DEATH SONG SAVED COUPLE

Canary, Suffering From Gas, Trills, *Awakening Man and Wife.

A canary bird's death song saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Etero of Stamford, Conn. Gas thrown off by a coal fire i nthe kitchen range of their flat poisoned the bird.

Just before the bird became lifeless It burst forth into song, weak and quavering, but still sufficiently loud to swaken Mr. Etero. He arose with a sense of suffocation and nausea. He fell, but regained his feet with effort and staggered to a window. Opening the window, he called for help, then collapsed, Neighbors heard the cry for help and hurried to the apartment. They found Mr. Etero unconscious on the floor and his wife, seemingly lifeless, in bed in a room of the kitchen. The bird lay on its back in a cage near the range. Dr. Mead reached the place within a few minutes, and by constant attention for a long period, he brought

partment at 100 per cent. Mrs. Folger was on the table 10 bours before the transfusion of blood was stopped. When it was found that Folger did not rally and, in desperation, having no other volunteers at hand, the physicians consented to a second transfusion from Mrs. Folger to her husband. WIRELESS IS SILENT.

Unable to Get In Touch With Aviators of Wellman's Airship.

Just Before Sailing on Saturday the America's Crew Decided That If the Ocean Voyage to Europe Was Impracticable They Would Immediately Return to Atlantic City-All the High Power Wireless Stations Working Strenuously to Get In Touch With the America.

Atlantic City. N. J., Oct. 18 .- Assured that Walter Wellman and his crew aboard the airship America, believed to be at least a thousand miles from this city, will decide today whether to start the dash toward Europe, or to return to this city, family and friends of the men on board and managers of the expedition are awaiting what they expect to be the most important messages to be recaived from the America before her final success or fate is decided. Gathered together at the Hotel Chalfonte, Mrs. Wellman, her daughters Mrs. Vaniman, wife of the chief engineer of the expedition; Joseph W Salus, president of the local syndicate which backed Wellman; A. T. Bell, secretary of the company; Harry B. Cook of the Seadside, its treasarer, and a dozen partisans of Wellman await hour by hour the expected wireless flash that will tell of the decision Waiting Anxiously For Word.

Not a word has yet been received. but the anxious watchers believe that comething will be heard from the America in a few hours.

Definite information concerning the course, policy and probable action of the America's crew, decided upon within a half hour before the America sailed on Saturday morning, was given out for the first time last night,

"Mr. Wellman and ms men will return to this city the moment they decide that the ocean voyage is impracticable," declared Leroy Chamberlain, son-in-law of the leader of the expedition and Mr. Wellman's secretary-manager, "So far as we decide by study of the maps and charts which we have, the America has reached the point where it can be definitely decided whether there is a chance to reach Europe.

"It is almost safe to say that this decision is being reached now, or will be reached within the next few hours by the men aboard the America. "We will, of course, have no means of knowing what the decision is until we hear something from the America, out we have the greatest faith that Mr. Wellman and his men will attempt the desperate air trip to Europe." According to Mr. Chamberlain, the latest reports from the America support the belief that the big balloon and its crew is following the exact course laid out by Mr. Wellman and Engineer Vaniman days before the final departure was decided upon. "Unless something has happened to the America, or we hear of a change in the plans within the next few hours. we will be almost able to follow the theoretical course of the balloon by day and night," said Chamberlain. "At nightfall of today, I believe that the America is off St. Pierre, Newfoundland, and had turned towards the east, almost directly in the transatlantic steamship lane. "We have no means of verifying this, as yet, but are confident that some wireless message showing our calculations to be correct will reach some wireless point in the country soon.

Nothing since the startling news of Sunday morning that Wellman and his men had really left the city has created such a sensation as the announcement that the final dash for Europe would probably be decided

Hotel guests and cottagers, who are becoming widely excited over the possibility of the Wellman crew really un dertaking the 2,000 mile ocean flight are demanding the latest bulletins from newspaper and telegraph offices

Trying to Get Into Communication. "Bob" Miller, local wireless operstors, who for two days was the sole connecting link of information between the America and to anxious watchers on shore, is still attempting to get into communication with the balloon crew. He has spoken to at least a score of vessels, but has been unable to secure even the slightest message concerning the America.

"I have asked the highest power stations to attempt to speak to the America," he said last night, "If there is any chance of getting word from them we will do it. While it is extremely difficult to segregate the weak messages which are propably being sent out by the crew through the light plant of the America we hone to hear something that will relieve the anxiety of Mrs. Wellman and the other women before morning.

COLONEL ON SPEAKING TOUR

Lambasts Dix at Every Opportunity and Lauds Republican Nominee. Trov. N. Y., Oct. 18,-Mr. Roosevelt

beat his way up the Hudson in the interests of Mr. Stimson and the Republican ticket. He spent most of his time lambasting John A. Dix, whom he treated with the bitterest scorn. The colonel attacked him at every opportunity. The colonel attempted to justify again his criticism of the supreme court. He reiterated more vehemently than he did at Denver that the decision on the New York bake shop case was against state's rights. He used that point to bring out the fact that when Mr. Dix attacked Mr. Roosevelt for criticising the highest court in the land, Mr. Dix was placing himself in the position of opposing state's
