ENDS LIFE WITH ACID

Despondent Girl Takes Her Life at Corry, Pa.

Every Effort Made to Save the Life of the Young Woman Proved Unavailing-Was in Milburn Private Hospital When the Deed Was Committed - Coroner Returns Verdict of Suicide-Other Items of General Interest to the Busy Reader.

Miss Lottie Dugan, aged 21 years, resident of Youngsville, committed suicide at the Milburn Private hospital at Corry, Pa., Sunday morning. The girl is said to have been employed as a -domestic in various homes there for several years and was always bright and cheerful. Recently she became despondent and then went to the hospital, it is said.

She arose as usual and about 10 o'clock, took a bottle containing carbolic acid and swallowed the contents. Prompt medical attention was unavailing, and she passed away in a short time, 'The coroner's inquest found that she came to her death by

CORNING MAN SUICIDES

Was Wanted In Milwaukee, Wis., Far Forgery.

Charles Tapper, who was a glass worker in Corning, N. Y., killed himself by sending a bullet into his brain after wounding Patrolmen William Cooley and Raymond Brooder of the Corning police force, who had placed him under arrest.

Tapper had for several months been in Milwaukee, but returned to Corning Tuesday. Thursday the Corning police were advised from Milwankee to arrest Tapper for being implicated in a forgery there.

Cooley and Brooder went to the home of John Tapper, a brother, and enquired for Charles Tapper. As they were preparing to search the house the fugitive escaped from the rear of the building. The officers started in hot pursuit, and he opened fire on them with a revolver. A running fight followed, in which Brooder was shot through the shoulder and Cooley in the arm. Tapper escaped in the darkness, but it was evident from a trail of blood that he was wounded.

Later he was discovered hiding in the barn of Charles Reynolds. He was overcome with exhaustion and covered with blood. The police were notified, and as the officers surrounded the barn, Tapper, thinking he was about to be arrested for the murder of an officer, placed the revolver to his head and blew out his brains.

Phillips Commits Suicide.

Addison Phillips, the Oakfield (N. Y.) farmer charged with murdering his mother-in-law, Mrs. George Addison, at West Parre, N. Y., committed spicide Friday morning, by hanging himself in his cell in the jail at Albion, N. Y. Phillips had been shot while trying to escape after the crime and some fear had been expressed that he would not recover. He seemed. however, to be out of danger and was lodged in a cell next to Salvatore Incrimona, the Italian who is held for the murder of a countryman some Railroad Planning For Right of Way. The Hornell & Dansville Railroad company is obtaining options for the purchase of a right of way along the east side of Lincoln street in Danville, N. Y., to be used for the construction of its road. A few years ago this company applied to the court for permission to construct its road along Lincoln street, but at that time, at the request of adjoining property owners, the board of trustees took up the matter and opposed the appropriating of a street for railroad purposes and the court sustained the village authorities on this question.

Miss Higgins to Be Married.

Word was received at Olean, N. Y. of the engagement of Miss Josephine Higgins, only daughter of the late Governor Higgins, to M. Emile Hovelaque of Paris. Miss Higgins has been touring Europe for the past few months. The young couple met two years ago in Egypt and have been very close friends ever since and to some the announcement of the engagement is no surprise.

LABORERS AWFUL PLIGHT

Falls Down a Grain Chute and Stands on His Head All Night

Until Rescued. A strange accident that caused its victim to stand on its head all night occurred to Charles Stokes, a laborer at Auburn, N. Y., last Sunday night when seeking a place to sleep in the barn of Attorney John Hunter. He poked his head into a grain chute in the lofts and fell forward diving into the dark tube.

His arms were jammed against the sides and he struck the chaff at the bottom, the softness of which probably saved him a broken neck. His shouts were unheard and after struggling to exhaustion be gave up the fight and was held a prisoner all

Early in the morning Dwight Maycomber, a caretaker, found Stokes who had been his companion yesterday, and with the aid of the police rescued the man and sent him to the city hospital. He will recover.

HOLDING AGUA PRIETA

Mexican Regulars Are Unable to Dislodge the Insurrectos.

Hurricane of Bullets Fly Through Douglas and a Few Citizens Are Hit, None Seriously - Whole Section of the City Is Deserted by the People - Custom House Was Under Heavy Fire - Cavalrymen Hit by Stray Bullets.

Douglas, Ariz., April 18 .- A battle opening yesterday morning at 6 o'clock waged practically all day in Agua Prieta opposite this point. The rebels still hold their position and have captured two federal rapid fire guns. The loss of life has been heavy, the federal loss last evening being estimated at from 100 to 200,

At 1 o'clock the rebel commander at Agua Prieta, estimated the federal dead at 75. The rebel losses were at the time 20 dead and 50 wounded. The rebels had brought 20 dead into the town of Agua Prieta and the federals' loss must be a great deal heavi-The federal troops disregarded the United States government's warnings and threw promises into the fire, elevated their aim and bullets car-

Section of City Deserted.

The whole section of the city beween Fifth street and the border line was deserted. The American custom house was under heavy fire and the citizens sheltered there took refuge in a deep ditch.

Jack Hamilton, 14 years old, from Naco, Ariz. standing on a building at the corner of Sixth street and Railread avenue, half a mile north of the international line, was struck by a spent mauser bullet. It pierced his coat and shirt and the point entered the flesh of the left breast. The boy gamely got up and pulled the bullet out and put it in his pocket for a sou-

Oscar K. Goll of Tombstone, a news paper man, was shot in the side of the head on Fourth street. He was the first American wounded on the American side during the battle yesterday. The bullet cut a long gash in the scalp along the side of his head. Pullets struck the residence of Robert Hae on Fifth street and A. W. Darr, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., on Eighth street. The families moved out,

Colonel Shunk, commanding the American troops, said he could not do anything about it, having no orders from Washington. The Second Street school in Douglas was under fire all morning. No attempt was made to hold school there or at the Seventh street school. The American custom house was under heavy fire. American officials took refuge in a big ditch along the railroad tracks. The schools were dismissed at noon.

