IDENTITY A MYSTERY

Body of Man Who Killed Railroad Detective Unclaimed.

Man Who Died in Brooks Hospital on Friday Night Was Extremely Reticent About His Life, Evidently Trying to Shield His Relatives From the Shame of His Untimely End. Other Items of General Interest.

The body of Harry Brown, who shot and killed Martin Peters, Lake Shore railroad detective, in a revolver duel in the Dunkirk yards on Thursday night and who in turn was the victim of a bullet from Peters' revolver, will be held by Coroner Blood in hope that someone will identify the man and lift the veil of mystery surrounding his life.

Brown, who died in the Brooks hospital Friday night, was reticent about his life and had little to say, through frequently questioned before his death. The police believe that he was silent for the purpose of shielding from shame his relatives, though Brown maintained that he had no relatives or friends.

Supposedly similarity of the circumstances surrounding the death of Martin Peters at Dunkirk and the death of Christ Reynolds, the railroad detective, who was killed in the West Seneca yards on April 18, leads the Dunkirk police to believe that Brown might have been the man who killed Reynolds. He was questioned about the matter shortly before his death, but denied any connection with Reynolds' death.

Coroner Blood has a process of embalming bodies which preserves them for months and Brown's body probably will not be buried for a long time unless his identity should be learned sooner.

Peters was buried Sunday afternoon.

PECULIAR SUICIDE
Woman Crossed in Love Kills Herself With a Feather Bed.

After a United States postoffice inspector had carefully gone over the books of the Orient (L. I.) postoffice and found the accounts in excellent condition, he complimented Miss Edith Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Terry, the postmistress.

The inspector learned with surprise several hours later, just as he was leaving Orient, that Miss Terry had gone home from the postoffice and had committed suicide. She did it by stuffing her mouth and nose carefully with cotton and then tying a stocking tightly about her throat and covering her head with a feather bed.

The reason given for Miss Terry's suicide was that her parents had opposed her marriage to Willis Latham, a well-to-do young farmer of Orient, because he was 10 years her junior, she being 35. It is believed that she delayed ending her life until after the visit of the postoffice inspector so that there would be no suspicion that her government accounts were wrong. On her way home she stopped to pay a dressmaker's bill.

In a three-cornered fight at the annual convention of the Sons of Veterans of the United States at Penn Yan, N. Y., E. W. Sanford of Albany was elected commander on the fourth ballot. William C. Klein, Syracuse, was a close second, and Stephen Ryan, Norwich, stayed in the field until the last. Itasca was chosen for the 1912 convention, winning over Glens Falls. Other officers elected are: Senior vice commander, J. C. Mumphy, Seneca Falls; junior vice commander, Charles H. Whitfield, Penn Yan; secretary, Walter Bellby, Rochester.

SHOT BASEBALL PLAYER

Theatrical Man Killed Member of Albany Team Found in His Wife's Company.

John V. McStea, who the police of Albany say, is a theatrical man from New Orleans, Thursday night at Albany shot Arthur Brown, first baseman on the Albany baseball team, whom McStea found with his wife.

McStea put four bullets into the baseball player and he died shortly after at the Homeopathic hospital. McStea got here early Thursday and learned that his wife was boarding at 236 South Pearl street and that Brown was a boarder there.

McStea went to the house and proceeded directly to Brown's room. Mrs. McStea was there. Brown and McStea got into a fight, which ended in the New Orleans man pulling a revolver and firing at Brown.

One bullet struck him in the left arm, another went through his liver, a third lodged in the lower part of his abdomen and the fourth went wild. Brown fell dying.

McStea coolly walked out to the street and told a policeman he had shot Brown and that he came all the way from New Orleans to get him. Brown is a native of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

SEVENTEEN YEAR LOCUSTS

Young Trees Are Being Seriously Damaged by Pests Along Hudson River.

Despite the fact that the New York state entomologist at Albany some time ago announced that the farmers and fruit growers had little to fear from the visit of the 17-year-old locusts, fruit growers in the fruit belt along the Hudson at Milton and Marlborough and throughout the county claim that their young trees are being seriously damaged if not killed by the locusts.

They show marks as if they might have been infested by a finely pointed cogwheel with pressure applied. In each of the cuts are three or four eggs. This condition is said to be general among young trees. Millions of locusts infest certain parts of Orange county and during the day there is a continuous roar through these districts likened to the blowing off of steam by hundreds of locomotives.

Wheat 2,000 Years Old Grows.
After lying in the tomb of an Egyptian mummy for probably more than 2,000 years, 10 grains sent to a Greeley (Colo.) farmer and planted west of that place germinated. From it eight stalks of wheat have grown, and this promises a variety of wheat superior to any growing in that locality.

PLUNGED TO DEATH.

E. A. Rowland Accidentally Drowned in Trenton Falls.

Mr. Rowland Had Planned the Trip to the Falls For the Purpose of Giving John Burroughs, the Naturalist, the Opportunity to View the Scenic Splendor of This Noted Place—Victim's Wife and Daughter Witnessed Tragedy.

Utica, N. Y., June 20.—Eugene A. Rowland of Rome, United States commissioner of that city and one of the leading lawyers in Central New York, fell into the gorge at Trenton Falls, 15 miles north of Utica yesterday afternoon and was drowned.

At the time of the accident Mr. Rowland was walking with John Burroughs, the naturalist, along a path running along the side of the gorge.

In some way Mr. Rowland slipped and plunged into the stream a distance of 12 to 15 feet. The accident happened about 400 feet above the power house.

