-The persistent use of the split-log drag for improving dirt roads by J. H. Alcorn, of Cherrytree township, is commencing to bear fruit. He has used the drag on a piece of road west of Gresham for the last two or three years in a proper manner and st the right time. His claims for the drag are that it will give the people the use of a good road from the time the frost goes out in the spring of the year until the fall rains set in. That will be one hundred per cent better than under the present system and at half the cost of maintenance, and that the farmers can work out their road tax a little at a time as the road needs it, when the soil on their farms is too wet to plow, plant or cultivate.-Franklin Spectator.

-The state laws regulating the care and protection of foodstuffs offered for sale by grocers and butchers are very sensibly drawn and the pure food department officials are to be commended in their determination to join hands with the health department in enforcing its provisions. Articles intended for human consumption ought never to be exposed to dust, much less to the contamination day, when he came up and spent the day of flies, dogs and cats. As a rule our merchants have been very careful in these respects and the officers whose duty it is to enforce the laws have seldom found it necessary to punish anyone for violating them. But vigilance should never be relaxed. Flies are now well known to be notorious disseminators of disease germs, and they should be barred from everything intended for tood. Merchants who are lax in keeping them off their goods ought not to be patronized by the public .- Titusville Courier.