Some cavalry horses boited and ran across the line into Agua Prieta. The cavalry was down to Fifth street, where they were sheltered by adobe buildings.

In the first attack the federals were epulsed. After a short rest they attacked again, then hesitated for a short time and resumed the attack the third time. The rest of the day the fighting was almost continuous. The builets hailed thick in various parts of Douglas and many people were struck. The first attempt of the federal Mexican troops to retake the port of Agua Prieta from the rebels resulted in their repulse. The first battle raged for two hours, commencing at 6:20, the federals crossing the open country and attacking the rebel treuches.

Heavy Firing Is Renewed. By 9:30 heavy firing was renewed, although the federal machine guns were heard no more and had been put out of commission. The rebel trenches along the international line were enenged. More than 1,500 federals were pitted against the robol garrison of 1,000. At 10:20 the firing had ceased with the federals holding every position occu pied at the begining of the batttle The rebels began digging trenches at once. Red Lopez reported the rebel losses in the trenches light. He said the federals in advancing across the open ground had tost heavily. At 11 a m. fiving again began to the north and southwest, but no machine guns were in action. Lopez said the federal right wing extended from the international line, two miles east of Douglas, in a semi circle to a point due south of Agua Prieta. Six hundred rebels occupied rifle pits with 500 yards range of the federal lines. The rebel line conformed to that of the federals.

Charles A. Hill was born in Chenango county, N. Y., August 27, 1831, and died at his home in Tionesta, Pa., April 17 1911, having reached the age of 79 years, 7 months and 20 days. In 1848 his parents moved from New York state to Tidioute, he coming with them but located in Hickory township where he had secured employment in the lumber woods, The same year he was united in marriage with Mary J., daughter of Wil-liam and Nancy (Gates) Wolcott, one of the early settlers of this county. To them were born nine children, six of whom, Mrs. Peter Lindal, of Sherman, N. Y., Truman L., of Hickory township, Perry C., Mrs. James Butler, Mrs. J. A. Adams, and Mrs. Urban Mong, of Tionesta, survive to comfort their aged wather. mother. Also two adopted children, S. W. Farmer, of Tichoute, and Mrs, Gertrude Mong, of Fairport, Oh. Mr. Hill was a man of more than or mary ability and from his youth was greatly interested in the problems which concerned the prosperity of the nation. It is not surprising then that while he had been married for fourteen years and had a family dependent upon him, and a home that was exceptionally pleasant, he respond-ed to the call of the President and en-listed on August 11, 1862, in Company G, 83rd Regiment, Pennsylvania Voluneers, and with his loyal and patriotic soul stirred with the conditions of the time, made a most brave and faithful soldier, participating in the battles of Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville and the Wilderness, in this last battle his right hand was shattered by a rebel bullet and on account of this wound he was honorably discharged after two and one-half years of service. In his military life he sustained the proud record of the Hill family, his father having been a soldier in the War of 1812 and faithfully served the Government during that struggle. He was a charter member of Captain Geo. Stow Post, No. 274, of the G. A. R. serving as its commander for many years. After he returned home he worked for some time at his trade, that of a black-smith, and in 1866 joined the tide that was sweeping toward the western states and for the next seven years was a resident of Lodi, Wisconsin. The memories of the old and familiar scenes in Pennsylvania made him dissatisfied with the west, and with his family he returned to this vicinity and purchased the farm formerly owned by his father-in-law, now the property of the County, and continupurchased a home in Tionesta. living on the farm he filled with great acceptability a number of local offices in the township and in 1881 was elected an Associate Judge of the county. While filling this position he had the oppor-tunity of emphasizing the temperance principles which he had espoused years before, and no license was granted by his voice while he was on the bench. his home life he was an ideal husband and father, and the children who mourn subject of litigation by persons in to each and all. He was a man of refined sensibilities, the coarse and impure word had no place in his vocabulary and his soul was often filled with righteous indignation at the estimate of life held by too many, He had the privilege of being raised in a christian home, his father, Frederick Hill, being a devoted member of the Free Will Baptist church and one of his brothers was a minister in that denomination. In 1849, Rev. Smith, a clergyman of that faith, was colding a meeting in East Hickory, and Mr. Hill was converted and united with that church, but afterwards withdrew from that organization. A few years later he united with the Methodist Episcopal church and since 1878 has been an official in the same. For many years he held an exhorters license and held meetings in several places with pleasure and the church of his choice and the pastor could always rely upon his presence and support, he was especially gifted in prayer and those who knew him best will always remember with satisfaction the petitions he offered in the public congregation. At the time of his death he was illing the position of Court Crier, having een appointed to this office several years ago. For the past seven years he has not been in good health, but with the exception of an occasional attack of accute kidney trouble, he has been able to be on the street almost every day and when he was taken sick last Wednesday it was hoped that he would soon rally and be able to attend to his duties, but he steadily failed and on Monday morning his spirit left his weary body as gently as the dew rises from the petals of the June rose. Beside his widow and children he is survived by one brother, George T., of Ostrander, Washington, fourteen grand-children and eleven great grand-children. Funeral services will be held at his late home this Wednesday at 2 p. m., with inter-ment in the Mt. Collins cemetery, Rev. W. O. Calhoun officiating.
