A PROFESSION of chemistry stopped a runaway horse by throwing ammonia in its face. As a last resort it may be necessary to use this method on the Democratic House.

WOODROW WILSON says he is two kinds of a democrat. He will have to be more kinds than that if he is going to get the support of all the varieties.

THE Canadian reciprocity bill passed the Senate Saturday by a vote of 53 to 27. Senator Penrose voted for the bill, and Senator Oliver voted "no". It is expected the President will attach his signature to the measure today, and then it will be up to our Canuck brethren to ratify the treaty.

LEWIS NIXON, the well known naval architect who designed several war ships for the United States government, is in an interview in New York, says he is convinced that the battle ship Maine was blown up from the outside. Mr. Nixon bases his conclusions on the evidence of an eye witness, whose story has not yet been published.

RECENTLY lightning sought out and struck a man who was working in a coal mine in this state, 1,500 feet underground, and who was totally unaware that a storm was raging. The news report that the bolt "followed the intake of the air current" reveals a danger not commonly appreciated. Lightning is attracted to or deflected from an object by the slightest of influences, and a draught serves as one of its surest conductors. The incident makes timely a statement of the conclusions reached by a British investigator as to conditions of safety in thunder storms. The main thing when out in the fields is to avoid becoming the most prominent object in the landscape. There is relative safety in a cluster of trees, but danger under an isolated tree. The same conditions apply to isolated huts or out-houses. As secure refuge as can be found is a house in a row of uniform height. These conclusions only repeat the old Roman proverb—"The tallest pine is first struck." One precaution not always observed is to avoid sitting by an open window or fireplace or near a gas or electric fixture during a storm.—Blizzard.

WHILE we do not presume to speak unadvisedly, we incline to think there must have been a couple of bosses around somewhere in the underbrush when that Democratic state convention rent itself in twain and organized as a double-header. From certain accusations rendered against bosses in the Republican party at divers times past we had believed that their presence was unknown in Democratic circles. But there are indications that two men, each of whom commences his name with a capital "G," were in the bossing business just a trifle over at Harrisburg. The courts will probably be required to say who of these two it is and why.—Titusville Herald.

WE have a primary election campaign coming on now, and it should be conducted in a rational and decent way. Let the boodler who tells the candidate how his fences are all down "out in our section," and how they can be repaired by handing the said boodler a five or a ten be treated as a joke. Elections should be influenced by intelligent arguments, with the good of the public service as the only criterion, and the man who tries to buy an office should be placed in the same category with the fellow whose "influence" is for sale.—Puny Spirit. Right you are, neighbor. Let the boodler and the boodled be swatted whenever either sticks up his miserable pate. A few salty jail sentences would be just the caper, and as sure as fate, they will be forthcoming sooner, perhaps, than some may think.

A SMALL boy of my acquaintance when told that his alleged strawberry jam was probably made of pomace from cider-mills, sweetened with glucose, and supplied with hay seeds or tomato seeds, to make it look natural, said: "I don't care; it looks like jam, and tastes like jam. What difference does it make?" This seems to be the case with more people than my small boy friend. They do not seem to mind being the victims of fraud; as long as what they get resembles what they want, they don't seem to care whether or not they are getting what they pay for. They entrust their marketing to the telephone, servants or children, and when it comes home they never question whether the butcher, baker, or other food vender, has sent their money's worth; and, too, they never investigate to see whether the real thing or a substitute of foodless filler has been sent, and not only their pocket-books are cheated, but often all the family is harmed from eating things which put the human system to a great amount of unnecessary work to carry off the enormous amount of waste. And instead of being given extra nutriment for the extra work, it is getting even less than its normal amount. The result is a weakened body structure, less able to stand the wear and tear, and more vulnerable to disease.—The Ladies' World for August.

THE muckraking plans of the Democratic congress are surely going amiss. Admittedly it was right and proper to make some inquiries into conditions and things when the political complexion of the American congress was changed. That change, of course, was wrought largely through false pretense and that false pretense was by no means a monopoly with either of the two great political parties. Each shared in the general deception of the people until discontent and unrest became an infection. But the inquiries and investigations set afoot after the Democrats took charge of the lower House of Congress were costly and have not panned out in any sense other than to provide the Democrats with material for stump speeches during the coming national campaign. Every successful corporation, most of them manned by individuals larger in every sense than the trouble-hunting Congressmen, have been disturbed and annoyed by a series of investigations and a constant nagging which has impeded progress and has unsettled business affairs. Every bit of industrial gossip, every report, whether prompted by malice or ignorance, has been hunted down by the Congressional investigators, not for the public good so much as for campaign material, and all at the expense of the whole people.

