CLEAN BILL FOR THE LEADERS

Principles and Policies of Republican Party Sustained by the Voters

SELF-SEEKING IS A FAILURE

Mushroom Parties Have Come and Gone With Great Regularity to Satisfy Personal Greed and Grievances. Senator Oliver Announces For Re-election.

John K. Tener was elected Governor of Pennsylvania by a plurality of 33,484 votes. John M. Reynolds, the Republican lieutenant governor-elect, had a plurality of 122,018, and Henry Houck was re-elected secretary of internal affairs by a plurality of 175,892 votes. The mendacious raid made upon Mr. Tener at the wind-up of the contest reduced his plurality considerably, but the votes given to the other candidates on the Republican State ticket established beyond question that the fight was personal and in no sense political. The principles and policies of the regular Republican organization in Pennsylvania was approved in a substantial way. The leadership of the Republican party in the State was given a clear bill of health, and in the reduced plurality given to Mr. Tener the voters were given an exhibition of what threatens when the self-seekers unlimber their mud batteries to clear the way for their own advancement. In the entire State the official figures show that Mr. Tener received 415,611 votes. Edwin S. Stuart, four years ago received 506,418 votes, or 90,807 votes more than were cast for Mr. Tener. Four years ago Lewis Emery, Jr., a frantic reformer and the accepted leader of the political discontents of the State, polled 458,054 votes, or 75,927 more votes than were polled for W. H. Berry at the recent State contest. John M. Reynolds, the lieutenant governor-elect, received a total of 429,874 votes, while D. Clarence Gibbons, the perpetual place-hunter who has been whipped for every place from ward constable to the office to which he last aspired, received 307,854 votes, or a difference of 122,018 in favor of Mr. Reynolds. Hardly sufficient margin of justification for the wrecking of the Democracy of the State.

There are indications, however, that the Democracy will refuse to stay wrecked. That ancient organization really fattens on defeat and political parties have come and gone with great regularity ever since the voters of the State refused to send John W. Wamaker to the United States Senate. With Mr. Wamaker in the United States Senate the now discontents would have been the regular organization and until that wonderful feat is in some way accomplished political parties must be expected to come and go just so long as the voters are willing to be fooled and tricked into following the false pretenders. The floating of new political parties in Pennsylvania became a fine art away back in 1898. Before that time there had been the Greenback party, the Prohibition party and the Republican and Democratic parties. The Greenbackers retired that year and in their stead came the Peoples party, the Liberty party, the Honest Government party and the Socialist-Labor party. The several new parties died during the next four years and in their stead came the Anti-Machine party, the Citizens party, the Ballot Reform party and the Socialists party without the Labor contingent. During the next four years a majority of these mushroom parties gave up the ghost and were followed by the Commonwealth party, the Lincoln party, the Referendum party and the Union Labor party. And now, at the present moment, or at least at the recent State contest, we find that several of the political isms have passed to eternal rest and in their stead we have the Keystone party, the Industrialists party and the Workingmen's League party with the Republican party, the Democratic party, the Prohibition party and the Socialists still alive and kicking and likely to be in that position after the organized discontents have shifted about for some name which may appeal with more force to the voters

For the time, however, the Democrats must take their place with the also-rans. Humbled and beaten they have been the victims of ambitions which have been dangerous to their organization.

HILPRECHT MAKES CHARGES

Former Professor Says His Office at U. of P. Was Broken Open.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—Dr. Herman V. Hilprecht, who resigned two days ago as head of the department of Assyriology and Semitic philology and archaeology at the University of Pennsylvania, in his letter of resignation, openly charges that, while he was away on his vacation last summer, his office was broken into, his desk was ransacked and many valuable papers were stolen.

The hardest blow of all, he declared, was that he discovered that the ancient tablets he had excavated from the mounds at Babylon and deposited in the university museum, the tablets with the inscriptions upon which he had based his most famous theories, had been mutilated, defaced and in some cases stolen.

The charges of Dr. Hilprecht have caused a furore among the university trustees. They have taken sides, and Samuel F. Houston, one of the most influential members of that body, has resigned, in sympathy with Dr. Hilprecht. Dr. Houston, who is a member of the class of '87, has always taken a keen interest in archaeological matters, and the splendid building at the university devoted to the collections possessed by this department was erected largely through his efforts and contributions.

REUNITED AFTER 40 YEARS

Scranton Man Finds Mother in Stamford, Conn.

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 22.—Mrs. William Bowie disappeared from Scranton, Pa., forty years ago, leaving behind her four children, three boys and a girl, the eldest about eight years old. For more than 20 years she has been living in Stamford with her third husband, Samuel Potter, and her son, John C. Bowie of 611 Adams avenue. Scranton, found her here. A desire to atone for the wrong she was led to do 40 years ago is behind yesterday's reunion.

Of the children, the only one to retain the name Bowie was the son John. He became a blacksmith, established a business of his own and prospered. A month or so ago his mother became ill. Fearing that she was about to die she wrote a letter to John Bowie, Scranton, Pa., told him who she was and asked him to come to see her.

In the course of time the letter was delivered to John C. Bowie. He wrote to the mayor of Stamford, and learned that there was a Mrs. Samuel Potter at the address given. After further investigation he and his wife came here.

TURKEY PRICES SOAR

Forty Cents a Pound Asked For Choice Fowls at Reading.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 22.—Unless there is a big drop in the price of turkeys, the fowl will be missing from many tables on Thanksgiving day. Turkeys are quoted at 40 cents a pound dressed for the choicest and the live ones bring from 28 to 30 cents a pound.

In the larger cities they are much cheaper, and yet Reading is in the heart of the rural district where thousands of the turkeys are raised annually. Housekeepers here are satisfied that the Berks farmers have formed a "trust," and will use every effort to make them come down in their prices.

Several enterprising dealers have arranged for large shipments from other states, which they say they will sell at 20 cents a pound. In this event the "trust" will be broken and farmers will be glad to get rid of their birds at any fair price.

Snowball Injury Serious.

Port Clinton, Pa., Nov. 22.—Miss Ellen Nolan is in a dying condition at her home in Port Clinton. About a week ago a snowball, thrown by a mischievous urchin, struck Miss Nolan in the side, and although nothing serious was apprehended from the blow, inflammation set in and there is a grave probability of the young woman losing her life.

Unsubtle Trick.
A teacher at a Birmingham school was endeavoring to explain the term "hooking" as applied to our railway system, says London Tit-Bits.

"Now," he was saying, "can any of you tell me the name of the office at which railway tickets are sold?"
"The booking office," replied one of the lads.

"Right," responded the teacher. At this moment his eye fell on a small boy at the end of the class who was evidently paying very little attention to what was said.
"Did you hear that, Spry?" he demanded.
"Wot, sir?" asked that youth innocently.

"As I thought you were not listening, we will suppose your father decided to have a day's holiday and visit the seaside. What would he have to do before he could take his seat in the train?"

Without a moment's thought the youngster electrified his teacher by replying:

"Pawn his tools!"

Arsenic.
Arsenic is mined in Japan, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Germany, England and, within a limited area, in the United States. Its uses are many. As a poison it has been known from very early times. The peasant women of Austria consume large quantities of it, having faith in its virtues as a beautifier, and the men of the same region are addicted to its use in the mistaken belief that it increases their bodily strength and endurance.
