Republican Ticket.

- STATE: Governor, JOHN K. TENER, Washington County. Lieutenant Governor, JOHN M. REYNOLDS, Bedford County. Secretary of Internal Affairs, HENRY HOUCK, Lebanon County. State Treasurer, C. FRED WRIGHT, Susquehanna County. COUNTY: Congress, PETER M. SPEER, Venango County. State Senate, J. K. P. HALL, Elk County. Assembly, W. J. CAMPBELL, Tionesta Borough.

William J. Campbell, Republican nominee for Assembly, and the man who deserves and should receive every Republican vote in Forest county.

To the Republican Voters of Forest County.

The election on next Tuesday is one of vast importance, not only to the citizens of Forest county, but to the business interests of the entire country, and we trust that the R-publican voters of Forest will not lose sight of this fact. That the defeat of the Republican party at this time and the election of a Democratic Congress, and the success of the opposition to Republican principles and policies in Pennsylvania means a stagnation in business, goes without saying. The business of the country is already somewhat depressed in anticipation of a change in the political complexion of Congress and the success of the enemies of protection in Pennsylvania. The same arguments and schemes are now being used that were employed by our opponents to induce Republicans to split their tickets when a change in the administration was secured during the last panic, when the business of the whole country was paralyzed and the Democratic party in Congress afflicted the country with the Wilson bill, causing the wheels of business to stop, factories, mills and manufacturing plants to suspend operations, unemployed labor everywhere, stringency in money, bank failures, low prices for farm products, so many to buy, lumber a drug on the market, government bonds sold to pay the running expenses of the government, and no relief until, under a Republican administration, the McKinley bill was passed and confidence restored. All our factories and manufacturing plants everywhere took on new life, all laboring men were at work, and all this brought about by Republican rule and Republican policies. Are the Republicans going to take chances again, and assist the party into power in 1910 that caused such distressing times as those experienced under former Democratic rule? Surely not, if they take time to consider the effect of such a course. The only safe way is for the Republicans to weigh carefully all of the questions in this campaign, and not let personal likes and dislikes deter them from performing all their duties as electors towards the party that has always secured prosperity by wise and careful legislation. All kinds of false rumors are afloat, but the safe and sure way is to vote the straight Republican ticket, for we have not always been justified in this course, and are not the achievements of the Republican party, both in peace and war, something to be proud of? C. A. RANDALL, Chairman.

Stuart's Indorsement of Tener.

For nearly four years Edwin S. Stuart has conducted the affairs of Pennsylvania as its chief executive. In the campaign of 1906 he was the Republican candidate for Governor. Rarely has there been a political battle such as that was. Mr. Stuart had led an honorable life, but that fact did not prevent the vilification of Pennsylvania and the libelers of Philadelphia and the agitators from assailing him on the stump. The people were told that if elected the State would go to the dogs; that he did not own himself; that he was the candidate of "horses," and as such must bow to them. All sorts of evils were predicted. Not only was he the target for the caustic of political highwaymen in Philadelphia and for the hypocrites in politics everywhere to fire at, but men entirely honest in their opinions—mistaken, but honest—argued and voted against him. Rudolph Blankenburg was one of those who stumped the State and did his best to defeat Stuart. William H. Berry was active in his denunciations. What happened? The majority of the people were not to be fooled. They supported Stuart and he was elected. And there has followed an administration that has proved to be a model. There is, and can be, no just criticism of the Stuart administration. On the contrary, it is admitted even by his former fierce opponents that the Republican administration of the affairs of Pennsylvania stands without a blemish. To-day another Republican candidate, pledged to carry out the Stuart policies, is before the people, and once more the same agitation is heard throughout the State. Tener cannot own himself, they tell us, just as they said of Stuart when the latter was the candidate. Governor Stuart has won by splendid service the right to be considered a straightforward and level-headed man. He knows just what estimate to place upon the political frothings of men with an itch to seize upon the government of Pennsylvania. He knows how mistaken honest men may be. He is in a position, through actual experience, to size up the present situation. When Governor Stuart speaks, he speaks with sincerity, and when he presides over a Republican meeting, as he did over the tremendous ovation to Tener, which aroused all Harrisburg, he presides because he believes that it is the right and honest thing to do. When he says of Tener, as he did in his presentation speech, "I am satisfied that he will do what he promises you he will do, and I say that with all sincerity," he means precisely that. Governor Stuart has confidence in Tener. And so have we.

Tener Favors Good Roads.

In a public speech before an immense audience at Reading last week, Hon. John K. Tener, the Republican candidate for Governor, expressed himself positively in favor of public road improvement through state aid, and for liberal appropriations for the same. He also, in the same speech, declared himself as emphatically opposed to an automobile road from Philadelphia to Pittsburg. Nothing that Mr. Tener has said in his many speeches has so thoroughly met with the approval of the farmers and taxpayers throughout the state as these positive declarations, and undoubtedly his stand on these matters will bring him support from thousands of voters who have waited in vain for a similar declaration from either of the other candidates.

