The Commencement of the Tionesta High School was held in the court house

Wednesday evening, May 3d. The class consisted of five young genemen and five young ladies, which represented a fine specimen of Tionesta's ociety, and in the opinion of many, the strongest, intellectually, ever graduated from the school.

The music was furnished by Coleman's full orchestra of Titusville, and at 8:00 p. m, the class entered, arranging themselves in a semi-circle amidst the abundant and beautiful decorations of ferns, palms and flowering plants, with a class pennant of 1911 here and there to indicate that class spirit and patriotism for the T. H. S. was not torgotten.

The audience was composed largely of relatives and friends of the graduates who expressed their approbation and good will by their close attention and frequent applause. After music by the orchestra and invocation by Rev. H. A. Bailey, the members of the class took their parts and tum to attend the funeral of George each was welcomed and the production as a factor in government. "Political approved by a hearty applause. Miss Margaret Haslet spoke of Julia Ward Howe as "An American Jewel," made her life so rich is something subtler than that of the woman given solely to literature, reform or society. The woman herself is greater than anything she has done. It is said that perseverence built the pyramids to be used to secure evidence to convict coming by way of Nebraska, and attended on Egypt's plains, opened a highway through the watery wilderness of the Atlantic, leveled the forests of the new world and reared in its stead a community of states and nations. Perseverence and American enthusiasm has cut the Gordian knot in the capal zone and will complete one of the greatest wonders of the world,' Miss Janet Jamieson then gave an interesting oration on Irrigation. She said: "The greatest advantage of irrigation is not only that it assures moisture regardless of the weather, but that it is possible to apply the moisture just when and where it is needed. For instance on some cloudless day the strawberry patch looks thirsty and cries for water through the language of its leaves, while the sugar best craves only for the sunshine and although it may not rain on that day but if it should, it would rain alike on all, on the strawberry which would be benefited by it and on the sugar beet which crave only for the sunshine. Thus by irrigation the farmer is able to send water from his canal through the furrows which divide the lines of the strawberry plants, but permis the water to go singing past

> Offers a Reward for the Punishment of Bribery.

Following the election of County Superintendent of Schools of Forest County on the second day of this month there have been rumors current that some of the directors were offered money to influence their votes in the convention. If bribery was accomplished or attempted, the person or persons guilty of of giving or offering a bribe should be punished. The question of honest elections is one that interests every law-abiding citizen reward of ($100) one hundred dollars for evidence to convict any one guilty of giving or offering to give money to any school director in Forest county on Tues day, May 2d, 1911, or at any date prior thereto to influence his vote for County didate for superintendent I further offer to contribute the sum o ($100) one hundred dollars toward a fund any person or persons guilty of bribing or attempting to bribe any school director, and invite contributions from others who believe that it is time the ille gal use of money in elections should be stopped, and those guilty of such practice convicted and punished. R. O. CARSON.