A Good Man Retained. State Highway Commissioner Bigelow did the sensible thing and pleased a host of people in this section of the state when he retained W. A. Wynn of Warren as one of the fifteen division engineers provided for under the Sprout bill. Citizens of Tionesta and vicinity who know Mr. Wynn and have noted his excellent work in roadmaking affairs hereabouts will see much good sense and business acumen in Commissioner Bigelow's first move in the direction of keeping experienced and conscientious men on the job. We like what the Warren Mirror has to say of this appointment and so give it here: "Mr. Wynn has been in the highway department during the last six years and has performed the duties that have fallen to him in a manner above criticism. His past work was his strongest recommendation and principally instrumental in his reappointment. Commissioner Bigelow intends to have none but the best in his department, in fact he asserts that that is the only way in which he can bring the department up to the point of efficiency that he hopes to attain. In view of that method, the appointment of Mr. Wynn can only be looked upon as exceedingly complimentary of the work done by him. Mr. Wynn's headquarters will continue to be in Warren and the division that he will have charge of includes Erie, Crawford, Warren, Forest, McKean and Elk. Mr. Wynn is allowed the appointment of an assistant and he has named T. A. Jenkins, who has been with him during the last five years. All state roads constructed in this division will be under the supervision of Mr. Wynn and his assistant. Both are capable engineers and their experience in road building assures the residents of the six counties under their charge that none but thoroughly modern methods will be employed in the construction of the roads. Later on it is probable that Mr. Wynn's office in the Warren Savings Bank Building will be besieged by township supervisors from all parts of the division, as the local engineers will be expected to render advice and assistance in the construction of all dirt roads."

Commissioner Waldo Says Situation Is Largely Due to Greed of Ice Companies. New York, July 18.—Police Commissioner Waldo sent his report on the "business" to the mayor. He concludes that "the present situation is largely due to the greed of the ice companies." Wesley M. Oler, president of the Knickerbocker, who called District Attorney Whitman, said at the statement was "damnable." Several other statements in the commissioner's report, Mr. Oler contradicted. He said that Mr. Waldo was excellent police commissioner, but were several things about the business that he did not know. Among other things Mr. Waldo says his report: "From investigation his department the amount of ice used in the ice houses along the Hudson appears to be plentiful. Every effort would be made to inure against a recurrence of the suffering entailed upon the people in the aged districts, where the price of ice became prohibitive."

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT. Death of Ford Car in France Badly Hurt and His Mechanic Killed. Paris, July 18.—Henri DePasse, the driver in France of the Ford automobile, was injured and his mechanic, a man named Emsault, was instantly killed in an accident near Lyons yesterday. DePasse was speeding alone at a fast clip when suddenly the front tire flew off. The machine skidded and crashed into a bounded and after describing a wide circle, hit another tree. The car was torn apart by the two impacts and the occupants were hurled into a ditch. Emsault's head was washed and one of his arms torn off. He was instantly killed. DePasse suffered several contusions, but his leg is not endangered. The car was going at the rate of 75 miles an hour when the accident occurred.

Mayburg Wins an Exciting Ball Game at Sheffield. MAYBURG, Pa., July 22, 1911. Yesterday Manager Zuber took his nine to Sheffield, where they defeated the last Sheffield team. At the end of the ninth inning the score stood 6 to 1. That Mayburg has a bunch of ball players this score plainly shows. In the first inning Mayburg by hard hitting scored a lead of two runs. They maintained this lead throughout the game, adding two in the fifth and one in both the sixth and eighth innings. Sheffield scored in the fourth on a fielder's error, which score was their first and last, for they were unable to pass first after this inning. Orris' work as a slab-artist deserves stronger adjectives than I have at my command. He allowed only three hits to be marked against him. Equally commendable was the work of Hoy, Harris and Stricklenburger in the infield. Richards' clout for two bases in the seventh made out for two people in the seventh and some Sheffield people sit up and take notice. Several comments were heard during the game as to where Mayburg got Stugar, their worker behind the bat. He isn't big, but for back-stop work—well just come and watch him work. The score:

—There is more Catarah in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and proffered local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarah to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarah Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
