FIVE LEAVE HOSPITAL.

Three Others Hurt In/Vanderbilt Cup Race Still In Danger.

Although the Driver of Car 12 is Liable to Die, Both His Legs Being Broken, He Requested the Doctors Not to Remove His Right Leg. Louis Chevrolet, Driver of Marquette-Buick Car, Still Suffering From Shock and Nervousness.

Of the more than twenty who were injured in Saturday's Vanderbilt cup race, three of those who were taken to the Nassau County hospital were said to be still in danger. Five were able to leave the hospital.
Mrs. Ferdinand D'Zubia, whose husband was killed when the car he was driving containing his wife and four other men got beyond his control near Old Westbury and plunged in the darkness to the bottom, where it turned over, is one of those at the hospital who is still in extreme danger. Both her legs are broken. Thomas Summers and Edward Brown were in the car with the D'Zubias and were hurt. Their condition is not serious. They are still in the hospital.
Harold A. Stone, the driver of the car 12, is the second of those liable to die. His car jumped the Meadowbrook bridge killing the mechanic Mathew Bacon and throwing Stone clear. Both his legs were broken. It was first thought that his right leg would have to be amputated but it was not done at his own request.
Theodore Grammel, a chauffeur for Wilfred Taupier, of 542 West 112th street has slim chances to live. The car in which he was, was driven into a telegraph pole near the Garden City hotel and Grammel received internal injuries. Four others in the machine at the time were also hurt. Of the four, Cornell Reid of 875 West End avenue was the only one who could not be moved from the hospital. His leg is broken, but his condition is not serious.
Louis Chevrolet, the driver of the Marquette-Buick car No. 29, is still at the hospital suffering from shock and nervousness more than anything else. A bursting tire caused his machine to swerve off the road into a yard, where Chevrolet was thrown out and the mechanic was pinned underneath the machine and killed instantly.

GIRL FOUND SLAIN

Murderer Smoked a Cigarette After He Had Committed the Deed.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 4.—With her skull crushed and several gashes on her head and face, Miss Catherine Burke of Wilmington, Del., and once a resident of Philadelphia, was found dead in the dining room of a closed house early yesterday.
The discovery of the girl's body followed a search of the premises by the police. The police are now hunting for Thomas Lewis, the last person known to have seen the young woman alive.
The girl was known to have been infatuated with Mr. Lewis, whom she attempted to kill with a revolver several weeks ago on account of jealousy. The murderer, after the deed, smoked a cigarette, the stamp of which was found by the girl's side, before making his escape.

HER LOVER WAS A HOTEL WAITER

Young Woman Drowns Herself On Discovering the Deception.

Atlantic City, Oct. 4.—Discovering that the man who had laid siege to her affections was merely a hotel waiter instead of a wealthy visitor as she supposed him, Miss Anna M. Howe, sister of Frank Howe, Philadelphia theatrical manager and for years manager of the Walnut Street theater, cast herself into the sea here on the night of Sunday, Sept. 25.
The woman's body was found in the bay off Somers Point last Friday. Her identity was a deep mystery until parts of her outer clothing, wrapped around pathetic notes to her former lover were found on the beach here.
The corpse which is in the undertaker establishment at Pleasantville was later identified as that of Miss Howe by employes of the fashionable Hotel Windsor of this city where she was a guest when she decided to kill herself.
No address was found on the open farewells notes which the woman left. A sealed note was addressed, however, to Walter Crampton, a hotel waiter, who declared last night that he had not indulged in a love affair with the dead woman.
"Now I find that you have lied to me," said part of the note. "You are not what you said; you are a waiter. Of course I do not think that a man's work changes the color of his soul, but I hate to be deceived. To me it seems to me to be the lowest, the last resort. Try when you think of me to be truthful to other women and men. Do what you will, but don't lie."
Tried to Flitnam Professor.
New York, Oct. 4.—A man giving the name of Cook has been arrested at Geneva, N. Y., for trying to flitnam Professor Eaton of Hobart college out of $180. The man, it is learned, is much wanted for working his game in a number of cities. He has a number of aliases and his real name is as yet a matter of conjecture. Some of his victims have formed the Association of Easy Marks.

SEARCHING THE RUINS

Wrecked Times Building.

Twenty-one persons, it is now known, lost their lives in the explosion and fire which destroyed the plant of the Los Angeles Times on Saturday. Only five of the nineteen bodies buried in the ruins have been recovered when night fell, although scores of men worked all day removing the debris, while the police spent a hard day seeking clues to the perpetrators of the outrage.
One more arrest was made, but little real progress seems to have been made. The latest suspect, the third taken into custody, is Martin Egan, and he is an alleged anarchist. The police declined to say on what ground they arrested him.
Eighteen thousand five hundred dollars reward is now offered for the arrest of the persons who blew up the Times plant. The city council raised the city's reward from $5,000 to $10,000. In addition to this the union labor leaders have offered $7,500 and the other newspapers $1,000.

CAMDEN NEARLY WIPED OUT

Fire Destroyed Twenty Buildings, Including Several Business Blocks.

The village of Camden, a thriving community, situated 10 miles north of Rome, N. Y., was nearly wiped out by fire early Sunday.
The blaze started in the Whitney House from an unexplained cause and before it was brought under control, 29 buildings, including seven business blocks and 19 residences, were reduced to ashes.
The Camden fire department, reinforced by a large detachment of firemen and several pieces of apparatus from Rome, fought the flames several hours, but were handicapped in their efforts by insufficient water pressure.
Incendiarism is hinted at in connection with the fire, but nothing tangible along this line has developed. The loss will exceed $100,000.

The murder was a most brutal one. Ruggolino and all the members of his family were hacked to pieces with a hatchet. GAS KILLS MOTHER AND BOY

Patrolman Breaks in Door and Finds Both Dead in Bed.

New York, Oct. 4.—With her arms tightly clasped around the form of her six-year-old son, Mrs. Mary Yeager, 32 years old, was found dead in bed in her rooms at 238 East 89th street yesterday afternoon, a victim, with the little boy, of asphyxiation. She had turned on the gas, it is thought, and then lay down with her boy as her companion to await the death which, according to friends, she had sought twice within the last week.
A young woman living in the building smelled gas in the hallway. She traced the odor to the rooms occupied by Mrs. Yeager. When no one answered her repeated knocks at the door she called in a patrolman, who broke in. Dr. Patten of the Presbyterian hospital said that the mother and child had been dead for several hours.
Mrs. Yeager had been suffering from nervousness for some time, and about a year and a half ago separated from her husband.

The children, two and three years old, quarreled while playing together, and the mothers, who lived in the same house, became involved. A rough and tumble fight between the women was stopped by a policeman.
After the latter left the house neighbors heard Mrs. Monzo upbraiding Mrs. Marito. The latter walked down a flight upstairs with a revolver concealed behind her back, it is charged, and shot the other woman three times. She then picked up her three-year-old son and fled, but was later arrested.