Mr. Rowland succeeded in keeping his head above water for some minutes by swimming in the somewhat turbulent water, but his strength rapidly failed him.

Unable to Revive Victim.
Mr. Rowland went down and was completely submerged for almost a minute when an employe of the power house succeeded in getting him from the water. He was removed to the power station and futile attempt made to revive him.

Mr. Rowland had planned the trip to Trenton Falls for the purpose of giving John Burroughs, the aged naturalist, an opportunity to view the scenic splendor of this noted place. They had spent several hours in rambling about the gorge and its vicinity when the accident happened.

With Mr. Rowland besides Mr. Burroughs were his wife and daughter and two other friends.

BURNS MUST APPEAR

Indianapolis Judge Orders Him Produced There by July 15 or Forfeit $10,000 Bond.

Indianapolis, June 20.—Judge Markey of the criminal court made an order yesterday that J. A. G. Badoff and Walter Drew of the National Erectors' association, Assistant District Attorney Ford of Los Angeles and Frank P. Fox, who drove the automobile that carried John J. McNamara from Indianapolis, whose discharge on the charge of kidnaping McNamara was recommended Saturday by the grand jury, shall be further held under bond for further investigation.

Judge Markey wishes to examine the evidence presented to the grand jury concerning the kidnaping charges against the men. The judge also has ordered the Illinois Surety company, bondsmen for Detective William J. Burns, to produce the latter in court July 15, or forfeit the bond of $10,000. Burns is now in Europe.

The possibility has arisen that an effort may be made through Prosecutor Baker to have John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the Iron Workers' organization, surrendered at once by the California authorities and brought back to Indianapolis to be tried on the local indictment charging him with conspiracy to bring about dynamite explosions at Peoria, Ill.

WOOL BILL NEXT UP

Democratic Leaders Plan to Pass Measure in House Today.

Washington, June 20.—The Democratic leaders plan to pass the wool revision bill in the house today. The next business will be a bill proposing radical changes in the cotton schedule of the existing tariff law. This measure is now being framed by the committee on ways and means.

The indications are that it will not be ready for presentation for a week or more. Until the committee is ready to act on this bill the house will take three days recesses.

The house was in action less than an hour yesterday. Had it not been for the Taft silver wedding there would have been a prolonged fight over the Anderson bill which proposes to add $50,000,000 to the pension roll.

Under the rules the first and third Mondays in each month are devoted to the consideration of the bills on the private calendar. The first bill was quickly disposed of and then came the Anderson bill. For many weeks the Democrats have prevented consideration of this measure.

After a little preliminary skirmish Mr. Underwood moved an adjournment. This was carried by a substantial majority.

Root Amendment Goes Over.

Washington, June 20.—The opponents of Canadian reciprocity again showed reluctance to begin the assault upon the bill and after an agreement was reached by which consideration of the Root amendment went over until tomorrow, when Senator Root will speak in its advocacy. The senate indulged in a field day, marked by brisk clashes on a diversity of subjects.

Impossible proposals of support for Canadian reciprocity in exchange for support for various other tariff revision measures and amendments to be added to the Canadian bill, were made but met with counter proposals and there was no meeting of the various minds.

STOKES' ASSAILANTS ARE STILL IN JAIL.

Girls' Bail Reduced to $5,000 But No Bondsmen Appear.

New York, June 20.—W. E. D. Stokes, who is at Long Branch recovering from wounds he received from Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, was unable to appear yesterday afternoon at the hearing before Magistrate Freschi to determine whether bail should be reduced and the charge of attempted murder be reduced to assault. Mr. Stokes sent a letter to District Attorney Whitman saying he hoped to appear next Thursday.

When Mr. Stokes did not show up at 2 p. m. Magistrate Freschi went to the girls' apartment in the Veruna to examine the bullet holes in the walls and furniture. Mr. Stokes' attorney and the lawyer for the young women accompanied him.

At 4:20 p. m. when the magistrate held court again in the district attorney's office, he accepted Lawyer Moore's opinion that the bail under which the girls have been held recently, $10,000 apiece, was excessive and reduced it to $5,000 apiece.

Lawyer Moore thought a bondsman would be on hand but he was disappointed and the girls went back to the Tombs for the night.

The German advices state that the vessel is now flying the Haytian flag, which shows that the purchase money for the ship must have been paid by that government, which contracted for her with the Ecuadorian consul at Berlin.

The vessel has been renamed the Antoine Simon, after the president of Hayti. She is still at Port au Prince.

WICKERSHAM DECRIES POPULAR GOVERNMENT

Condemns Arizona's Constitution in Address to Students.

New York, June 20.—"Popular government," as provided by the Arizona constitution, including the initiative, referendum and recall, was condemned yesterday by United States Attorney General Wickersham in an address before the Yale law school.

"It is an abuse of language to call such a scheme of government 'popular,'" said Mr. Wickersham. "It is an attempt to create a government of all the people by a small minority of the people. To adopt it would be to subject great institutions, which are the growth and evolution of centuries of American experience, the devices of the French revolution and Swiss Socialism."

Mr. Wickersham's subject was "New States and Constitutions." He quoted Bryce and Woodrow Wilson on the recent tendency in state constitutions to grow long and cumbersome, and said that the constitution of Oklahoma was inordinately large, a large part of its provisions having no place in the fundamental laws, tested by established American standards.

"The distinctive American plan of government under fundamental law, framed with a view to its continuance unless changed with equal solemnity, is absolutely at variance with the new scheme of government by initiative referendum and recall, embodied in the constitutions of Oklahoma and Arizona."