The farmer has one great method of financial salvation—that of going directly to market with his goods and selling to the final consumer himself. The rival of the railroad is not the auto, but the horse. Millions upon millions of tons of freight never gets aboard the cars at all. The extension of the possible area for horse and wagon deliveries from the farm by reason of good roads is the most important industrial development of the new century. The improvement of highways is of more importance to the farmer than all tariffs, taxes and political parties combined, provided the parties in power do not plunge the country in war or disturb the money system. The saving of time and the ability to get to market and back profitably will do more for the mass of the people than any other one improvement.

Now, who can give us millions for good roads? Can Grim, if elected? The House and Senate divided will never work together for the spending of millions. They ought, but they won't.

Can Berry do it? No more than Grim can.

Can Tener and a straight Republican administration do it? They can and will. Tener is an enthusiast on the subject. He said in his speech: "I will urge the building of state roads throughout the state connecting county seats and cities, not an automobile road from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, but one that will go into every county and be maintained by the state." He will have back of him, if Governor, the united support of the Senate and House and the sentiment of the Commonwealth, cities and all. We shall have an era of good road-building unequalled in the history of the United States in any commonwealth. It will be money well spent; it will be money paid as taxes by railroads and other corporations; it will be money spent among the people of the state, and it will be the means of adding to the income of every farmer and every other citizen. The campaign slush being printed as to Tener will do no harm if it does not result in his defeat, but if it should by any miracle do so, that slush will be in the roads all over the state in the form of sticky, clogging, profit-destroying mud.

The congressional district, of which Forest county is a part, will be carried by the Republicans at the coming election according to the careful collection of information by Success Magazine as to the probable outcome of elections of Congressional candidates. This means that the Elk-Mercer-Venango-Warren-Forest district will send P. M. Speer, of Oil City, to Congress. Mr. Speer is a broad-minded, deep-thinking man and will represent the district in a most creditable manner. A vote for him is a vote to sustain the policies of President Taft's splendid administration and against the free trade and ruinous Democratic policies.

It should be borne in mind that the Keystone party, of which Wm. H. Berry is the head, has endorsed 21 Democratic Congressional candidates in this state, and is trying to elect them to Congress. The same party has also endorsed nearly every Democratic Legislative candidate in the State. But not one Republican candidate has received its endorsement, either Congressional or Legislative. Can any thinking Republican swallow this dose by voting the Keystone party ticket? Can't you see the cloven hoof of Democracy behind it? Think it over, and then vote the straight Republican ticket.

In his speech at Buffalo last evening ex-President Roosevelt made this solid hit: "Fourteen years ago I was in Buffalo speaking in the campaign for Mr. McKinley against Bryan, and at that time our opponents held the Republicans responsible because prices were too low. You remember that Mr. Bryan's great complaint was that we never would get wheat up to the dollar limit. Now 14 years after, the complaint is that prices are high. * * * Our opponents play the demagogue part, for they say we are to blame for high prices and that if they are put in power prices will be made low."

There is food for reflection in these words of Mr. Roosevelt.

Eels Clogged Waterwheel. Employees of the flour mill of J. A. S. Griess & Co., at Pottstown, Pa., made an investigation of the cause of a decrease in the water power and found nine large eels lodged in the waterwheel. They weighed 40 pounds, the largest being 40 inches in length.

CANADIAN RECIPROcity

Tariff Board Making Investigations Regarding Wood Pulp Pulp Wood and Print Paper.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Members of the tariff board are concentrating the work of investigation on subjects relating to Canadian reciprocity. They are making special investigations in regard to wood pulp, pulp wood and print paper and their first report to the president will probably be on this subject. Next in importance in the scheme of reciprocity are lumber and citrus fruits.

United States supplies nearly all of the citrus fruits consumed in Canada. President Taft directed the members of the tariff board to suspend their investigation of the chemical schedule and other lines of search for the present and get together the necessary information which will be made the basis for action looking to reciprocity with Canada.

The board will not entirely suspend work on the woolen schedule, but the report will be first made on those schedules that relate to the Canadian trade.

Pedestrian Jailed at Butler. J. McKay of Providence, R. I., who claims to be walking from Pittsburg to Cleveland on a wager, is in the Butler, Pa., jail charged with threatening to kill Mrs. Mary Ralston, a farmer's wife. McKay says he was to get $100 if he walked to Cleveland in a definite time and get his meals by begging without working or paying. He started from Pittsburg penniless.

Near Pottersville, Muddy Creek township, he was refused at a number of farm houses, and when he was refused by Mrs. Ralston, it is said, he drew a gun and threatened to shoot her. Her screams were heard by Ralston and two farm hands, and after a chase of a mile, McKay was captured. Justice John Tebay of West Liberty committed the walker to jail.
