this matter and the president's insistence upon his remaining in the cabinet will effectively put an end to all reports that there has been friction between Mr. Taft and his secretary of state.

Secretary Knox's withdrawal of his name means that Representative John Tener of Washington county probably will be the Republican nominee. Tener and State Senator W. K. Crowe of Fayette county have been the two candidates upon whom Senator Penrose, the Republican boss of Pennsylvania, has looked with favor, and members of the Pennsylvania delegation say that the choice is certain to fall now on Tener.

RAIN SAVES WHEAT

Drought Broken in the Eastern Washington and Oregon Districts.

Heavy rain worth millions to the wheat growers is falling over the wheat districts in Eastern Washington, Oregon and Western Idaho. The country around Walla Walla, Pendleton, Dayton, Starbuck, Pomeroy, Connel, Garfield, La Grande and Prosser has been thoroughly soaked.

The rain will increase the average yield of bushels of winter and spring wheat at least ten bushels an acre. The farmers have stopped ploughing up the thin grain. The loss from drought and dry winds will still be large, especially in Franklin county, where the low elevations got no moisture.

WEDDING A SUCCESS

Weather Fine For Roosevelt-Alexander Nuptials.

Rough Riders Attended Ceremony. Although They Were Not Invited Colonel Roosevelt Told Them to Jump into Their Uniforms and Come Along—Couple to Make Their Home at San Francisco.

New York, June 21.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was married to Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander, the daughter of Mrs. Henry Addison Alexander, of 42 West 47th street. Long before four o'clock, the hour set for the ceremony, the Fifth avenue Presbyterian church, at Fifty-fifth street and Fifth avenue, was more than comfortably filled by the early arrivals among the 820 invited guests and Fifth avenue for two blocks north and south of the church and along Fifty-fifth street was crowded with people who seemed, at least the women who formed the majority, equally divided between the desire to get a glimpse of the bride and a look at Colonel Roosevelt. In the interest over these two the bridegroom was almost forgotten and few saw him, when he arrived at the church an hour before the ceremony.

Just at the last minute Colonel Roosevelt remembered that his former regiment of rough riders was in town and that they had not been invited. That would not do at all and in no time at all Kenneth D. Robinson was hurrying around to the rough riders' headquarters at the Hotel Buckingham to tell "the boys" to jump into the uniforms and come along. Nearly 50 of the men managed to get together and, marching two abreast, reached the church in time to add a military touch to the wedding.

Colonel Roosevelt Arrives. Later Colonel Roosevelt drove up to one of the Fifth avenue entrances in an automobile accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and Archie and Quentin, the two younger Roosevelt boys.

It was almost exactly 4 o'clock when the mounted police galloped up and down to shut off traffic on the avenue and clear the way for Miss Alexander's automobile which came through East Fifty-fifth street and drew up at the church door at that side. The bride hid her face in a great bunch of lilies of the valley when her automobile was blocked just before reaching the church door and the photographers seized the chance for a picture. Then she lowered the bonnet and smiled out quite frankly at the people.

The ushers were George E. Roosevelt and Monroe Douglas Robinson, cousins of the bridegroom; John W. Cutler, Eliot Cutler, E. Morgan Gilbert, Hamilton, Fish, Jr., Francis Roche Fulton Cutting, Grafton Chapman. While they were seating the guests the orchestra played selections from various opera airs.

As Miss Alexander entered the church, the orchestra, accompanied by the organ, began the Lohengrin wedding march. Miss Alexander walked up the aisle with her mother and was met at the chancel steps by the bridegroom accompanied by his brother, Kermit Roosevelt, as best man.

The bride was dressed in white satin, the bodice trimmed with rare valenciennes lace. The voluminous tulle veil was caught to the coil with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids, Ethel Roosevelt, the bridegroom's sister, Harriet and Janata Alexander, cousins of the bride; Miss Jean W. Delano and Jessie Millington Drake of Paris were in pale rose satin costumes with tulle of dull blue. They wore legible hats trimmed with pink roses and carried bouquets of roses and forget-me-nots.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Henry M. Sanders, the great uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Gordon Russell of Cranford, N. J. The words that made Colonel Roosevelt's son and Miss Alexander's wife were pronounced at 4:16.

After the ceremony the bridal party was held up for a moment in the rush to shake hands with Colonel Roosevelt and to congratulate his son and give good wishes to the new Mrs. Roosevelt. Then Theodore, Jr., and his bride with an escort of police cavalry drove to the home of the bride's uncle Charles B. Alexander, at 4 West Fifty-eighth street, where the reception was held.

The secret of the honeymoon trip has been carefully guarded, but it is said that Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, Jr., will go for a short automobile tour before starting for San Francisco, where they will make their home and where Theodore, Jr., is due on July 1, to begin work as the Pacific coast manager of the sales department of the carpet factory at Thompsonville, Conn., where he went to work after leaving Harvard.

Armstrong Drexel Flies.
London, June 21.—Armstrong Drexel of Philadelphia made a record high light in an ascent by a Blériot monoplane at Brockenhurst. He reached a height of 1,070 feet which is a record in Great Britain.
