ARMY MARKING TIME

Orders For Movement of Troops Is Countermanded.

Sudden Change of Front, Which Is Known to Have Been Dictated From Washington, Has Left Commanders and Privates on the Raw Edge of Indecision-Insurrectos Will Tie Up Railroad Line South of Laredo.

San Antonio, March 21.-Something has happened in Washington, or is happening there, to bring about a radical change in orders regulating the immediate movements of the division of the army now mobilized on the big plain at Fort Sam Houston reservation.

Sunday one squad of cavalry was waiting orders to jump westward on a train of the Southern Pacific lines which has been assembled and lay ready for instant departure and regimental commanders of every unit in the encampment had reason to believe that within a fortnight they would be commanding their men on campaigns, leaving their tents and heavy impedimenta standing behind them.

Yesterday orders instituting the partial and temporary disintegration of the division were issued and the train which was to carry the Eleventh cavalry squardron to Pecos river and further West still stands ready but empty.

Sudden Change of Front. This sudden change of front, which is known to have been dictated from Washington some time within the last 12 hours, has left commanders and high privates equally on the raw edge of indicision. The puzzlement produced is complete.

Whenever a correspondent poked his head in a colonel's tent he was seized, set on a cot and told to deliver what he knew about the why and wherefore of the thing; what was doing at Washington. There was nothing but rumor and speculation from end to end of the mile-long division streets.

At the offices of the Southern Pacific freight yards it was said that the string of 100 stock cars had not been broken and anyone could go and look at the 13 Pullman and tourists sleepers that had been hurriedly put together in the late hours of Saturday night. This dispite the fact that in the afternoon General Carter stated with emphasis that no orders whatever had been given to the railroads to hold cars in readiness for immediate requisition.

The strongest indication that a possible movement of the troops to the border or beyond within the next few days had received countermanding orders from the war department, lay in the announcement made at division headquarters that General F. A. Smith, commander of the First brigade, had been given permission to march his brigade to Leon Springs for maneuvers. General Smith's brigade comprises the Eleventh, Fifteenth and Eighteenth infantry regiments.

This means that about 4,000 men will be withdrawn from the forces at Fort Sam Houston for a week when the permission to move is carried out. The brigade will occupy two days on the march each way to the army reservation at Leon Springs and will spend three days in maneuvers and rifle practice there.

Rebels Will Tie Up Railroads. When Alfonso Madero was asked concerning the report brought up here from the state of Coajuilo that the insurrectos there had planned to stop communication on the line of the national railroads of Mexico south of Laredo, he said that such a report was After today, he said, no trains would run on that line south of the Ameriran border. The line would be taken because the Diaz forces had been moved over the lines from the south to the affected districts around Saltillo and Montrey.

No confirmation of Madero's threat could be had at the offices of the National railway in San Antonio or from the I & G. N. offices at the connecting point, Laredo.

Reports of three days' fighting in the neighborhood of Saltillo were brought up to San Antonio on the northbound express.

BRYAN'S 51ST BIRTHDAY

Nearly 1,500 Men Celebrate It at a Dollar Dinner In Lincoln.

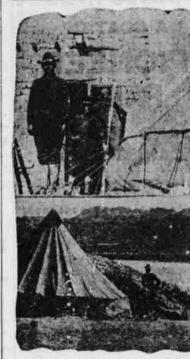

Lincoln, Neb., March 21. - Nearly 1,500 men joined last night in celebration of William Jennings Bryan's fifty-first birthday, sitting down to a dollar dinner at the Auditorium and from distinguished Democrats.

There were many present from outside the state and several from outside Nebraska. The event was principally intended to convey to those who again have been burying Bryan Of Wall Paper, Paints and that they must postpone that interesting ceremony.

Seated with Mr. Bryan at the guest table, were a number of distinguished Democrats of the nation. Vice Chair man Hall officiated as toastmaster and speeches were made by Speaker Champ Clark on "Cannonism Overthrown," by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska on "Election of Senators by Direct Vote," by Senator Kern of Indiana on "The Tariff."

Rev. William Crane, pastor of the Christian church, was the leader of the drys till a week ago, when he appeared on the street drunk and soon after left the city deserting his family. It is charged by the drys that he was drugged by the wets and was then advised to leave the city to escape the disgrace of the condition in which they had placed him. Crane had once been a drinking man and once said if he ever took a drink it would prove his complete downfall.

What means the wets used to get him to take a drink is not known but he appeared on the streets intoxicated and disappeared before he sobered up. He has not since been seen.

CRAZY PEDDLER WANTED A MILLION

Was Arrested In Bank and Sent to Bellevue Hospital.

New York, March 21.-A shirt waist peddler twirled open the heavy revolving doors of the National City bank, marched past various questioning attendants in the rotunda and up to the railing before the cashier's desk where he demanded a million dollars. Owing to his having warned the bank officials of his coming a few days previous, he was attended to with proper haste. Six special policemen and a few handy clerks downed him where he stood, hustled him down stairs in the basement of the big building and into one of the locker rooms where he was detained until the policemen took him o the station house He was sent to the insane ward at Bellevue hospital. In the station house he told Lieutenant Kenney that his name was received. He further stated that some day soon he was going to again visit the bank and demand that he be handed a bank roll of $1,000,000. If he did not get that money something startling was going to happen to the bank and all its officials.

SUMMONED TO WASHINGTON

Postmasters of Several Cities Will Confer Looking to Reorganization of Their Offices. Washington, March 21.-Postmaster General Hitchcock has summoned to Washington the postmasters at Boston, Brooklyn, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Toledo, Capton, Cincinnati and Norfolk for a conference looking to the re-organization of these offices. The plan of organization which was first recommended two years ago will permit a more perfect utilization of working forces. Postoffices will be organized in two divisions as a division of mails and a division of finance, thus consolidating under one superintendent all work relating to the receipt, dispatch and delivery of mails and under another superintendent all financial matters. It will make possible certain economies without any loss in efficiency. In the past year, according to officials, the plan has been tried experimentally with success at a number of cities including Rochester.
