STABBED BY WOMAN.

Police Say She Did It to Protect Herself.

Had a Seven-Month-Old Baby in Her Arms at the Time—Was Waiting Outside Saloon For Her Escort
When Man She Cut Annoyed Her.
Wound Not Serious—Other Items of General Interest.

William Schilling, 21 years old, was stabbed in the breast with a knife about midnight Saturday night in a quarrel outside a saloon at Beaver and East Second streets, Dunkirk, N. Y.

Mrs. Catharine Dolce was arrested on the charge of assault and, according to the police, admits she did the stabbing.

She says she did it to protect herself and a young man named Michael Grecco from injury at the hands of Schilling and some other young men.
At the time of the alleged assault Mrs.
Dolce was carrying a 7-month-old baby in her arms.

According to the story told to the police, Mrs. Dolce and Grecco were walking in the street and the latter stepped into the saloon, leaving the woman outside. While she waited, Schilling and his friends came out of the saloon and began to annoy her.
Mrs. Dolce says Grecco, hearing the men speaking to the woman, came from the saloon and took her part.

A quarrel resulted and it is said Schilling struck Grecco. Seeing her companion getting the worst of the fight, Mrs. Dolce says she took a knife from her pocket and struck at Schilling. The knife came in contact with a rib and will not prove serious.

Hanged to a Tree and Body Riddled With Bullets.

Rev. Ben Smith, the aged leader of Smith fled, but was pursued by a posse with bloodhounds and was cap-the town. Smith was brought back to town and hanged to a tree in sight of his home. Smith was very old, being white-headed and toothless, but for SANGUINARY BATTLE.

1,000 Killed and 600 Wounded in Fight at Torreon.

Both Federals and Insurrectos used Artillery With Deadly Effect—So Fierce Was the Fighting That Their Comrades Were Unable to Give Dying Men Water to Quench Their Thirst—Rebels Restored Order After Killing Several People Who Had Started to Riot and Burn Buildings.

Mexico City, May 23.—From reports received in this city the most sanguinary battle of the rebellion was fought at Torreon on May 13, 14 and 15. The accounts thus far given place the losses at 1,000 dead and 600 wounded.

The battle opened early on the morning of May 13 and lasted throughout the day, both sides using artillery with deadly effect. During the night there was a brief lull in the fighting, but it was renewed early on the 14th with great vigor on the part of both sides.

The dead bodies lay in heaps in the streets and many of the wounded died from the lack of medical attention. So fierce was the fighting that their comrades were unable even to give the dying men water to quench their thirst.

Federals Evacuate Town.

On the night of May 14 General Lo-gorio, commanding the garrison, called a council of his officers and it was decided to evacuate the town. The chief reason given for this was the fact that the supply of ammunition had become exhausted. According to the troops moved out on the morning of May 15 and, evading the enemy, marched south.

Immediately upon the leaving of the garrison, a mob formed in the streets and its members proceeded to kill, burn and rob. It was a repetition of the affair at Pachuca, except that it was on a much greater scale.

Armed with guns, the mobs surged through the town, killing all who opposed them or who attempted to protect their property. All the important business houses, including the banks were broken into and plundered of their contents, while many houses were burned. It is said that 250 Chinese were among the dead.

Rebels Restore Order.

It was nearly noon before the rebel forces entered the town and they made an effort to restore order at once.
This was objected to by the leaders of the mobs and troops were forced to shoot down many persons before they were able to establish patrols and bring about a semblance of order.

When this report was sent the rebel forces were in complete control of the situation.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL AIRSHIP

She Can Live in Two Elements, the Air and the Water.

London, May 23.—Great Britain's first naval airship was launched at Barrow in Furness yesterday morning. In her construction the Zeppelin idea was adopted with modifications.

The former is designed for maneuvering over land, while the new British ship, which has been built by Vickers Sons & Maxim, will be required to sout for Cays on and over the sea and is, therefore, larger than the German boat, being some 100 feet longer and also carries a greater quantity of supplies. She can live in two elements, the air and the water. When on the water the ship will be supported by a boat-shaped car.

The vessel is 510 feet long and 45 feet in diameter and has a lifting capacity of 21 tons. She is propelled by two eight cylinder motors of 100 and 200 horse power.

She is expected to develop a speed of 45 miles an hour. The new metal duralium is used throughout the vessel. It is the first time it has been used for any purpose so far as known.
Duralium is lighter than aluminum and stronger than steel. It is not liable to oxidation.

Utica, N. Y., May 23.—All known heat records for the month of May in August. Several cases of prostration occurred during the day.
