The exploding boller of a freight locomotive rose from its tracks at 30th street, Altonia, Pa., on the Pennsylvania railroad and falling over the adjoining track, was struck, while yet in midalr by the locomotive of a train coming up from behind. The remark able wreck that was caused brought death to three trainmen and caused injuries to three others. The first engine struck the falling boiler and hurled it over an embankment 300 feet from where it had left the engine trucks. The impact derailed two locomotives hauling the express train and threw them against the freight train, knocking over several freight cars.

Railroad shop experts who examined the exploded boiler immediately after the accident declared that the explosion was caused by low water.

COUNT TOLTOY DEAD

Aged Author Was Unconscious When

Wife Entered Death Chamber, Count Tolstoy, who died Sunday at Astapovo, passed away ten days after he had left his home at Yasnaya Poliana in search of solitude and peace of soul.

The physicians allowed his wife and family to enter the death chamber but the count was unconscious. There were six doctors in attendance, two of chem being heart specialists, who had been summoned from Moscow on Friday. Their presence drew a characteristic remark from the patient Salurday when he was recovering from the second of the three violent cardiac attacks which preceded his last hours.
